CHOOSE FURS NOW

Novelties for Coming Season Have Made Their Appearance.

Dolman, It Is Predicted, Will Be a Leader for Fall Wear—Designs in Square Cut Short Coats Shown.

Midsummer fur sales this year have many novelties to offer, not so much in new pelts as in the shape and general style design of the garments. The dolman is to be a leader. It is said, and it will appear in a variety of lengths. For the woman who likes extreme styles a number of fitted models are being brought out. One of the newest is called the "rolling" because it is really cut much on the same general style line as the roll-neck dress, with fitted bodice section and long skirt of peplum, usually cut away in front so that a front panel of the skirt or dress over which it is worn may be seen.

Another novelty is the square cut short coat with loose panel back, collar and cuffs of fur contrasting with that used for the coat proper. Collars, especially when made of a different fur from that used for the coat, are usually enormous affairs, really large enough to qualify as small separate capes.

The smart little neckpiece of one or two skins sold in the spring will not be discarded immediately by Dame Fashion, and the woman who owns one may wear it with perfect serenity right through the autumn days as an accompaniment for her tailored street frock or untrimmed tailored suit. Mink, marten and sable were the most used pelts for these smart little neckpieces. They were shown made of one, two or three skins, the smaller ones being little more than choker collars.

COVERS FOR THE BIRDCAGE

Decorative as Well as Useful Articles That May Be Made in Moments of Idleness.

Our sketch illustrates two useful types of covers to make for a birdcage, that require little more than cutting out. They can be carried out in linen, art serge, or, in fact, almost any remnant of material that may be handy. They are bound at the edges with narrow ribbon.

The space enclosed in the dotted line in the diagrams should correspond in size with the top of the birdcage, and the four flaps hang downwards on each side. In the center of the cover a small oval space is cut away, through which the handle of the cage may pass, so that the cover can be comfortably slipped over the cage in a moment. If desired, some pretty little floral design can be embroidered on three of the flaps, and possibly the name of the bird worked upon the fourth.

Diagram A gives the shape of the cover that is shown upon the cage in the sketch, and diagram B gives the shape of a similar cover, but with square flaps to hang downwards.

LATEST DESIGNS IN SHOES

Colonial Pumps Are Smartest—Orders for Day Dress Come in Various Shapes and Materials.

The colonial pump is the smart shoe of the season. To be sure oxfords are also worn for day dress. They are rather high and are laced not with ribbons, as they were last year, but with tubular silk laces. They are made in kid suede and black satin. And the lacing holes are bound with metal. But the colonial pumps are newer. They, like the oxfords, have French heels of medium height, almost invariably with a little metal layer that is now used to help keep the heels even.

They are made in black and brown, and in great variety. Sometimes a buckle of jet or steel is fastened at the bottom of the lacing tongue. One striking and attractive type of colonial pump has the sides of the tongue fastened to the shoe. This holds the shoe on, at the same time giving the attractive silhouette of the regulation colonial pump.

Raffia Trims Taffeta Gowns.

Raffia embroidery is the latest thing for decorating gowns made of taffeta. For example, on black taffeta appear a few sprays of dull pink roses with dark green and brown leaves or trails of blackberry berries worked on mild light blue taffeta. Little flecks of silver brightening up the whole thing. More than ever we are calling for embroideries.

"UNDIES" OF SOLID COLORS

Though at First Thought They May Seem Bizarre, They Are Really Quite Practical.

Undergarments developed in black and a great range of solid colors seem bizarre and rather absurd at first glance, but when one considers that, regardless of the season or occasion for which they are intended, outer garments are now made of the most transparent fabrics, the need of things that match or blend with them will be easily realized. Pottant combinations and separate camisoles are shown for next season made of black chiffon and georgette combined with black lace, of all-over lace in black or of either of the first named fabrics trimmed with fine rick, brown work, etc.

Emphasizing the tendency to match undergarments with outer apparel, chemises and combinations are now being shown made of brown georgette and other sheer silks. Brown has already been heralded as a leading color for outer apparel for next season and manufacturers of items of lingerie have not been slow to follow this lead.

Bloomers will continue to be in great demand next season, it seems certain, as narrow skirts and voluminous petticoats are an impossible combination.

Crepe de chine and washable satin are the two fabrics most used in the development of undergarments for fall and winter, and various laces, dainty hand embroidery or insets of georgette are favorite trimming touches.

Two-piece pajamas are very popular, because they may serve either as sleeping or lounging garments.

SOMETHING NEW IN APRONS

Young Woman With Ideas Tells How She Adapted Glazed Chintz With Remarkably Good Effect.

A young woman who very much admired the bright glazed chintz which formed the window shades, slipcovers and overcurtains in a friend's home was presented with a yard-long remnant to be used "for a pillow cover."

But as the young woman in question felt that glazed chintz would not make especially pleasing or comfortable covers for down pillows she planned another use for the gay patterned fabric.

A circular apron pattern that crossed over in the back and buttoned on the shoulders was chosen. The chintz was cut very carefully with straight, even edges and bound all the way around with rose-colored linen braid just the shade of the most prominent flowers in the pattern. Rose-colored pearl buttons finished the shoulders. Because of its smooth finish this apron did not become soiled nearly so quickly as one of ordinary gingham, but when it did require laundering was treated to an extra amount of starch and ironed on the right side while damp.

"It's odd," remarked a woman, "how the dullest of women's luncheons—and oh! how dull they can be!—will suddenly take a turn for the better when some one broaches a bit of gossip. It puts new life into everything."

SIMPLE GARMENT FOR CHILD

"Gertrude" Petticoat Will Please the Little Maid as Well as Her Proud Mother.

The prettiest of undergarments for children are the little "Gertrude" petticoats, which slip over the head and fasten with one small button on one shoulder. Many of these have the simplest of narrow frills at the bottom and this is edged with a fine crochet lace or bit of Valenciennes. No other trimming is used on the little skirt.

Children, of course, will not remain the same size and length, therefore many mothers run a wide tuck just through the middle of the little one-piece petticoat, which can thus be lengthened as required.

The wash fabrics which do not require ironing, such as cotton crepe and kindred crinkled materials, are much in demand for the small garments. These are often made up in the flesh pink, which always pleases little girls, who are charmed by colors.

Waiting for the Hostess.

I was invited out for dinner and it happened that the minister and his wife were also present. We were a friendly group. At dinner time we were seated at the table, all but the hostess, who was attending to some little matter in the kitchen. We were waiting for her to take her place before the minister said grace. The hostess was a wee bit fussed and called out from the kitchen: "Dig right in, folks; don't wait for me!" But she soon got next to herself and took her place.—Exchange.
