EVERYDAY SALADS.
A MOST acceptable salad may be made of a few leftovers if the combination is good. Many a good bit of food is thrown away for lack of knowing how to use it wisely.

Potato and Corn Salad.
Take a pint or less of cold boiled potatoes cut in half-inch cubes, add one cupful of green corn cooked on the cob, a bit of chopped green pepper if at hand, a little scraped onion to give it zest and enough well seasoned dressing to moisten, adding salt and pepper to season.

Hot Corn and Pepper Salad.
Take a pint of sweet corn (fresh) and just cut from the cob. Shred or mince one green pepper and cook in a little butter until well softened, add the green corn and more butter, stirring and mixing well over the fire. Season with salt, pepper and cayenne and serve piping hot. It is wise to double this recipe if the family is at all fond of corn for there is never a kernel left.

Crisp Lettuce with Peanuts.
Wash a bunch or two of tender head lettuce, drain and dry thoroughly, arrange on individual plates and sprinkle with fresh crisp peanuts that have been crushed by rolling with the rolling pin until like coarse crumbs. Serve with a French dressing passed at the table or with a good boiled dressing. Adding the dressing to the lettuce, if it stands any length of time, wilts it and destroys its attractiveness.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?
By C. N. LURIE
Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

"DIFFERENT FROM, THAN, TO."

IT is quite common to hear or read sentences containing the word "different" followed by from, and never by than or to. One hears, "Yours is a very different case than his," whereas the proper form is "Yours is a very different case from his." One hears also, "I have heard your story, and John's is different from it," correctly, "John's is different from it," or "differs from it." The Standard Dictionary says that the use of different to is an undesirable English colloquialism.

The word "different" denotes distinction or contrast (indicated by the use of from), while comparison is shown by than; thus, "My hat is different from yours, but your hat is better than mine."

CATHOLIC YOUNG MEN'S CLUB TO MEET

The third quarterly meeting of the Catholic Young Men's Association will be held on Thursday evening at the club rooms in Ormond St. At this meeting, plans for the coming winter months will be discussed.

During the past months, any person visiting the club rooms, would have seen many hotly contested games of billiards and pool, amongst the boosters of that sport. The pinocle sharks, were also at it extra heavy, in the hottest evenings. The gymnasium season is due for a good start this season, as there are many members anxiously waiting to get back in the old form again, and there are several that have already taken their gym togs from the custody of the moth balls. The bowling alleys have been put in shape, and are ready for the heavy usage, that is expected, this season. Plans are now being made to form a six team bowling league.

The slogan for the rest of the year is, "Every member get a new member". Since the first of the year the membership has been increasing steadily. All members are earnestly requested to attend the meeting.

Church Acquires Cemetery Plot

Bath, Sept. 20.—Rev. Joseph S. Cameron, rector of St. Mary's Church, announces the purchase of six acres of land from the William Morse property in Geneva street, the property being acquired for use as a parish cemetery. The plot is a part of the former Edward farm. The present parish cemetery, Holy Cross, in East Morris street, is nearly filled, having served as a burial plot since the organization of the parish nearly a century ago.

MASS CONTINUES WHILE FIREMEN PUT OUT BLAZE

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 9.—Rev. William J. O'Connell, assistant pastor of the Church of the Most Precious Blood, preached a sermon to 800 persons and then resumed the celebration of Mass last Sunday, while decorations, artificial flowers and the woodwork of a shrine at the left side of the high altar burned fiercely. At the elevation and consecration, the people in the pews bowed their heads and showed by no outward sign that the blazing shrine distracted them from their devotions.

As Father O'Connell finished the mass, firemen were working to smother the fire with chemical extinguishers, after certain men of the congregation appointed by the priest had failed to beat it out. The city fireman who finally extinguished the flames afterwards declared that Father O'Connell and the men, women, and children in the church at the time were the coolest persons they had ever seen at a fire.

Wye Island Home.
The original home of the Paca family on Wye Island, Queen Anne county, passed at a recent sale of the estate of William B. Paca, the last male descendant of Governor William Paca, to an owner not connected with the family, for the first time since long before the Revolutionary war. The Wye Hall farm of 367 acres, with the Paca mansion, brought $64,300 an acre, the purchaser being John Kinnamon, Governor Paca, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and later a federal Judge, is buried near the farm.—Centerville Observer.

Forty Hours' Adoration Is Held in Dansville

Dansville, Sept. 21.—Beauty, pomp of ceremony and grandeur characterized the devotions of the Forty Hours held at St. Mary's church, Dansville, from last Friday morning until Sunday evening. The worship of the Exposition was royal and liturgical, and tended to enkindle an intense depth of religious homage and adoration, as the object of the devotion was the special honoring of the permanent presence of Christ in the Eucharist. The hymns were more solemn, the reverence deeper, the silence more religious, the genuflections of the people more humble, for Christ the all-powerful Man-God, the triumphant King, enveloped in the shroud of the Sacramental species, had crossed the threshold of His voluntary prison (the tabernacle), had raised the cover of the golden ciborium as in other days He raised the stone of the sepulchre, and appeared amid the golden rays of the monstrance upon a throne resplendent with pure and brilliant lights shining at His feet. The number of communicants was the largest ever recorded in the history of the parish, and the throngs attending the Divine services attested to deep interest of the people.

The altar was transformed into a triumphal arch by its decorations, its lights and its flowers. Ferns were the settings for the colorful mass of floral decorations and the Sanctuary blazed with the undying watch fires of light. The choir was never heard to better advantage than when the voices swelled in magnificent melody at the public devotions. The sermons on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings by the Redemptorist Father Rev. Joseph Schoonhart of Rochester and on Sunday morning by the Rev. Leo G. Hofschneider, the pastor, were illuminated with the extraordinary learning of the scholar priests and were perfect mirrors of all Divine Thoughts. Their iteration of Catholic Doctrines and teachings, expressed with such philosophical erudition and sweetness of thought, power of expression and cogency of reasoning, warmed the hearts of their hearers and nourished the souls with the sweetness of heavenly love for the adoration of Christ that they might respond to the ardent desire of their Divine Master: "I have a burning desire to be loved by man in the Sacrament of My love!"

The closing services Sunday evening were especially impressive and included the chanting of the Litany of the Saints by the clergy, the processional, Benediction and the Congregational singing of the Te Deum. As the long procession wended its way through the church it was led by the crossbearer with seven carrying acolyte lights, the altar boys, the Rev. Father Hofschneider as master of ceremonies, little white veiled and gowned maidens carrying flowers, the assisting clergy, the deacon and subdeacon with the Redemptorist Father who carried aloft the Sacred Host. Upon their return to the altar the Most Holy Sacrament was placed within the tabernacle where as Hidden God and Savior He continues to dwell in silence and solitude with only the tiny red light to indicate where He lives. He breathes, His human heart throbs and His eyes look out upon all through the veil of bread.

Besides the Rev. Father Schoonhart the following priests assisted the Rev. Leo G. Hofschneider during the devotions: Rev. Ferdinand Schied of Perkinsville, Rev. George Eisler of Caledonia, Rev. George Jones and Rev. Edward Beyer of Genesee, Rev. J. Boppel and Rev. George Schmidt of Rochester, Rev. J. E. Stemmler of Elmira, Rev. Wm. Gruenauer of Penfield, Rev. Herman Schafer of Moscow, Rev. Dennis V. Lane and Rev. Paul Ciaccio of Mt. Morris, Rev. James Wood of Sonyea, Rev. John Masseth of St. Patrick's Church, Dansville.
