SAID IN EARNEST

Misunderstandings can separate friends far more widely than either time or space.

The happy man has a double chance of being good, and the same rule applies to children.

One eminent authority has beautifully described flowers as the divine children of the dew and sun.

What you must do at first through force of character you will later be able to do through force of habit.

SMALL WONDER SHE BALKED

Bob's Selection of Best Man Naturally Created Misgivings in Mind of Bride-to-Be.

"Well, I suppose Mary and Bob are happily married by this time," Gladys remarked. "No, Gladys, they're not!" Virginia answered. "I had a letter just yesterday afternoon from Mary, and she said the wedding had been postponed."

"Postponed!" Gladys exclaimed. "Why, whatever can the matter be?" "She didn't say, but she intimated that it was something awful. I sat down right away and wrote her to tell me all about it. I ought to have a letter in a day or two, and I'll tell you about it just the minute I hear."

Two days later Virginia came rushing over to Gladys with the expected letter from Mary.

"Oh, Gladys, I don't blame Mary a bit—not a single bit!" Virginia exclaimed. "She had the wedding date set and everything all arranged when she found out that the man Bob had chosen for best man was a young lawyer who was specializing in divorce cases."—Kansas City Star.
