Vaddy's Evening Mary Graham

DAY NIGHT CLOTHES

Maggie was tired of doing the same things every evening and the same things every morning. She thought really it was rather foolish and decidedly a waste of time.

Every night she spent so long getting off her clothes and putting them on the back of a chair, and every morning it took quite a little while to get dressed.

Now she would have a great deal more time if she didn't do this. Particularly it would be nice to have all that extra time on a Saturday morning when there was no school. She had thought about this for some time. Yes, every single eventing she did the very same things. First came off her shoes and stockings and then her dress and then everything else she had been wearing all day.

And just the same performance day after day and night after night!

It was one Friday that Maggie finally made up her mind. Of course she knew that she would not be able to do flils every night. Once in a while she would have to take off her clothes -in fact most nights she would have to do this, she supposed. There was her bath to be taken every other night. anyway. Sometimes every nigit!

And one couldn't take a bath in one's clothes. There wouldn't be any sense to that. But still—to do exactly the same thing every night-to take off the same clothes and gut them back of the same chair in just the same way, and to put them on in the morning in just the same way, too! Well, once in awhile she could do differently, and that would be pleas-

It would be such a relief from the usual way which was such a silly habit all people seemed to have.

So on this Friday when Maggie had finally made up her mind, she said good-night to the older members of the family and went off/to bed.

She took off her shoes. It would not be very comfortable to sleep with her shoes on, and besides it would not be nice to get into the clean bed with ther shoes on which had been everye specialize in Home Dress-I where in the yard, out on the street -fall over !

didn't look dirty, and besides she finish of this novelty in shades. would wash it in the morning.

She looked about her and feit a little uncomfortable because every-she felt ut a loss to know at once how to begin with this new scheme of things. But of course she simply had to get straight into bed. She didn't think any one would see her. She had a room all by herself and she had already said good night to all the members of the family.

. In the morning it would be so delightful. She could wash her face and for play in lots of time and have a splendld long day of it.

It was strange—that was because of the habit-but her dress was most uncomfortable. Well, she derided she would take that off. She would get that all mussed up anyway and then that wouldn't take long to put. on in the morning.

So she took of her dress. Then she got back into hed once more. Her stockings felt very uncomfortable, and she couldn't make up her mind whether she felt cold with them on because she wasn't close enough to the nice, soft sheets, or whether she felt too warm with them on, She furned this way and that, and everything seemed to be in her way. Oh, how long she stayed awake. Surely it was not because of the clothes. When she at last fell asleep, it seemed that she woke right up againalthough that couldn't have been be-uncomfortable, she felt yet maybe it was a pretty good habit after all to wear night-clothes at night and dayline clothes in the durtime alone. All that is required to make

CHRISTMAS GIFTS THAT ARE WELCOME

S THE holidays are a time when most of us would like to make one dollar do the work of five, iny suggestion should be welcome which shows how thoughtfulness can make a cheap gift acceptable. Therefore I give a few such instances from my own experiences

I know a housewife who is famous for her lemon jumbles, and another whose mince pies are a toothsome delight. These two women remember their friends each Christmas, with their specialties, and, I assure you, no present is received more gratefully than is theirs. Still another, who makes orange marmalade by a wonderful secret recipe, gives a glass of this confection to her favored circle. But-a word of warning: Be absolutely sure that such an offering is really and truly desired. For example, I remember one woman, on a strict diet to whom all sweets are forbidden. whose careless acquaintances are constantly sending boxes of candy, and one whom strawberries sicken and who, last year, received a glass of wild struwberry jam, delicious to all those who could eat it, but, it happened, she could not. However, such mistakes are the result of carelessness, and need not occur.

A shut-in once expatiated to me upon the solid help afforded her by a Christmas present of a "utility basket." It held all the odds and ends she was forever wanting, and could not readily procure for herself-pins, needles, tape, balls and sockets, threads and silks and cottons. "Every time I peep into it," she cried, as happy as a child, "I find something new that I need." It was not an expensive offering, and yet it was one of the most acceptable I ever heard of. Akin to it was a little silk sewing bag, also rapturously received because the maker had informed herself of what the recipient's wardrobe would be that winter, and placed inside, with thimble and needle-case, spools of colored silks matching each garment to be worn that winter. Here again the thoughtfulness-not the gift itself-is what counts.

A case of threaded needles is most acceptable to all women beyond middle age whose eyes are beginning to fall, and invaluable to a traveler. Other discriminating presents are packets of choice seeds, saved during the summer, and sent to an amateur gardener at Christmas time. A manuscript book (typewritten, if possible) of tested recipes, compiled by the sender, is another always welcome

And what pleasure, sentimental, retirospective and anticipatory. theirs, sojourners in a far western home, who, just before the holidays, opened a box from mother and sisters, "back home" in the East, containing a plum pudding and a truit cake, made by the well-remembered recipe and, on Christmas day, to be enjoyed with most affectionate thoughts of those who, thousands of miles away, had helped to cook the gala-time dinner .-May Wilson.

OUR HEART-RADIOS ON CHRISTMAS EVE

OD owns the biggest broadcasting station in the universe, and what He sends forth to all corners of the world is love. Every human being has a radio-a heart-radio. If we take the trouble to "tune in," we are in a fair way of becoming good receiving stations. And a good receiver may hear harmonies that will vibrate through his being like chords on a harp. At Christmas time we should have heart-radios in perfect condition that we may know the beauty of God's love, which manifests itself in kindliness. friendliness, happiness and good
