Firm Busy on New and Old
Though the winter is quite a long ways away, E. H. Knapp and Son are busy repairing old and installing new furnaces every day in all sections of the city. In addition the firm does everything in the sheet metal work line, including gutters, conductors, roofing, and tin, copper, and iron work.

Included in the lines of new furnaces handled by E. H. Knapp are the Ajax made by the Co-Operative Foundry Company of this city, and the Cheerful Home. Mr. Knapp advises home owners to get their furnaces in shape early since he points out better service can be procured without the inconvenience of being without a fire while it would happen if the repairs were deferred until cold weather.

Only expert workmen are employed at the Knapp shop, men who know hot air heating systems, and who are competent to install and repair them, and to do only the best material are used on all jobs, thus insuring long life to the installation or repairs. The hot air heating system says Mr. Knapp is the most healthful and the most economical. It gives the heated air the most moisture thus preventing colds and other diseases and also if properly installed saves coal. Our firm studies each individual job, and makes the installation so that greatest benefits will be derived from the heating.

There are many things to consider in erecting a furnace which are often overlooked, especially the furnace must be located centrally, so that the length of pipe will be evenly divided. This is always taken into consideration by our firm, says Mr. Knapp, as well as the details of convenience for the home owner in placing the feed door in such a position that it will be easy to shovel in the coal and to clean the furnace.

Dealer Urges Use of Small Coal

With the present high price of Anthracite coal, there is a growing demand for some way in which the average householder may cut down the size of his coal bill. There are of course many types of grates which can be used to advantage to burn the steam sizes of Anthracite but for the average home these are too expensive to be of value. Though in apartment houses and office buildings they are coming into more and more general use.

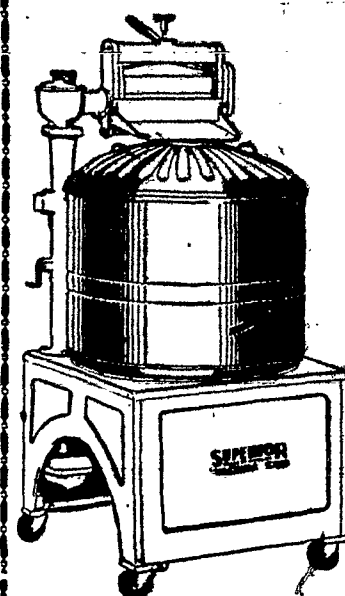

Benedict Meisenzahl whose office is at 377 Main street west recommends what is known as Buckwheat coal for small hot air, hot water, and steam heaters and the results have been very satisfactory. The main difficulty with burning soft coal seems to be the lack of storage space in the average home. It is advantageous to bank with smaller coal and to mix a small portion of it with the furnace coal, except in the coldest weather when it is necessary to use the large coal alone. Now that coal prices are lower, it is advisable to buy your winter supply of coal and store it until ready to use. In buying now you not only save money for yourself but you lessen the expense to others in the fall when the shipment of coal is sure to be heavier and therefore to cost more in transit. Order now!
