In far off Tibet Chinese dependency, Explorer McGovern finds a paradise for women. In this paradise, high up in the mountain passes, there are 50 men to every woman. No woman is too homely to have less than a dozen suitors, and a woman usually has seven husbands. Nature strives to balance the population. One generation of children will restore the sex balance in Tibet, unless the situation is due to the old Chinese custom of eliminating most of the girl babies.
 The "National Society for the Study of Education has recently been appealed to by eminent leaders in education to foster a movement to give more attention to the specially gifted pupil. Of recent years greater attention in proportion has been given to backward or subnormal children.

Monoliths and pyramids have been found in British Honduras, marking the site of an ancient Mayan city. The American hemisphere is referred to as the new world, but it can, on demand, produce traces of ancient civilizations worthy the attention of any scientist.
 Another reason for seeing America first is that European hotel keepers have just decided to advance prices still further, ignoring the lesson of the man who killed the goose that laid the golden egg.
 Food costs may have declined a bit, yet they have a long way to go before they drop to the level of the good old days when round steak was ten cents a pound and the butcher "threw in" a hunk of suet.
