

Back to Old Life and Old Friends

By CLARA DELAFIELD

DAN was unhappy. He had been unhappy ever since the day when the news came that Uncle Tim had left him and Kitty fifty thousand dollars.

"Fifty thousand! It seemed a miracle to them. For forty years Kitty had lived in the little cottage facing the works, where Dan had been foreman of the unskilled laborers forever shoveling sand into the concrete mixer.

Then came the legacy. It was Kitty who developed the social bee. "We'll show them we're as good as anybody," she said. "We'll sell the cottage and move."

EXPLORERS FIND SITE OF ANCIENT CITY IN CHINA

Buried Yenching Was Destroyed by the First Emperor Two Thousand Years Ago.

Peking, China.—The remains of an ancient Chinese city, the walls of which, before it was destroyed by China's first emperor more than two thousand years ago, seemingly inclosed more territory than is within the spacious walls of Peking, lies beneath three or four feet of earth about fifty miles south of Peking, awaiting the archeologists, writes the Japan Advertiser.

Checkers of Hats Have Remarkable Memories

New York.—The checkers of hats in large hotels have remarkable memories. Doubtless many young men were employed and discharged before one was found who could learn to take 300 hats from men entering the dining room and distribute them as the diners left, without checks and without error.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRYTALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE GRIZZLY

He was a splendid big grizzly bear and often he would stand and look over the land around his splendid mountain home and would think to himself what a great world it was.

He Was a Lucky Fisherman.

Delicious stalks came up out of the ground and he was enjoying them. He took care of himself, he was wise and he was careful. But he was not one for putting aside pleasures of the moment and thinking of the future.

His Explanation

The teacher was trying very hard to convey the meaning of the word "impression" to the scholars in his class. After giving many illustrations, he said:

Temper and Nerves

Little Molly had been very trying all day. That evening, when her grown-up sister was putting her to bed, she said she hoped the child would be a better girl tomorrow, and not make everybody unhappy with her naughty temper.
