The following Directors have been selected: John McCarty, Connecticut; Patrick J. Murphy, Michigan; John R. Mahany, New York; Patrick J. O'Donnell, Minnesota and Thomas J. Lucid, New Jersey. Atlantic City was selected as the meeting place for the next convention in 1925.

Klan Establishes Paper in St. Louis

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—This city now has an organ of the Ku Klux Klan, the title of which is "The Patriot". Four numbers have been published. The publisher's name is given on the fourth page as E. M. Crane, the offices being at "Ninth and Olive Street". On this page is displayed a Union Labor label, but no number can be seen on the label, so that people are curious to know that particular Union Labor shop does the printing. It is known that a number of printing concerns refused to handle the work and the publishers had some difficulty in finding a printer.

The paper is a weekly, 7-column, 8 page affair and there are 6 advertisements, the largest of which is that of the paper itself. One is headed "Non Silba Sed Anthar" and appeals to all native born Americans who have at heart the best interests of their city, state and nation to become members of "the most powerful secret, political organization in existence, one that has the 'Most Sublime Lineage in History', one that was 'Here Yesterday', 'Here To-day', 'Here Forever'".

WORDS OF WISE MEN

Few things are more foolish than hating. The face is the shop window of the mind. It is never too late to mend—if you begin now. Maxims are the wisdom of the world bottled down. Defer not till tomorrow what may be done today. He that plants trees loves others besides himself. Charity begins at home, but don't let it end there. Good manners are kindness and consideration for others. Work should be regarded as a privilege and not as an affliction. Success is never granted to man as the reward of labor. The man who gets the most out of life is the man who puts most into it. The man who does more harm than good is the worst of men.

Catholic School Saved By Act Of English Ministry

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) London, July 23.—Catholic education rights have been vindicated in Yorkshire where, at the small town of Pocklington, the local education authority threatened to close the Catholic parochial school, on the ground that the attendance was too small for the school to be kept going. The local Catholics took the matter out of the hands of the local bureaucrats, and appealed to the Ministry of Education in London. The Catholics of the town have been assured that their school is considered necessary by the Ministry of Education, and the local education authorities have been told from headquarters that it is their function to maintain this Catholic school, for which Catholics pay their education taxes. In regard to these educational matters, Catholics in England are learning from experience that an appeal to headquarters often secures for them the legal rights which local officials only too often try to ignore.

Passionists Named For China Missions

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) New York, July 30.—Solemn departure services for five Passionist missionaries who are leaving for the Chinese field were held last Sunday in St. Michael's Monastery, West Hoboken. The missionaries are the Rev. Edmund Campbell, C. P.; Rev. Dunstan Thomas, C. P.; Rev. Constantine Leach, C. P.; Rev. Quentin Olwell, C. P. and Rev. Arthur Benson, C. P. They comprise the third group of Passionist missionaries sent to the Chinese mission within the last two years. With the advent of the new recruits the Passionist missions in China, which are located in the Province of North Honan, will number thirteen priests and one brother. It is expected that this group will shortly be augmented to twenty-five. The district was formerly in charge of the Spanish Augustinians and has a population of 22,000,000 of whom about 13,000 are Catholics. The sermon at the departure ceremony was preached by the Very Rev. John J. Hickey, pastor of St. Joseph's Church.

Electricity Transmitted in Water

A European inventor. It is reported, uses a column of water instead of an electric wire to transmit electric power. The current passes through the water with the same facility whether the water is in motion or stationary, and can be delivered at any desired frequency or in more than one phase. Used for drilling granite in Cornwall, England, the special tools designed for the water wave impulses deliver 80 per cent of the generated power, whereas the compressed air tools deliver only 10 per cent.

Five Fine Trains for China

Five trains of the most luxuriously appointed railroad coaches of America have been recently shipped to China, including three private cars. All were built of steel, and in some of the sleeping cars each compartment has its own lavatory and the beds are placed transversely instead of in the usual American way. The cars were shipped in sections and erected in Chinese shops by Chinese workmen. The installation of the heating equipment, plumbing work, and electric lighting system presented no difficulty at all to the force of workmen.

Aquinas Institute

viction that no delay should be permitted in providing proper housing and facilities for these students. In fact, the architect already has been secured and he is at present employed in preparing plans, and we entertain the confident hope that one year from now the new building will be close to completion.

With a realizing sense of the magnitude of this undertaking, we have repeatedly conferred with the pastors of the city and county, and, after weighing the matter very deliberately and carefully, we have determined to go before our people of this county in the coming autumn, with an appeal for funds with which to purchase the site, erect the building and provide maintenance for two years from the opening of the new building. It is our firm conviction that the system of this Catholic high school should be conducted on the plan of the free parochial grammar school, in order to extend its influence and benefits as universally as possible to the boys who are qualified for advanced education.

Our proposition, then, is to ask the people to make a subscription next November, payable in two years, that will provide for the above, after which time it is intended to present each autumn to our diocesan the cause of ecclesiastical training, Catholic secondary education in the Aquinas Institute and all diocesan needs in one appeal, and we firmly believe that the people not only will be willing but glad to plan a yearly contribution for these important activities of church work and thus save us and themselves the necessity and the undesirable arrangement of repeated collections during the year.

We have submitted this matter to the clergy and have asked their voluntary assent in an effort to raise respective parts of the minimum total of $650,000. This sounds like a bold proposition, but my confidence in its success rests in the fact that it is God's work; that it is for the spread of a system of Catholic education in the important year of manly life; that it is a cause most dear to the heart of every Catholic, and one whose value is beyond question. To this we add the promise and the pledge to priests and people that no effort will be left untried to uphold and promote a standard of education that will be worthy of the church and of the community. We know that our priests and people are all enthusiastically behind their bishop in this undertaking. An organization will be formed in the parishes of Monroe county according to which all the people able to subscribe will be reached and the large numbers of subscribers will make a new record in the support of Catholic endeavor in the diocese.

While asking you to read this message to your people on Sunday, July 29th, I would venture the suggestion that I hope to be heard from between now and the week of the campaign, November 11th, in connection with our proposed undertaking; and, while asking your interest and the interest of your people, I am reminding you and them that our great hope of success rest in God's blessing on the work. I therefore request that you call upon your people, and especially on the children of the parish, for special and frequent prayer that God may grant us guidance and help to bring this work to successful issue. We also expect to ask for general communions in honor of St. Thomas Aquinas, and we now place our petition with confidence before the throne of God, from whom, by the powerful intercession of our patron saint, we sincerely look for the realization of this long-cherished hope.

Belleau Wood Made American Ground, Foch Praising Dead

(By N. C. W. C. News Service.) Chateau Thierry, July 28.—Belleau Wood, the little forest of tangled underbrush and stark dead oaks that was wrested from the German troops by the Marine Brigade and the Second Engineers of the Second Division, was dedicated as American ground last Sunday with impressive ceremony in which the Bishop of Soissons and Marshal Foch participated.

Marshal Foch delivered an eloquent oration to the American soldiers who fell in what he called "the cradle of victory". He described Belleau Wood from a viewpoint of a tactician, explaining how necessary it was that it bar the path of the advancing Germans and how gallantly it was defended by the Americans holding the French flank. "Brave comrades," he said, addressing the American dead, "let me say that you can sleep here in peace—here in the cradle of victory."

The ground had been previously consecrated by the Bishop of Soissons. The United States was represented by Colonel T. Bentley Mott, Major General Harbord, who commanded the Marines, Vice-Admiral Andrews of Pittsburgh; Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania and Colonel Hugh A. Bayne, commander of the Paris post of the American Legion.
