Rochester's 1921 Motor Car Show

The thirteenth annual Rochester Motor Car Revue will be open to the public on Monday, February 7th and continue through the week at Exposition Park.

The fact that there will be no free or trade tickets distributed has met with general commendation from the public, and every indication points to crowds far in excess of anticipation at every afternoon and evening's session of the show.

Reports from the various cities and villages within the 75-mile radius of Rochester are to the effect that large delegations from those places will attend the show on the various days, and from some sections, special excursions are being arranged. Hundreds of motorists will drive to Rochester for the event, if the roads remain open as they now are.

The announcement, made last week, that 204 automobiles would be on display at the show, has called forth general expressions of surprise. The public realized that the Rochester Motor Car Revue is one of the largest in the country each year, but that it is so closely approached the National New York and Chicago shows was not generally understood.

As the dates for the show draw nearer, the motor car dealers are more enthusiastic than ever over prospects for a successful display, and they all unhesitatingly say that sales will begin then and continue in great volume, with a probable automobile shortage in the spring.

Japanese Studying English. Classes in business ethics, business English and other commercial subjects, recently started by the Y. W. C. A. in Tokyo, are crowded with applicants, according to word received from the Japanese association. Girls who before this have been in large numbers, but with almost no knowledge of the conventions usually observed in the business world and with little experience in business subjects. Business girls, teachers, nurses, factory workers, students and young married women make up the membership of the Y. W. C. A. in Tokyo, which was started fifteen years ago. There are other city associations and thirty local associations in Japan.

Realism of the Movies. The body was with a moving picture theater with her nurse. There was a spot on the screen a man in a rapid approach a spot in the foreground where a man sat on the floor, and the situation was a real one, and an excited whisper she entreated her nurse.

Double Rations. The line had come to dole out the day's rations, and in an Irish regiment the quartermaster and his assistant were portioning them out in preparation for distribution.

Mother Goose, Linguist. Mary's mother was improving the shunting hours with a little French conversation, which Mary, aged four, was finding somewhat irksome. To some remark her mother replied "Oul, out!" at which Mary said, in an exaggerated tone.

Disarmament. "I'll never forget," said Cactus Joe, "the time Crimson Gulch decided that all us citizens ought to disarm."

REINDEER TO BE CONSERVED

United States Department of Agriculture Conducting Series of Experiments With the Animals.

When Alaska becomes so cold that an ordinary Jersey cow would freeze solid without a struggle, the reindeer blows a cloud of steam over his shoulder and wonders when there'll be an end to the muggy weather. Nor is the reindeer dependent upon corn-filled silos and cotton-seed meal for his winter ration. He asks only a chance to get out on the frosty barren, where he can scrape the snow from the frozen moss, and he'll obtain his own ration for the long eight months of cold weather. These are the attributes which make the reindeer the domestic animal of the natives of Alaska, to whom some form of animal industry is essential.

Realizing the economic importance of this unique animal, the bureau of biological survey, United States Department of Agriculture, has established an experimental station at Unalakleet, Alaska. The new station has a grazing expert and a veterinarian in its personnel and it is supplied with a well-equipped laboratory. Its primary purpose is to serve the reindeer industry by assisting the owners to rid their herds of parasitic pests which have inflicted considerable damage heretofore, and to obtain better utilization of the pasture by regulating the grazing lands. Crowding the herds into limited areas has encouraged the development of parasites and has lessened the reindeer's food supply. Reports received by the department indicate that the new station is already correcting these troubles. It is expected that a bulletin on the reindeer industry will be issued in a few months.

He Was Only Chastising Them. Many ingenious and obvious defenses have been made in New York criminal courts recently by the crooks who have been operating in the city, but surely the most amusing of all was that of the man who tried to steal four parrots from a cage in Central park and protested when arrested by a park watchman that he was merely spanking the birds because "loy shouted, 'Murder! Police! Help!'"

Time to Go. Being a shy young woman, I always began to slip out of my affairs whenever it was possible to do so. On one unfortunate occasion, my mother and sister being indisposed, I was obliged to accompany father to a reception.

In Doubt. "So your play was very successful?" "I don't know." "You don't know. I understand all New York is talking about it."

The Senate Snuffbox. When Mr. Coolidge, the newly elected vice president, takes his place as presiding officer of the senate, he will find himself confronted with a reminder of a very old custom; for set into the desk that he will occupy is the senate snuff box, so placed that members can conveniently reach it. The snuff that fills it is provided, and always has been, as a part of the legitimate supplies of the senate, like stationery and drinking water; but there are few now who use it. Youth's Companion.

Disarmament. "I'll never forget," said Cactus Joe, "the time Crimson Gulch decided that all us citizens ought to disarm."

THE Rochester Auto Trades Association extends to you a cordial invitation to be present at the formal opening of the Thirteenth Annual Rochester Motor Car Show, in buildings 3, 4 and 5 of Exposition Park, next Monday Evening at eight o'clock.

GOAT MAKES GOOD COMPANION

Better Than Dog, According to Writer—Pretty Incident Seen in the Swiss Alps

Because the British ministry of agriculture is warmly advocating the keeping of goats by English cottagers the attractions of the animal are being put forward by many writers in the press and among the advantages of it as a useful pet it is said that a goat is much better companion on a walk than even a dog. The goat does not require you to wait and whistle for it; it does not disappear into bushes after rabbits, but will be a steady walker with you from start to finish.

The writer will never forget a scene in a little village high up in the Swiss Alps. It was the close of a hot day, the village lay in shadow though the sun was still on the green pastures above, where at early dawn a herdsman had led his animals from the different chalets in the little street, to the pasture on the hill side. A cloud of dust in the distance told that the flock was returning and as they passed along one by one they would leave the rest to turn into their own homes, every one knowing just where it ought to go.

The Political Grind. "I have observed," said the friend, "that whenever the caller who first departed visits anybody he has an ax to grind."

Movie Theaters in China. There are about half a dozen motion picture theaters in Tientsin, of which the leading foreign house has a capacity of 600, and the Chinese ones seat from 500 to 2,000 persons and give two shows daily. Films from most of the large American companies are exhibited, the popularity of the stars being about the same as in the United States.

The "Pie Calendar." Schoolboys would easily remember the months of the year if they would study them in the "pie calendar" that the Chicago Daily News has prepared and that celebrates the kind of pie most appropriate to each month.

Yes, We Find It That Way, Too. "It has been truly said," Baggs declared impressively, "that the world, financially, is divided into just two classes—those who borrow and those who lend."

Willing to Listen. He—"You will never know how much I love you." She—"What's your objection to telling me?"

Too Big a Job for One. "Could Mabel keep a secret, do you think?" "Why, yes—if she had help."

Learning the Ropes. Belle—"What is a blanket ballot?" Nell—"I suppose it is what they spread over the returns with."

He Was Superstitious.

Every one knows that a lot of people are superstitious about $2 bills, but a new phase of it appeared on a Fourteenth street cross-town car. A $2 bill was tendered in payment of fare. "Panic! For God's sake, ain't you got anything else," said the conductor, backing away.

Smart Boy. "That boy seems to be the most popular caddy around the club. Everybody wants to take him out."

"Is he a better caddy than the others?" "I don't think so. He's just the best diplomat we have around here."

"A diplomat. I don't get you." "It's this way. The artful little chap is wise to the game and every time the man he is caddying for makes a poor shot the boy looks sad and apologizes to him for having coughed or moved. That gives the player an excuse for losing the hole and keeps the boy solid in his job."

"Well," replied Senator Sorghum, "we ought to be willing to contribute, if possible, to the worthy enterprises of others. I don't object to a man who has an ax to grind, if he honestly means to go out and chop wood with it. What I do object to is the politician who merely desires to whet a tomahawk."
