Fred knew Johnny. Fred Smith was badly crippled, but his indomitable spirit kept him on a par with other lads of his age. He joined the pig club and took care of his pig with great skill and enthusiasm.

One day I overheard Fred talking to his cronies, and this is what he said: "John Mitchell said his pig is bigger than mine!" And then in a tone of great scorn he added: "I'll bet if we swapped he'd still say his was the biggest!"

Sours Carting Co. Has New Five Ton Moving Van.

Now is the season for the annual Spring moving, and you want a good reliable firm to do the moving for you. The Sours Carting and Storage Company who are located at 47 Stillson St., are equipped to give the most satisfactory service. They have just received a new Five Ton moving Van which is equipped in the most up-to-date manner. Then too they have a fleet of smaller One Ton Vans and trucks several of which are new this year.

This organization has had twelve years of natural growth doing business in a way that has received much credit from Rochesterians and people in the surrounding territory.

They are able to move most anything; Unusual care and time is devoted to the proper packing and carting of valuable articles resulting in a record of little, if any damage done to property entrusted to its care.

Horse drawn vehicles are a feature of this company's service. They are used almost entirely for furniture moving, and the company points out that this method saves much wear and tear on furniture.

If you are considering calling some firm to attend to your moving just call Main 1718 or Main 1714 and you will find their prices reasonable, and we feel sure you will be more than pleased with the courtesy and service shown by them.

Stereograph Development of the Stereoscope, Thoroughly Familiar to the Older Generation.

The stereograph, a machine used to give perspective, solidity and reality to objects or scenes thrown on a screen, is a development of the stereoscope, a little "two-eyed" machine for magnifying and solidifying two photographic impressions of the same object or scene. The stereoscope was in past years more commonly familiar than now as a means of entertainment in the home. Two cameras are built into the same frame, and two pictures are made, one for the right eye and one for the left. When these pictures are properly mounted and viewed through a stereoscope, one sees just what he would have seen if he had stood where the camera was when the picture was made. The same result is obtained on the screen by aid of the stereograph. Oliver W. Holmes perfected the stereoscope.

The ordinary camera has only one "eye" or lens—consequently its photographs appear flat. The principle of the stereograph is the same as that of the eyes, for it presents two images projected through two lenses. The machine is so arranged that one lens presents the view from an angle slightly to the right, and the other from an angle to the left.

Recovering Tar Products.
 A combination distillation and burning process in which the tar products are driven off from coal before being burned under boilers, is now being introduced in Germany. Coal from the bunker is fed to the boiler furnace through a retort at the bottom of which is a distilling chamber facing the glowing fire on the grate. The gases driven off from the coal discharge into an extraction apparatus alongside the boilers, and the tar, mineral oils, and other products recovered. This method is said to be more efficient than the separate gas and coling plants.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.
