Vatican Reserve On League Holds, Despite Visits

At Same Time, Catholic Organization Finds Means of Keeping In Touch With Committees on Many Matters of Interest To Faithful

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) Paris, Jan. 12.—The outstanding fact of the recent meeting of the Council of the League of Nations in Rome, as far as public opinion is concerned, was probably the postponement at the request of the British Government of the examination of the famous protocol somewhat hastily elaborated by the Assembly in September, 1924.

Must it be concluded from these facts that the League of Nations is doomed to be powerless where the adjustment of international litigation is concerned, and that the Catholics should ignore it?

Limitations of the League.

This is the point of view taken by Rev. Yves de la Briere, Professor at the Catholic Institute of Paris, in his book "L'Organisation Internationale du Monde Contemporain et le Pape Souverain."

This is the line of conduct adopted by the Catholic groups founded in 1920, with the consent of the Holy See, under the name of "Union Catholique d'Etudes Internationales (Catholic International Study Union) which has its headquarters at Fribourg, and whose president and vice-president are two eminent Catholics from that country.

This Union has just held its fifth General Assembly in the Salon of the Bishop's House, the same one in which Cardinal Merilliod formerly presided at the meeting of the Union de Fribourg.

The interest of this meeting lies in the method of work adopted by the Union. In order to be in a better position to deal with Geneva, the Union has created its own international technical commissions to follow the work of the similar commissions of the League of Nations.

The Catholic International Study Union wished to avoid such a situation. And the committees of the League with which it has already had dealings understand this attitude.

Marquette's Dental Dean Highly Honored

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 6.—In honor of outstanding work on behalf of dental education throughout his career, Dr. Henry L. Baahaf, dean of the Marquette University college of dentistry and business manager of the university, has been awarded a scroll of merit and honor medal by the Rhode Island State Dental Society at Providence, R. I.

This is an honorary award made by the Rhode Island dentists from time to time. Only four men have been thus honored so far.

Marquette's college of dentistry is one of the largest and most modern in the world, and its graduate school and pre-dental courses were the first to be announced in this country.

It is in this spirit that the Union has already formed Catholic committees on intellectual cooperation, on humanitarian causes, on representation and on the defense of minorities. The Committee on Intellectual Cooperation for instance has drawn up and transmitted to Geneva some interesting observations concerning the plan for safeguarding scientific property rights, sponsored by the Italian Senator Ruffini.

This step has been taken under consideration and regular relations, of a scientific order, have now been established between the Commission on Intellectual Cooperation of the League of Nations and that of the Catholic Union. Similar relations exist between the Union and the consulting committee for the fight against opium to which the Union has recently forwarded a resolution, passed in December, urging stricter regulation of the manufacture of and traffic in narcotic drugs.

League Invites Suggestions

The Catholic International Study Union wished to avoid such a situation. And the committees of the League with which it has already had dealings understand this attitude.

Psycho-Analyst Finds Catholics' Needs Met By The Confessional

New York, Jan. 16.—Of all people, Catholics stand the least in need of the services of a psychoanalyst, in the opinion of Dr. Carl G. Jung, disciple of Sigmund Freud, known as the father of psychoanalysis.

Catholics are least in need of the psychoanalyst to relieve the mind of burdens and agonies caused by suppressed and horrible influences, associations, Protestant, neutral, Dr. Jung said, because the Catholic can unload his mental burdens in the confessional.

No explanation has been offered of Dr. Jung's secret visit to America, while here he was under the guidance of Harold Fowler McCormick, son of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick of Chicago.
