No House is Modern Without Electric Light

For those who appreciate the best of everything in their homes, there is but one light—electric light. It is clean and sanitary, it eliminates fire risks, its clear, soft radiance brightens and beautifies every part of the home. Every socket in the home that is wired offers all the convenience that electricity can give power for the motor washer, heat for the flatiron, curling iron, toaster, broiler or warming pad—none expensive in maintenance.

SPECIAL OPPORTUNITY NOW

Now is the time to have your house wired. By taking advantage of our special house-wiring offer you are precluded to pay for the work in easy payments.

If you have an ordinary eight room house this will mean about $10.00 per month for twelve months.

It is a simple matter to install electric in your house at any time. No plaster is torn from the walls, no floor and wall decorations are disfigured.

Some time when you are down town call and talk the matter over with us. It will afford us pleasure to explain our proposition in detail.

The Dying Miner.

Over the undulating Pennsylvania Mountains, following the Redskins trail, A Pioneer of the early forties, before the advent of the steel rail, Neither Ermine or Purple wore he, but a determined look to stay, 'Twas the Rev. Father Michael Scanlan for the Church of Christ blazing the way.

Along the picturesque Alpine Valley where the Norway Pine silhouette's the sky, Accompanied by the Panther's scream and the Susquehanna serenely gliding by, While the woods with melody resounded and the brown thrush piped his lay, To cheer the Rev. Father Michael Scanlan, while blazing the way.

The highway-man and church burner, A friendly call on him to be, But he could protect as well as preach, no tenderfoot was he, They changed for the Cross their emblems, and with him remained to pray, 'Twas the Rev. Father Michael Scanlan's personality, that blazed the way.

Sorrow it supplanted joy in Hazelton, 'Twas the dreaded cavern of the mine, While the moon onto Nesquehoning Valley, deflected the bright sunshine, To light the rescuers on their mission, not one behind did stay, 'Twas the Mauch-Chunk volunteers, through the deadly mine gas blazed the way.

High above the earthquake's rumble, far-reaching to the sky, Seeking Heavenly consolation, rose the Dying Miner's cry, Reverberating through the Valley, where the fever-stricken priest lay, It was duty calling the Rev. Father Michael Scanlan to blaze the way.

He brought comfort to the Dying, and dried the Orphan's tear, To the little Cemetery on the Mountain-side, he followed the Miner's Bier, Then it's back to Beaver-Meadow, twenty miles or more away, While Death for Rev. Father Michael Scanlan blazed the way.

K. of C. Picnic July 31st, at Manitou Beach

This year's picnic of Rochester Council, No. 173, Knights of Columbus, promises to excel all previous efforts of the organization in such things. The committees are working hard to set a new mark for the affair, which will be held at Manitou Beach on Thursday, July 31st.

"Everybody welcome, everything free," the slogan of the Knights of Columbus in their war work, is the motto of the committee in charge of the picnic. To that end, Jake Carey and Edward P. Rigney, who has just returned from war work in France for the Knights, are working to see that all service men in Rochester on that day will have an opportunity to attend the picnic on the same basis upon which they were welcomed to the K. C. huts here and abroad while they were in service.

K. of C. Men Honored

New York, July 21.—James A. Flaherty, Philadelphia, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, and Joseph C. Pelletier, Boston, have been made knights commander of St. Gregory the Great for their work among soldiers, it was announced in a cablegram from Rome today.

Last Sunday, the sixth after Pentecost, was banner day at Our Lady of Lebanon Chapel and Camp Madonna at Mentieth's Point, Canandaigua Lake. Mass was celebrated at 9:15 by the Rev. James T. Dougherty of St. Mary's Church. Bishop Thomas F. Hickey, spoke at this mass.

Many Kinds of "Money."

Anything that is used in trade as a medium of exchange or a measure of value, recognized alike by both parties to a transaction, is money. It may be swampus, skins of animals, shells, metal or paper, but if by government authority or by common consent it is recognized as a medium of exchange or a measure of value it is money. Even live animals have served the purposes and uses of money.

Queer Post Office Names.

Strange names have been given to post offices in the United States according to the list issued by the post office department. In Missouri there is an Ace; in West Virginia, Amity; a Barefoot in Georgia; a Bigfoot in Texas; in Idaho, a Blowout; in Missouri, a Braggadocio; a Chuckle in North Carolina; a Difficulty in Wyoming; in Texas, a town called Mud.

From The Saturday Evening Post

When the brew master turns from beer to ice cream he finds a field in which he can distinguish himself.

The brew master is an all round citizen occasionally, and when you know a little about his training and ability you will want to keep him in the community no matter how try things get. First of all he is a chemist and therefore accustomed to working with exact quantities of ingredients. Then he is expert in fermentation and other delicate and more or less invisible transformations that his products undergo in process. Furthermore he has been dealing with food materials in the making of brewed drinks. There may be room to argue about the food value of his finished products. Fortunately grain itself is unquenchably food and has to be handled like food with scrupulous cleanliness and control of process in the making of beer. A visit to a modern brewery will reveal glass-enameled vats and containers, scientific sterilization and thoroughly sanitary surroundings. Dirt has always been the brew master's enemy, for in addition to being dirt it may bring into his processes all sorts of mongrel spores and germs, filled with feistiness.

Ice cream has been built largely from the distilling end, with rather haphazard manufacturing in many cases. Not every ice cream maker has gone to school to learn chemical exactness and laboratory cleanliness.

So the brew master steps in here and by the application of his training and experience, turns out a uniform superior quality of ice cream. He finds no difficulty in turning his self from beer formulas to ice cream formulas. His knowledge of the character and habits of bacteria is of great advantage to him in handling milk products. The ice cream maker with out chemical training may turn out batches of ice cream that vary from day to day like the humors of the housewife who uses a cupful of this and a teaspoonful of that empirically.

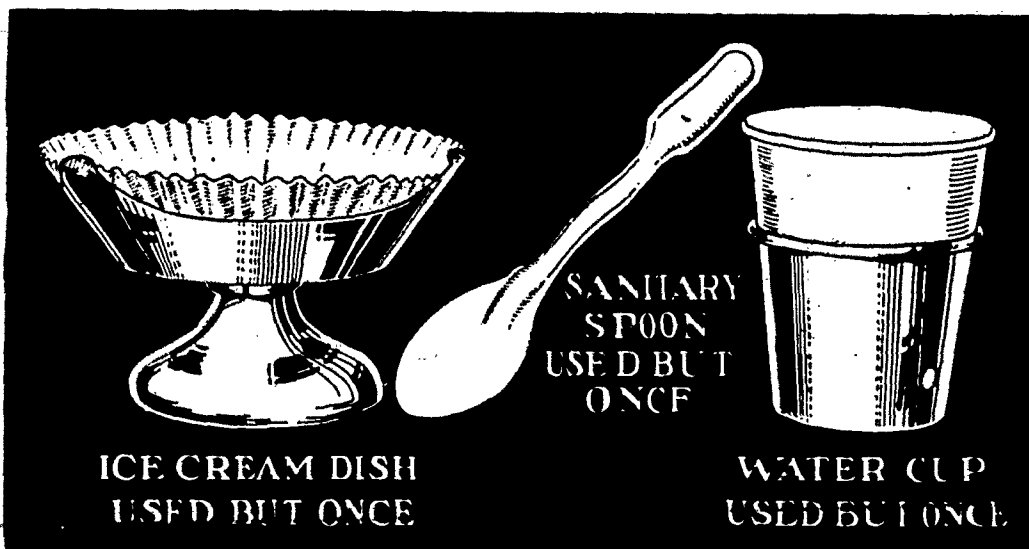

The dishes and cups are of immaculate white paper inserted in Silver holders—each spoon is enclosed in a glassine sealed envelope. The dish, cup and spoon are destroyed after each service—The holders which the ice cream never touches are permanent.

Get ready for a real treat when Bartholomay Quality Ice Cream appears—Look for the Bartholomay Quality signs which will be displayed wherever this good ice cream is served.

This ice cream, supreme in Quality and Purity, will be sold ONLY through dealers in BULK and BRICK.

As soon as it is ready for distribution an advertisement will appear in this and other newspapers giving a list of dealers who will handle it.

We look for the generous approval of the public and will abide by its decision.
