Dansville Church Has New Organ

Dansville, April 24. — Last Sunday morning, the Rev. John E. Masgeth, pastor of St. Patrick's church, announced at the services that the beautiful new organ now being installed was the generous gift to the church of Mr. and Mrs. William Francis Kelly. Eloquent indeed were the words of the speaker in his presentation remarks and many an eye was dimmed with tears as he voiced his sentiments and on behalf of the congregation expressed his gratitude to Mr. and Mrs. Kelly as well as his own personal appreciation of the gift.

Giving the words of the Psalmist—"The zeal of Thy house hath eaten me up," as explanatory of Christian art and architecture, the Rev. Father Masgeth said that it was indeed "refreshing and heartening in an age so largely and so blatantly materialistic to find signs that zeal for the beautification of God's house still reigns in many Christian hearts."

"This organ is Mr. and Mrs. Kelly's monument," said Father Masgeth, "not of mute bronze or marble, but that of a living voice, pouring forth its melody in praise of God and His heavenly court. No other song of praise will pour forth from it. Entering a Catholic church, the faithful leave the world without, with its beat as well as its worst."

"When God sees fit to gather these noble donors to Himself, this, their organ, will take up and resound the praises of their Maker, silenced on their lips by death. And may we not say that even now its harmonies piercing the clouds will gladden the ears of those dear departed ones in whose memory Mr. and Mrs. Kelly have given this organ to St. Patrick's church."

"In the after years their children and their children's children worshipping in this church and moved by the organ's strains, will find their eyes filling with tears, tears however, of gratitude, that God gave them parents burning with zeal for the glory of His House."

The organ was manufactured by the celebrated organ makers, Hook & Hastings, and was for a time in the old Eastman School of Music, Prince street, Rochester. It has 13 stops and 686 pipes and an unusual feature is the swell box for the great organ.

Noted Speakers For The Milwaukee Catholic Conference

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) Milwaukee, April 22.—A partial list of the noted leaders of Catholic thought in the industrial field who will address the Catholic Conference on Industrial Problems that is to be held in this city on June 27 and 28, has been announced here.

There will be four sessions, at each of which will be discussed some phase of Pope Leo's encyclical on the condition of the working classes.

Dr. John A. Ryan, director of the Department of Social Action of the National Catholic Welfare Council will lead the discussion on "Wages" and will be followed on the same subject by Mathew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor and President of the Photo Engravers International.

The Rev. Joseph Husslein, S. J., associate editor of "America" will speak on "The Worker and Ownership." Father Husslein will be followed by John A. Voll, president of the Glass and Bottle Blowers' Association.

William Bolger, C.S.C., of Notre Dame University will lead the discussion on the subject of "Collective Bargaining," which promises to be one of the most important to be considered by the delegates.

KLAN LECTURER GETS BIG SURPRISE WHEN KNIGHTS TAKE OVER HIS MEETING

(Continued from page 1.) Before concluding, Dr. Moore asked the chairman to give out blanks to which those interested would affix their names. The chairman took care of it. He also read one of three oaths which the Klan members take. Dr. Moore was given at the end of his talk a fairly good round of applause. When he finished Mr. Scanlan, realizing that the time was now ripe for his part in this little drama, drew from his coat pocket a large quantity of statements, literature and clippings, and for over an hour repudiated every statement Dr. Moore had made. Several times the audience broke into applause as he took up in order each part of the previous speaker's address.

James Henderson, of Columbus Council, took the floor after Mr. Scanlan and for nearly half an hour tore apart the Klan in general and Dr. Moore in particular. In the beginning he spoke of the Oregon situation where Catholics had been robbed of the right to have schools by Klan fanatics.

Mr. Henderson concluded his hammering of the now unwelcome visitor and the K. K. K. by saying: "Does the town want the Klan?" A mighty cry went up, "NO!" Then a member of the audience presented a resolution saying, "Resolved, That the Ku Klux Klan is un-American and that it should have no place in Floral Park." It was recorded and then a standing vote called for and all but about thirty of the more than five hundred present stood up. The chairman then called for the negative side and not one had the courage to stand. Mr. Henderson then urged all to sing "The Star Spangled Banner" and all joined in. The meeting broke up with three victorious cheers.

How Big is an Electron?
One very noteworthy experiment in measuring an electron was performed by an American, Professor Millikan of Chicago. He introduced a minute drop of oil of about 1/10,000th inch in diameter in a chamber between two plates whose electrical charge was subject to control. The drop of oil was strongly illuminated and was viewed with a telescope. By controlling the potentials of the plates the oil drop could be made to fall or rise at will. The drop continually picked up and lost electrons. As it picked up an electron it would move toward the positive plate. By carefully observing the action of the drop of oil, Millikan was able to determine very accurately the charge added to it by its picking up one electron.
