

Peace Program Outlined in Pastoral Letter

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) St. C. W. C. Dept. of Social Action Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—Central recommendations on war and peace in the Pastoral Letter of the Archbishops and Bishops of the United States are that it is the people who should decide on war, and that governments should organize laterationally for peace.

The growth of democracy, the Pastoral Letter says, "should imply that the calm deliberate judgment of the people, rather than the aims of the ambitious few, shall decide whether, in case of international disagreement, was the only solution. Knowing that the burdens of war will fall most heavily on them, the people will be slower in taking aggressive measures, and, with an adequate sense of what charity and justice require, they will refuse to be led or driven into conflict by false report or specious argument. If reluctance of this sort were developed in every people, it would prove a more effective restraint than any act of diplomacy or economic pressure."

That the people may have an adequate sense of what justice and peace require in their judgments for or against war, the Pastoral Letter recommends "making the principles of charity and justice an essential part of education. The result would be that 'instead of planning destruction, intelligence would discover new methods of binding nations together, and the good will, which is not doing so much to relieve the distress produced by war, would be strengthened and directed as to prevent the recurrence of international strife."

"God is the Ruler of nations, not men than individuals. The divine commands require that in their dealings with one another, nations shall observe both justice and charity." The Pastoral Letter says, "Justice requires that each nation is bound to respect the existence, integrity and rights of all other nations. Charity requires that 'each nation is obliged to assist other nations with those of benevolence and good will which can be performed without undue convenience to itself. A nation with a superior civilization, industrial activity, commercial enterprise and military strength 'is under a greater responsibility to exert its influence for the maintenance of justice and the diffusion of good will among all peoples."

The Pastoral Letter urges the organization of international peace. It praises the work which the Church has done to organize the nations for peace, and it calls attention to the fact that Pope Benedict was one of the first advocates of an organization for the preservation of the peace. It praises particularly the letter of Pope Benedict in which he advocated an international organization, "which by abolishing conscription will reduce armaments, by establishing international tribunals will eliminate or settle disputes, and by placing peace on a solid foundation will guarantee to all independence and equality of rights."

Sister Marthe Is Decorated By Two Governments

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) Madrid, Sept. 15.—The Ambassador of France to Madrid, Vincent de Rotondo, has been delegated to present, in the name of the French Government, the gold medal of honor to Sister Marthe, formerly of Mount St. Vincent, who has been recognized for her devotion to the cause of the French during the World War. The gold medal was presented to her by the French Government and the Italian Government.

Catholic Gridiron Warriors To Open Season This Week

Half Dozen Powerful Eleven Start Campaigns Saturday—Heavy Intercollegiate Schedules Face

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) Half a dozen gridiron eleven football teams are known to be in the country over in sports, and half a hundred teams of their less pretentious brethren are making themselves over as many practice fields this week in final preparation for the launching of the football season.

Saturday of this week is the take-off day in the great pluck-in-march. Some of the eleven teams that take the field for their opening bow of the season on that day are Holy Cross, Boston College, Fordham, Catholic University, St. Louis, Marquette, University of Detroit, University of Dayton and Duquesne.

An outstanding feature of the season will be intercollegiate football, those East vs. West, North vs. South and so on battles that in the last few years have brought football to its highest state of frenzy. It is worth noting that the intercollegiate game development has been particularly fostered by Catholic institutions and that the great Knute Rockne of the Notre Dame Irish has probably brought it to its greatest perfection to date.

Notre Dame Chief Invader As before, Notre Dame leads in this challenging of other parts of the country. This year will see the Gold and Blue eleven marching with and brawn with the Army, Princeton, Carnegie Tech and Georgetown. Other Westerners who will go East in quest of laurels are St. Louis, which takes on the Army Oct. 4; Marquette, which clashes with the Navy and Boston College; and catches the University of Vermont on tour, and the University of Detroit, which also looks up with the Army, an eleven that will spearhead a large part of its season staving off the onslaughts of sturdy Westerners.

Tidings of the marvelous prospects all over the country are as fervid as usual, with championship outfits everywhere developing. But it would seem, casting all the claims aside, that there are to be some great eleven fights this season and that the rivalry will be keen and the sport good. One of the things interesting to watch will be whether the courageous Marquette eleven, with three intercollegiate games and other hard ones, will this year be able to continue its unbroken record of the last two years.

Notes On Catholic Teams

Here are some notes on a number of Catholic teams: Notre Dame has the eighteenth men back and a lot of reserve, which will be needed in its five weeks of successive campaigning. A light, fast team is expected to be Rockne's prize Marquette, which has the heaviest list in its gridiron history, and suffers the loss of "Red" Dunn, its All-American quarterback. Catholic U. has forty-five veterans and will open its fine new stadium at Georgetown will be coached by Low Nichols, Penn star and lately will eliminate or settle disputes, and a professional with the Frankfort by placing peace on a solid foundation will guarantee to all independence and equality of rights."

Fourteenth Century Chapel Saved By Act Of British Official

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) London, Sept. 12.—A fourteenth century chapel of the Knights of Malta, at Godesfield Hampshire, has been saved from destruction by the action of the Office of Works. The owner of the land on which the chapel stands had proposed to pull down the historic building, partly, it is stated, because of an objection that it was haunted. The Chief Inspector of Ancient Monuments called the attention of the Office of Works to the proposed destruction of the building, and it was at once "scheduled." The effect of scheduling is that the owner is under a statutory obligation to inform the Commissioners of the Office of Works before he does anything which would seriously affect the building. In this way ancient monuments which come into the possession of people who do not understand their historical value are saved for posterity. The old chapel, which has a fine Gothic pulpit, has been scheduled for many years as a barn and a cowshed.

Kluxers Take Fake Picture To Defame Catholic Charities

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 12.—An attempt by the Ku Klux Klan to discredit publicly the National Conference of Catholic Charities, in so-called police investigation ordered by Mayor Carl Carver revealed that evidence indicating disloyalty on the part of the Catholics had been faked.

Three members of the Des Moines police force are implicated. Following indignation protests and the official investigation, the City Council ordered their suspension from the force. Later, two men accused of perpetrating the outrage were arrested.

At an early hour Wednesday morning, Patrolmen James H. Dunagan and George F. Dickey appeared in an official police car at the Coliseum where the sessions of the Conference were being held. They told Patrolmen Al Wieland and Patrick Farrell, on duty as guards, that two newspaper photographers were going to the roof to make pictures of some of the delegates. Wieland declared that no flags of the delegates were to be displayed by the Conference. In the meantime, two men who had driven up in a car bearing a Nebraska license climbed to the roof of the building and affixed a Holy Name pennant to a flagstaff, placing an American flag beneath it. While the discussion between the two parties and policemen was going on, a flashlight picture was made.

Affidavits Indicate Conspiracy Wednesday's issue of the Iowa "Klan Courier" carried the fake picture of the two flags, which were, son of John Taker, of Charlotte, had departed, fastened to a rope on September 22d. Rev. Simon Fitzpatrick in the position described, summons performed the ceremony. The incident was reported to the local officers of the Charities. Con-Gladys A. Titterton, sister of the conference, who immediately demanded a rigid investigation. Police Commissioner John Jenney, swept into office at the spring election with a Klan endorsement, refused to take action until a formal complaint had been made to Mayor Carver by Des Moines citizens, who declared thousands of Conference delegates had been grossly insulted.

The City Council ordered the suspension not only of Dunagan and Dickey, but also of Captain Davies in charge of the night police shift, who was accused in affidavits of sending the two patrolmen to the Coliseum with the "photographers" whose purpose clearly was to humiliate and embarrass officials of the Catholic Conference. Jenney now threatens to suspend also Patrolmen Wieland and Farrell, whose affidavits formed the basis for the City Council's action.

Klan Photographers Arrested P. G. Anderson and R. T. Dabney, Klan photographers, were arrested Thursday on charges of trespassing. Dabney's business address is the Des Moines headquarters of the Klan. Their hearing has been set for September 23.

Coming after a splendid welcome to the Conference delegates by Governor Kendall, who flayed bigotry and lauded Catholic patriotism, the outrage has greatly incensed local business men. More than 5,000 members of the Holy Name Society marched in procession prior to the opening of the Conference Sunday morning and fully 9,000 crowded the Coliseum to attend the Pontifical High Mass, many being unable to get in. Archbishop Keane of Dubuque preached. The Coliseum again was crowded to capacity Sunday evening, when Mayor Carver, Governor Kendall and Bishop Drum extended a welcome to the delegates. Brother Barnabas of Toronto, outlined a proposed program for boys' work. The Apostolic Blessing of Pope Plus was read to the Conference by the social and charitable work being done in his diocese and outlined an ambitious program for the unification of the diocesan charities.

More than 3,500 delegates registered for the Conference, which closed Thursday with an auto trip for visitors to the Iowa State Agricultural College at Ames.
