Modern Electric Appliances

The Ruth Electric Shop located in the Reynolds Arcade is unique in a way from the fact that it is one of three similar places in the United States. Heretofore no one devoted entire time to the appliance end: washing machines, vacuum cleaners, ironing machines, etc., were considered side lines to the electric dealer.
Mr. Ruth spent fifteen years calling on the electrical trade, and had a wonderful opportunity to study the conditions and foresee that the time was fast approaching when the Household Appliance line would be great enough for one to devote one's entire time to same and thereby give unhampered advice to one's customers. The Ruth Shop started out with the main idea of service to its customers, and it has resulted in a wonderful growth of business in the Household Appliance line. The Ruth Shop was the first dealer to sell the famous G-R-Electric clothes washer.

The Parkway Garage

The Parkway Garage has taken steps to assist in effecting a reduction in the cost of operating an automobile by reducing their charges generally.
Labor has gone down to 76c an hour. Simonizing has been reduced approximately 20%.
Veedol has been cut in the same proportion.
The result is quite noticeable in the amount of business this garage is doing and now it has gotten to such a stage that time must be reserved for ordinary repair work but emergency jobs are being taken care of with dispatch as usual.
The charges for towing and road service work have also been reduced in proportion. Towing now costing only 75c per mile.
These reductions do not affect the quality of their workmanship or their policy of guaranteeing all their work, whether a large or small job.
They are also giving, during this month, free demonstrations of Simonizing and will gladly show you how greatly it will improve the finish on your own car. This is a wonderful product and worth much more than is charged for the job.

Quality Meats and Poultry
At The Lexington Market

The Lexington Market at 1011 Dewey Ave. has been established for many years but last April Mr. George P. Raetz bought the business from L. G. Little, the former proprietor, and has since firmly established himself with his patrons, as a first-class business man.
The Lexington Market has made an enviable reputation for the fine quality of its meats and the reasonable prices. Each Saturday Mr. Raetz has a good supply of the best of fresh dressed poultry brought directly from the country.
Also one has the best of fresh vegetables of the season to select from and a complete line of canned goods of staple quality.
Prompt deliveries are made and one may be assured all telephone calls will be taken care of as well as though one called personally. Phone Glenwood 408.

A Safe Guard Against Disease.

"The greatest science of chiropractic is the greatest known prophylactic, or safe guard against disease known today and although the results it produces in acute cases or cases of short duration are remarkable, its fame and success is due to the long standing chronic cases, where disease has been present for years and years," says Mr. Turner, well known Rochester Chiropractor.
These chronic cases all have the same story to tell. Invariably they have gone from one doctor to another for years and years. They have tried every kind of medical treatment along with many other therapeutic systems.
Turner and Turner conduct a very successful chiropractic office at 16 State St. Both are graduates of the Palmer School of Chiropractic.
