

CHIROPRACTIC is the science that first demonstrated the connection between defective spines and disease. It discovered that disease is the result of interference with the nervous forces, due to the pressure of displaced spinal bones on the nerves. By scientific spinal adjustments this pressure is removed so the natural forces can cure the effects and restore healthy conditions. NO DRUGS AND NO KNIFE ARE USED. SNAPPY PARAGRAPHS He who lives only in future joys will know many present pains. Ignorance is the bane of all argument. Most wives would be able to save money if their husbands gave them enough to save. And a woman likes to dine in a restaurant with her husband so that he cannot blame her for the cooking. Except for an occasional funeral some men would never see the inside of a church. A wise man hates his book with inquiry, while the fool hates with his impertinence. Yet the woman who married a poor man for love seldom wishes her daughter to do likewise. Growing old gracefully consists in growing old as you are expected to, no eccentricities. It must be provoking to be always in a minority. Don't think in such a revolutionary way. If a man empties his purse into his head no man can take it away from him.—Benjamin Franklin. No doubt the exercise of planting trees is as good for a man as the exercise of cutting them down. A man who keeps his troubles to himself may be like a burst dam once get him started.

PUZZLE FOR LOVERS OF DOG Just How Did Terrier Know the Correct Time When the Clocks Had Been Advanced? Perhaps because of his power of speech the parrot is usually regarded as an amazingly wise bird. But many dumb creatures often display just as remarkable intelligence. Can a dog judge time? This is one of the subjects upon which some light is thrown in "Dogs' Time and Others," by H. J. Massingale. A terrier had been in the habit of jumping on his master's feet and waking him each morning at seven o'clock. When the clocks had been advanced at four for summer time, the man was anxious to see what the dog would do. Next morning as usual the animal jumped upon the bed. The clock was at seven exactly although really it was only six o'clock. Had the dog counted the strokes of the clock when it struck, or had he understood about the clock being put on?

A Deep-Laid Plot. "I'm expecting a party of my constituents to call on me today," said Senator Scoresworthy, "and—er—naturally, I don't want them to know that I've taken a drink." "Have no fear, sir," replied his secretary. "You can rely on my discretion." "Of course, my boy, but they'll probably ask you confidentially where they can get one, so you tell them confidentially where they can, but make it appear that you would die of chagrin if I knew about it."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

THE GIRL ON THE JOB

How to Succeed—How to Get Ahead—How to Make Good

By JESSIE ROBERTS

HONESTY IN YOUR JOB.

HONESTY is a subtle thing. Often a man or woman who would rather die than steal a cent manages to be more or less dishonest every day. Too many girls who are employed in business fail to realize that, in stealing time they steal the equivalent of dollars. If you waste time, killing in whatever way you are not being honest in your work. If you shut details, confuse them, forget instructions, if you use only half your brain and half your energy, you are being dishonest. When you accepted the position you implied that you were fit for it. It is on that basis you are paid. You may argue that it makes very little difference whether or not you are guilty of these dishonesties. But you ought to realize that it means a lot to you. The ancient adage that honesty is the best policy applies especially to these aspects of honesty. In the end you find yourself by faults of this sort.

If you hate your work you ought to get out of it. Work is often more thrilling than anything else that we do. Love your job, work hard at it with enthusiasm and a growing skill and you will be a happy woman. This is old stuff. So old that most of us never think of it. But it pays to think of it. Use your work to aid you in making your life worth while as well as simply a means of earning a certain sum weekly.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"BLACKMAIL"

IF, TODAY, anyone were to accuse the editor of a newspaper of accepting blackmail when he exchanges a year's subscription to his paper for a bushel of potatoes or to state that a merchant is guilty of the same practice when he trades his goods for farm produce they would probably be sued for libel. As a matter of fact, they would be only using the word in its primary sense. In the early days of English history "blackmail"—derived from the word "black" and the French "maille" meaning rent—was applied to the rents received from tenants in the form of work or grain. In contradistinction to payments made in silver or white money (mille blanche) later when the feudal barons and freeholders of many kinds roamed the highways almost at will, they collected "blackmail" in the form of forced levies of goods and provisions from the inhabitants of the countryside or from travelers who fell into their clutches and the word fell into such disrepute that, under the Elizabethan laws, it was made a felony without benefit of clergy. It is doubtless from this law and the practice which necessitated it that the modern meaning of the word—now synonymous with hush money or a bribe paid for the maintenance of silence—originated.

A Preventive Measure. The Factory Manager—"Can I establish a zone of silence around my factory?" The Health Officer: "That's an unusual request. Are you sick there?" The Factory Manager: "Not yet, but I see a lot of AB workers in the neighborhood."

Can't Fool 'Em. Two colored gentlemen were engaged in a conversation when one of them became very much annoyed by the persistence of a fly over a large fly.

Thought She Knew Him. A woman stated in police court that a man attacked her. "I do not know his name," she said, "but he is a drunken blackguardly, murderous abusive beast more like a reptile than a man."

Fans Don't Mind. "What's this I hear?" "Well?" "A veteran plainsman says these movie cowboys don't even know how to ride a horse correctly."

Lake Baikal. Lake Baikal in Siberia is one of the great inland fresh-water seas. It is nearly as long as Lake Superior, but only one-third as wide. It is flanked by great mountains, and its shores are filled with woodcutters and fishermen, but there are very few hunters although many far-bearing animals abound in the great forests about it.

HONEY IN BRIDAL CEREMONY

Pretty Custom in Sparta That is a Survival of an Ancient Pagan Rite.

In Sparta there is a most striking and pretty custom, whose origin is lost in the mists of antiquity. Students tell us that it is a survival of an ancient pagan rite. When the bride has really become a wife, after her dowry has been paid, and after the priest has solemnized the marriage vows, the bridegroom takes her to his own home. At the door stands the bridegroom's mother. In her hand is a glass of honey and water. The bride drinks some of it so that her words in that house may always be as sweet as honey.

The rest of the honey in the glass is spilled upon the matel of the doorway and is smeared there, that the house may be free from strife.

Then one of the wedding guests breaks on the threshold a pomegranate. In some of the Cyclades islands the pomegranate is thrown at the door, and is broken. If some of the seeds stick to the door, it is considered a good omen. In the island of Rhodes the pomegranate is placed on the threshold of the bride's new home, and the bridegroom kisses it with his face when he enters with her. Symbols of love and of fertility are the pomegranate and the fig, and of those whose affections are true to the "stars that was (Isos)."

With what are the bride and the bridegroom guests to do? The bridegroom takes a glass of honey and water and offers it to the bridegroom's mother. The bridegroom's mother says: "The good that you do is yours."

HONOR FOR LARGE FAMILIES

When a Seventh Son is Born in Argentina, the President Comes the Godfather

The custom of naming a child in honor of a great man or a saint is not peculiar to some of our wilder tribes. The family of the president of Argentina has a seventh son, and his name is Juan. The boy is named after the president of the republic, and the president himself comes to the christening. The boy is named after the president of the republic, and the president himself comes to the christening. The boy is named after the president of the republic, and the president himself comes to the christening.

Little Marie was four years old when she was christened. Her mother was a collector with a name. Marie's father and a sister went to a hospital with some serious injuries, and when they returned home they were found in their pajamas in the room of the nurse, and the address of neighbors in sending them fruit flowers and bouquets.

A few days ago Miss Mary, a student of the school, was struck by a passing car, being thrown and suffering a laceration of the head. She was able to leave the hospital, where she is now recovering.

Music of Common Notes. A young man of the name of John was engaged in a conversation with a young woman of the name of Mary. The young man said to the young woman: "I am a musician, and I can play the piano."

Steel Barrels. The steel barrels of the makers are well known. It is probable that steel barrels will eventually take the place of wooden ones. The steel barrel is composed of staves of that material, bound together by an ingenious device, the hoops and heads are also of steel. It is claimed that the steel barrel is more durable and more compact than the wooden one. As it is said to be lighter and cheaper, it has already had favor in various quarters. About 200,000,000 barrels are needed annually in normal times to supply the demand in the United States. Flour mills will use about 90,000,000, the sugar industry 40,000,000 and the cement industry 75,000,000.

Mother's Cook Book

Just stand aside, and watch yourself go by.

Think of yourself as He instead of I. Pick flaws, find fault, forget the man is you. And strive to make your estimate ring true. The faults of others then will dwindle and shrink. Love's chain grow stronger by one mighty link. When you wish "He" as substitute for "I" Have stood aside and watched yourself go by."

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS.

PRUNES are so wholesome and good for children as well as "grown ups," that we should serve them in a variety of ways. When a pie which is very nice is to be served try this: Bake a shell and put in a layer of cooked stoned prunes, sprinkle with nut meats of any kind; black walnuts, or butter nuts are very good; cover with whipped cream and serve.

Cream Prune Pie.

Put through a sieve a cupful of stewed prunes and one cupful of milk, one teaspoonful of cornstarch, a third of a cup of sugar, the yolks of two eggs well beaten, mix well and bake in a pastry lined plate until firm. The whole may be used as a meringue or may be stirred into the filling just as it goes into the crust.

Corn Muffins.

Take one cupful of corn meal, three-fourths of a cupful of flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt, four tablespoonfuls of sugar, one cupful of milk, one egg well beaten, and one tablespoonful melted butter.

For the housewife whose husband likes griddle cakes and whose household does not enjoy the smoke from a griddle, try putting two to three tablespoonfuls of melted fat into the cakes the last thing and not greasing the griddle. They will brown nicely without sticking to the griddle.

Codfish With Cream.

Shred the fish and then prepare as usual. Then make a white sauce using thick sour cream, thicken, using butter and flour, cook until thick and stir in the fish. This is delicious with baked potatoes.

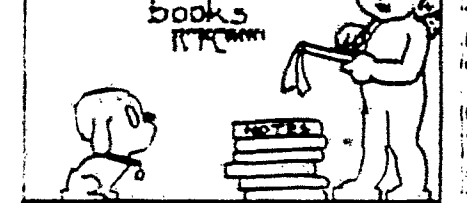

Mock Pate de Foie Gras.

Wash a small calf's liver, place in a stew pan with a onion finely chopped, two bay leaves, a blade of mace, a dust of black pepper, a teaspoonful of salt, six cloves, a lump of fat, and one pint of stock. Cook the stew gently for three hours. When cooked cut the liver in thin slices and place on a platter, pour over the strained liquor from the saucepan and let stand over night. The next day pound the liver to a paste, adding slowly one-half cupful of butter. Press through a colander. Put in small tin and cover with melted paraffin. Cut in thin slices when serving.
