MERIT MARKS EASTER AT ROME

Impressive Church Ceremonies
Followed by General Rejoicing.

The year's at the spring and Italy again celebrates Holy Week. It is principally in Rome and Venice that the sojourner's interest centers—about the historic plazas of St. Peter's and St. Mark's.

In Rome, if you would gain entrance into the great cathedral of St. Peter, you must rise before daybreak. Only women will be allowed seats within the church this morning and to gain the privilege they must be veiled in black and wear garments of somber hue. Long before the hour for service the edifice is packed, hundreds of belated visitors being turned away.

At nine o'clock the papal regiment enters and makes room for the pope's guard, which, with other ecclesiastics, enters and takes up a position among the diplomatic corps. About 9:30 the music peals forth impressively, the soldiers present arms, and then the pope, attired simply in white, is carried in on his chair of state. As he proceeds up the aisle he blesses the devout congregation to the right and left.

At the close of the impressive service you are borne down the great aisles by the surging congregation and with them are bethel'd from the door-

SING IN GLADNESS

Nature from her sleep is waking,
From her icy bondage breaking,
Vernal life and beauty taking,
Lo, the winter is past!
Birds their carols sweet are singing,
Frees and flowers their fragrance bringing,
Lo, the winter is past!
Lo, the winter is past!

In our hearts new joy is dawning,
On this happy Easter morning,
Every life with hope adorning,
Lo, the winter is past!
Gone are Lenten gloom and sadness,
Bright our path with Easter gladness,
Lo, the winter is past!
Lo, the winter is past!

CELEBRATION OF RUSSIAN EASTER

Impressive Services in Moscow
Held Under the Regime of the Czars.

In the days before the suppression of the patriarchate by Peter the Great, on Good Friday, or, as the Russians say, Great Friday—the patriarch, in humble imitation of our Lord's entry into Jerusalem, rode on an ass from the Church of Blessed Basil, in Moscow, across the mosaic of fluttering doves, through the Gate of the Savior, up to the Kremlin, but last year the patriarch was forbidden entrance in the ancient way, says the Detroit News. Indeed, it was late on Easter eve before his holiness knew with certainty that he should be allowed to celebrate in his own cathedral on the morrow. In spite of the shelling and desecration of the ancient citadel by

Within the Kremlin.

Bolshevik forces, amid the crowds of steadfast witnesses to the faith, the patriarch officiated at Easter.

Easter eve, for two hours before midnight, one hears the Acts of the Holy Apostles read. Meanwhile the lamps and candles, lighted one by one, swim like planes in one's ken. The church swings in the shadows like a huge censer. Then the gates of the sanctuary open and, in the vestments of royal purple, patriarchs, bishops and priests, with silver and crystal crosses, like a torrent, flood the church with song. "Christ is risen!"

The jeweled gospels are thundered in different languages from the four corners of the church to all the earth. In the orchestra of voices the festival bell of the tower of John the Great companions the mighty voice of the archdeacon.

ways into the teeming plaza. There on all sides you hear cheery greetings in the musical Italian tongue and are more than likely to come upon every acquaintance you have in Rome.

Precipitous ceremonies are elaborate. Maskers throng the streets throwing confetti and engaging in every form of jubilation, the young people having by no means a monopoly of the funmaking. All sorts of pranks are played and much horse-play indulged in, all of which is taken in good part.

Ruler's horses are turned loose with fireworks tied to their tails to race madly down the corso. The closing novel is termed the "muccolett" when everybody carries a lighted candle and each person tries to blow out the candle of his neighbor. Some carry bellows for this purpose and others use handkerchiefs and towels. The streets are a blaze of light and the festivities of the evening continue for about two hours. Then a bell strikes to signify that the carnival is ended, a cannon booms from the castle of St. Angelo and for six weeks thereafter the city is transformed into a scene of solemnity that is not broken until the dawn of Easter Sunday.
