Rochester Pioneers
 In giving the manufacturing and business enterprises of the City of Rochester a retrospective survey, it is found that the scientific milling and mixing of grains for horses, cattle, sheep and hogs has been a potent factor in developing the industrial life of our City and its suburbs.
 Pioneers in this work, in Rochester, are the Newman Brothers Grain Co., who have their mill, elevators and main warehouse on Troup St., on a siding of Pennsylvania Railroad. Equipped with every modern facility for handling and storing large quantities of grain, they have brought the mixing and separating of grains and their by-products to a scientific basis, which only years of experience could accomplish.
 Not only do they make a specialty of these heavier grains but cater as well to the needs of the Poultry Raiser and Dealer with their special Poultry feeds, intermediate feed for partly grown chicks and a very fine one for the Baby Chicks.
 Equipped with both light and heavy delivery trucks of the latest design, and carrying an enormous stock on hand, they have every facility for making almost instant delivery of orders, and never fail to please the customer with prompt service and efficiency.
 At their branch warehouse, situated at the New York Central Railroad, at Portland Ave., they also carry a heavy stock of feed, as a matter of convenience to their customers in that section. For the East side trade, they have a branch store at 1126 Atlantic Ave.
 Their slogan and chief aim has always been to give satisfaction to each and every customer, and to keep the quality of their goods up to the highest standard of reliability and merit. As a result, they have gained the unlimited confidence of their patrons and have built up a thriving and enterprising business which embraces, not only Rochester, but a large territory throughout Western New York.

Summer Amusements
 The dancing, refreshments, soft drinks, and swimming at Catena Park has made a hit with the people of Rochester. This popular place located on the city line between Portland Ave. and North Goodman, is crowded every night with young couples, who are delighted by the arrangements that have been made for their amusements. Special conveniences are furnished for picnics and the place is open both day and night.

Wrong Connections and Inexpert Service Ruins Batteries.
 Motorists should remember the importance of getting their battery connection right. It is a frequent mistake among motorists and even some service stations to put the battery in so that the connections are reversed. When this happens the battery plates become charged in the wrong direction. If this does not happen too long a time carrying an enormous stock on hand, the battery may be restored by recharging in the right direction, but then the life of the battery has been greatly shortened. Quite often however, a recharged battery is ruined beyond repair.
 Motorist can detect this mistake easily by watching their ammeter. If the battery is wrongly connected the needle will point to the discharge instead of the charge side when the motor is running.
 If it is necessary to change the battery, the safe way is to take it to a service station where the work can be done by experts. H. Ellery Erdhardt, battery engineers, conduct a service and sales station at 491 Main St., East, near Scio, and are able to give the best battery service either in new batteries or repairing old ones.
