UNTANGLED

By W. A. PEACH.

(C) 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

It was lunch hour in the restaurant run by the big mail order firm...

The girls had gazed her about the situation so much that when Mary Kennedy had come to her and showed her a picture of a whimsical masculine face...

"Oh, yes, I know him; he's an old friend of mine!" And she did not know him from Adam!

"You do?" said Mary. "Well, that is fine. He is a friend of Fred's and is coming in on the evening train..."

Thinking it over in her room, Ruth felt tears come to her eyes; but a glance at the clock started her into action.

She went alone to the hall where the girls were giving the dance—a little, lonely, and somewhat pathetic figure.

The fat girl hand moved around on the big hall clock to the train time, then to a little after.

"Ruth, he's come and waiting. As long as you know him, just get him and give him a good time," Mary said.

Setting her will to the effort, she went down the hall and up to a tall young fellow who was watching her with an odd expression on his face.

Four hours later it was a tired but supremely happy little girl that crept into the small bed in the hall room, after a long examination at the mirror and the old verdict.

At the office the next day, she was the subject of much interest. But she parried all comments that were suggestive.

But he did not. She was called to the telephone at noon, and his pleasant voice asked her to promise the evening to him.

And then came the last evening. They were alone in the little reception room. He was standing and saying simply: "I must go tomorrow. Before I go, Ruth, I want to know something; can you grow to love me while I am away?"

She could not find the words though her lips moved. The keen, searching strength came into his eyes.

"But nobody ever loved me!" she whispered, dazed and confused, and shaken by what had entered her life with overwhelming force.

Something gentle and kind burned softly in eyes above hers.

Mother's Cook Book

The thing that goes the furthest toward making life worth while, that costs the least and does the most, is just a pleasant smile.

Seasonable Good Things. When there are three or more ears of corn left from dinner use them as a luncheon or supper dish.

Banana Cream Ramekins. This is a rather unusual hot dessert. Whip two cups of cream, stiff, and beat five eggs without separating.

Chicken a la Terrapin. Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter; add a tablespoonful of flour; stir until blended; add one pint of finely-minced chicken and a cupful of cream.

Grape Catsup. Put five pounds of grapes through a vegetable press; add two and one-half pounds of brown sugar, two cupfuls of vinegar, two teaspoonfuls of salt, one tablespoonful of pepper, and the same of whole cinnamon, allspice, and whole cloves and two blades of mace.

Ham Toast. Scald one-half cupful of cream; add the beaten yolk of one egg, stir until it thickens. Add one cupful of boiled ham chopped fine; when hot, season and serve on toast.

Chestnuts en Casserole. Remove the shells from three cupfuls of chestnuts, put them into a casserole dish and cover with three cupfuls of highly-seasoned chicken stock. Cover and cook slowly for three hours in a slow oven, then thicken the stock with two tablespoonfuls of butter and one tablespoonful of flour cooked together.

Worth Seeing. Ralph, age three, and David, age five, were favorites in the neighborhood.

Dental Misfortune. No one would suspect the Princeton Telegraph of boasting Grand river as a fishing resort.

Crops Very Brief. A southern plantation owner was inquiring of one of his renters the condition of the crops.

Square. "I owe you an apology, old man. I thought you had gone home when I took your umbrella from the office last evening."

Getting Your Money's Worth. Mrs. Brown—Your husband now spends all his evenings at home.

VAST COLONIAL EMPIRE GONE

Germany Has Lost Possession of a Million and a Quarter Square Miles of Land.

Germany must pay many penalties for the war she ruthlessly started other than indemnity, disarmament, trade restriction, and loss of good will.

In 1914 Germany possessed a colonial empire of a million and a quarter square miles in area. It represented approximately four times the area of the German empire, and before the war its exports amounted to about one hundred millions of francs.

Germany East Africa, twice as big as the German empire, having 700 miles of railroads, with its harbors, where nine hundred and thirty-three merchant ships touched in 1911.

Germany East Africa, twice as big as the German empire, having 700 miles of railroads, with its harbors, where nine hundred and thirty-three merchant ships touched in 1911.

The conquest of this colonial empire was difficult; it was finished only in 1916.

A Brave Man. Brown is a brave man, and when one night he heard a noise downstairs he promptly arose, took a poker, and proceeded to investigate the cause.

On reaching the hall, the light of the candle he carried revealed a burglar in the act of leaving the house.

"Hi!" cried Brown. "Come back!" The burglar turned and gazed in surprise at Brown.

"What's the matter?" he inquired. "Have I forgotten anything? Ah, of course. The silver candlestick you are carrying. Thank you so much."

Then, before the astonished Brown could realize what had happened, the burglar seized the candlestick and vanished into the night.

Worth Seeing. Ralph, age three, and David, age five, were favorites in the neighborhood. David had been especially popular, but had gone away for a year, and in his absence Ralph had received all the attention.

FOX AND MRS. MOUSE

ONE night when Mr. Fox was sneaking along by the barnyard fence he heard a sound of weeping, and looking closer he saw a little mouse with her children huddled up beside the fence.

"Why do you weep, madam?" inquired Mr. Fox. "You, with your small body and nimble feet, should be able to escape all danger."

"Every time I come here for food I run a great risk, but I do not weep. Tell me why you do."

"Oh, but you do not know, good sir," replied Madam Mouse. "I, too, have a terrible enemy, for the farmer brought home a big cat with the dog and I am driven from the pantry where I have lived in comfort, and I might say, in luxury, for a long time."

"My plan is this: You creep into Mr. Dog's house tonight and tell him that Puss says he is a good-for-nothing fellow, and she knows she will..."

Mr. Fox thought for a second and then he said: "I think we may be able to help each other, Madam Mouse. You are not afraid of Mr. Dog, nor am I afraid of Mistress Puss."
