The Story Chenoworth Tells

By ELINOR MARSH

Miss Marjorie Mackenzie emerged from a mammoth department store and looked about for a taxicab. There were several automobiles drawn up to the sidewalk. Miss Mackenzie inquired of several chauffeurs whether they were disengaged, receiving answers from some that the conveyances they drove were private, from others that they were waiting for persons in the store.

Home Cookery

Park Shank With Beans. Select a shank with a nice piece of meat on it and chop in pieces. Put in a kettle and cover with boiling water. Drain at once and then add enough water to keep from scorching.

China Chili With Rice. Simmer together for half an hour two tablespoonsful of butter, half a can of French peas, a small blade of mace, one pint of rich brown gravy and salt and pepper to taste.

Escaloped Cheese. Put a layer of breadcrumbs in the bottom of a greased baking dish, then a layer of soft crumbled cheese and proceed until the dish is nearly full.

Browned Macaroni. Stew some noodles or macaroni in salt water until tender and drain. Have a tablespoonful of butter browned in the skillet, add some fine bread or cracker crumbs, a small handful of either will be about right, and when brown stir in the noodles and serve.

Tomato Patties. A pint of tomatoes, enough cracker crumbs to thicken the liquid, add a beaten egg, pinch of salt and pepper and half cupful of flour. Form into patties, roll in cracker crumbs and fry. Serve on lettuce leaf.

Good Kitchen Floors Conducive to Health

The rapidly growing science of bacteriology is teaching the housewife that diseases are lurking not only in contaminated food and dirty wash rag, but in the cracks and joints of the poorly constructed kitchen floor.

A properly constructed kitchen floor is made either of narrow, vertical grained, kiln dried hard pine-south yellow-pine-hard maple-red-oak or white oak. Flooring lumber is only from a half to seven-eighths of an inch in thickness, but a good kitchen floor is usually laid on a construction of stock boards and underlaid by two or three thicknesses of tar paper.

Preserving Eggs.

Eggs to be preserved should preferably be infertile and only a day old. They should also be clean, but not washed, as washing makes them porous, allowing the solution to enter.

A Back Yard Fernery.

A fernery in the back yard is a spot to conjure with. The north or shady side is most fitting, and it may include the hardy brakes, which are to be planted in the center, as they grow tallest, often to a height of four feet.

Kitchen Utensils.

Kitchen utensils of aluminum are attractive and of light weight. There is no danger of chipping or rusting with this material. It is desirable for many processes of cooking, as it heats rapidly.

To Prevent Hangnails.

Rub the finger tips well every night with a good oil. Do not overlook the edge of the nail all around.

Wise Observations

We could all get rich if we had the other fellow's opportunities. Some fellows are so careful about wasting energy that they never work at all.

THE FARMER.

Whoever could make two ears of corn or two blades of grass to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before would deserve better of mankind and do more essential service to the country than the whole race of politicians put together.

Around the House

Before peeling oranges heat them in the oven a few minutes, and the white inner skin will come off with the rind. If a little milk is added to the water in boiling, old potatoes will not turn dark.

Rice, if washed in hot water instead of cold, will be freed from starch and dirt more quickly.

If bacon is soaked a few minutes in water before it is fried it will retain more fat than if cooked in the ordinary way. The addition of a few drops of lemon juice and a dash of paprika greatly improve its flavor.

A paste of three parts of flour and one of salt wet with vinegar will clean copper utensils quickly.

To make good bread it must be kneaded a lot, at least kneaded down twice, and if you have the time the third time is better.

In turning hem in napkins, rub well with soap; then you have no trouble to hem them.

After the dishes are finished at night and the last bit of dishwasher has been poured down the drain, follow it by a strong solution of hot washing soda, which prevents the accumulation of grease in the pipes.

When putting new linoleum down never put tacks in it, and it will wear longer.

Suitable Foods For a Child of Three Years

According to the United States department of agriculture, every healthy child of three should have at least one food a day from each of the following five groups:

- First.—Milk and dishes made chiefly of milk (most important of this group in children's diet); meat, fish, poultry and eggs. Second.—Bread and other cereal foods. Third.—Butter and other wholesome fats. Fourth.—Vegetables and fruits. Fifth.—Simple sweets.

The meats should be beef, broiled, broiled or roasted; lamb chops, the white meat of chicken, or delicate fish. All meat should be free from fat, gristle or bone and finely minced when given to the child.

Eggs should be very soft boiled, scrambled or poached or soft scrambled. Fried eggs should never be given to a child, but the grated or mashed yolk of a very hard boiled egg may sometimes be used.

Cereals should be thoroughly cooked and served with milk or thin cream, and a very small amount of sugar or none.

Fruits should be continually used. At this age sweet oranges, baked apples or stewed prunes are most useful. A child under four years of age should never have dried or salted meats, sausage, pork, game, liver, kidney, goose or duck. Fried and fat vegetables, hot fresh bread, cakes and pastries, mince, candy, syrups, coffee, beer, cider and soda water are all unsuitable foods for a child.

A SAFE RULE.

It is a good and wise rule to learn in every place, as if you might be asked your life there, never omitting an opportunity of doing a kindness or speaking a true word or making a friend.

Light as Chaff

Take a Chance. "Where's your lawyer?" inquired the judge.

"Haven't any. Haven't any money." "Do you want a lawyer?" "Yes, your honor."

"There are Mr. Gellings, Mr. Chubb and Mr. Withers," the judge told the prisoner, pointing to the three young attorneys waiting, hunched and breathless, for something to turn up, "and Mr. Alexander is out in the corridor."

The accused eyed the budding attorneys, and after a critical survey decided wherein lay his best chance. "I'll take Mr. Alexander," the Country Gentleman.

Went Too Far. An attorney was consulted by a woman desirous of bringing action against her husband for divorce.

She related a harrowing tale of the ill treatment she had received at his hands. So impressive was her recital that the lawyer for a moment was started out of his usual professional composure.

"From what you say this man must be a brute of the worst type?" he exclaimed. "The applicant for divorce arose and with severe dignity announced: "Mr. I shall consult another lawyer. If I came here to get advice as to a divorce, not to hear my husband abused"
