Bernard O'Reilly's Sons Give Sympathetic Service.

To all of us there comes a time when the Grim Reaper steps in and terminates this brief existence of ours. And those we leave behind will find themselves facing the last sad duties that are due, the funeral arrangements that must proceed the ceremonies necessary before we find our last resting place.

Often people who have been bowed in grief because the Grim Reaper has visited their home and stricken from their midst a loved one, find themselves at a loss how to proceed. They don't just want any undertaker. They want someone who understands their loss, who sympathizes with them, who can do for them smoothly and efficiently that type of work which is essential on such occasions. In short they want a sympathetic, understanding funeral director. And if they are rightly advised they will go to The O'Reillys Sons at 163 State St or call them on the telephone Main 164.

This firm can be reached day or night, call them and they will be at your service at once. Almost without your notice they will arrange everything as it should be, with reverence for the loved one who has gone; with sympathy for those left behind, with assurance and a calmness that comes of long service (they have been in business since 1854) and well performed and of a thorough knowledge of their duties.

The Majestic Lunch and Restaurant.
One of the popular restaurants in Rochester is the Majestic Restaurant situated at 111-113 Exchange Street (opposite the Trolley Stations) and operated by J. A. Ferguson.

There are many reasons why this restaurant is popular with those who must eat in restaurants.

First and foremost the restaurant is popular because the food served there comes more closely to being like the kind that is served at home than is usually found in an eating place. Secondly this restaurant makes it a point to serve everything with that appetizing neatness that can not but stimulate the senses. Thirdly this restaurant is reasonable in price and is always open to business, their slogan being "We never close." Service is both table d'ote and a la carte.

Situated in the very heart of the business district it is within walking distance of virtually all the important offices of the city, thus making it highly commendable and convenient to the office worker who eats his meals in a restaurant or the business man who can't go home for his dinner, because his business requirements do not permit him sufficient time.

For such this restaurant holds forth another great advantage namely prompt service, you don't have to fret and become impatient waiting for your order in the Majestic. In most cases a few minutes will suffice to bring to your table whatever your order consists of and with the least possible delay you can eat and be back on the job.

Have You Your Winter Coal Supply?
We are being rounded by chilly winds that winter is approaching and many are not forgetting to order their coal supply, according to the report of The McGarvey Coal Co. Inc., at 8 Reynolds Arcade.

This year the supply has been somewhat delayed by strikes and inadequate transportation facilities but coal is being received daily and none of it waits long for purchasers it is reported. The coal which is seen daily passing through this city is destined for Canadian points and some of the New England States.

It is the policy of the operators to supply their customers at most distant points first. The railroads also give priority rights to these shipments. It is predicted however that the supply of coal in Rochester will be sufficient to meet the demand however great, for which we should be thankful. It would be well though to order your coal as soon as you are able to now so that delivery can be made promptly.

The McGarvey Co. with John McGarvey at the head can serve you with either Anthracite or Bituminous and they can be reached by calling Main 3841.
