The President's Easter Guests

THE president of the United States fittingly enough has perhaps the largest and certainly the most attractive back yard of any resident of this republic. Ordinarily this back yard at the White House is about as quiet and deserted a place as one could imagine. It is only at rare intervals that any member of the presidential household (for whose use it is reserved) is seen walking about the parklike expanse, and it isn't often that this stretch of lawn is made to serve as a playground—that function of so many less conspicuous "back yards" up and down the land.

However, there is one day at this smiling season of the year when the president's big back yard is anything but deserted. It is on a Monday, too—Easter Monday, to be exact. Now, you know Monday is "wash day," and in the ordinary household it is the one day of the week when if the weather is nice mother needs the back yard and Johnny and Susie and all the rest are admonished that for the time being they must find some other place to play. Not so at the White House, however. As a matter of fact, the family wash at the executive mansion is hung to dry in a lattice screened enclosure that occupies only the smallest corner of the big back yard, but even at that the colored "mummies" in the presidential laundry could scarcely be induced to do the washing on this particular Monday, for Easter Monday has been from time-out-of-mind the occasion of the great annual egg rolling festival on the White House grounds and is in consequence regarded as something of a holiday throughout the capital city.

On the day following Easter the president's back yard not only assumes the normal and rightful function of all back yards as a playground for young people, but it does it in no half hearted fashion. It is the one occasion of the year when during an entire day these private grounds are open to the public, and the democratic invitation is universal. Any child is free to come and go at will, without any card of admission, and they do come in swarms that cover the greensward and have been variously estimated at from 10,000 to 30,000 in different years—dependent somewhat upon the state of the weather.

During the past few years an important change has been made in the management of the president's back yard on Easter Monday, with a view to reserving it for the children who are its tenants for seven or eight blissful hours. Before this change was made it was found that the crowds attracted by this annual spectacle were assuming such proportions that they were not only difficult to handle; but, worse yet, they seriously hampered the youngsters in their egg rolling. In the old days everybody who came, young or old, was admitted to the egg rolling. But the odd antics of the little folks at their unique pastime proved a magnet for sightseers, who come not merely from Washington, but from towns far and wide. Particularly in the afternoon, when there is a band concert on the lawn, did the crowds become so dense that it was impossible for the juvenile visitors to romp freely, much less roll eggs, in the traditional fashion. Accordingly there was put into force the new rule, which reserves the big yard primarily for children and stipulates that no adults shall be admitted unless accompanied by children. This allows the attendance of the little tots who require the presence of mother or nurse to look after them.

A Favorite Easter Trip.

The schoolteachers and public school pupils throughout the country seem to have by common consent adopted Easter week as the ideal interval for a sightseeing trip to Washington. They have been going by the thousands each Easter these past few years, and they besiege the White House office building in throngs—for the chief aim and purpose of this class of visitors is to actually shake hands with the president instead of merely inspecting his house and gazing at his estate, as do most sightseers. And, moreover, the president, being good natured and imbued with something of the Easter spirit, usually grants the requests of these Easter pilgrims who clamor for an audience.

COME UNTO ME, ALL YE CHAFED LABOR

"Duffy's Has Kept Us Young, Mother"

What a pleasing picture is a healthy and happy old couple—their eyes bright, brain alert, and disposition amiable. It's always a pleasure to enjoy their friendship and a constant delight to be closely associated with them.

To delay the effects of old age and bring back the vivacity of youth, many medical men prescribe Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a reliable stimulant. Certain it is that thousands who have reached the grand old age willingly extol

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

With its prescribed advice of a "tablespoonful in water just before meals and on going to bed," Duffy's has earned the undoubted reputation of an excellent tonic-stimulant for temperate use. Being an absolutely pure distillation of thoroughly malted grain, it prompts the stomach to healthy action, promotes digestion and assimilation of the food, enriches the blood, and brings strength and vigor to the system. It is truly a "Medicine for all Mankind"—for medicinal purposes only. Why not have a bottle in your home to guard against illness, or in cases of emergency? Better sedge it now—before you forget.

"Get Duffy's and Keep Well"

Sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY. Beware of imitations.

NOTE

Get Duffy's from your local druggist, grocer or dealer, $1.00 per bottle. If he cannot supply you, write us. Useful household booklet free.
