

Dr. Ryan Urges Outlaw of War

Washington, D. C., April 28.—Outlawry of war as proposed in the Protocol for the Pacific Settlement of International Disputes is "in exact accord with Catholic teaching," says Dr. Ryan...

"This proposal embodies unquestionably the most fundamental, the most far-reaching, the most hopeful, the most ethically correct method for ending war and assuring peace that has ever been brought forward."

Dr. Ryan pleads for action by Catholic organizations and individuals in the peace movements of the United States. He declares that the excuse that this would be interference in politics is not a sound one.

"There are many ways," Dr. Ryan says, "along which Catholics can move for the promotion of international peace besides those that have become the subject of partisan political discussion."

"The fundamental need today in most of our people is a critical examination of the paralyzing assumption that the assumption is really true; or whether, even if it be true, it automatically relieves them of the obligation of seeking to make war remote."

BALFOUR'S VISIT BEGINS NEW ERA FOR PALESTINE

(continued from page 1) Arab population of this country cannot draw the full measure of advantage which the University is capable of giving to those whom it serves.

"Now the Arabs will remember that in the darkest days of the dark ages, when Western civilization appeared almost extinct, smothered under barbaric influence, it was the Jews and the Arabs in combination working together, who greatly aided the first sparks of light which illumined that gloomy century."

London, April 22.—The most scathing criticism of British policy in Palestine that has ever been composed into a column of type appears in the "Evening News" from the pen of J. M. N. Jeffries, a well-known foreign correspondent who incidentally is a Catholic.

"It is the custom of Lord Balfour and the other Zionist apologists to speak of the Zionist movement as an idealist one. Let facts speak in their un-Balfourian way."

"He has never made a bad speech in his life; he speaks well upon good subjects and better upon worse, and no one can match his diction in defense of something for which there is absolutely nothing to say."

"But, alas! the question does arise: Is it the function of the Holy Land to provide Lord Balfour with opportunity for phrase-making? Is it more important that an accomplished orator and essayist should be given opportunities for playing the airy fairy Lillian in subsidized orange-groves, that a small people should obtain justice and the British name be cleared?"

School of Foreign Service Arranges Study Tours Abroad

Washington, May 1.—Officials of the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University here announce that arrangements have been made for two summer study tours abroad for the students of the School of Foreign Service. One of the groups will go to the Academy of International Law at The Hague, Holland, and the other to the University of Coimbra in Portugal.

This will be the third time the School of Foreign Service has sent groups to the Academy of International Law at The Hague. The courses are given in the beautiful Peace Palace, in the same building in which the Permanent Court of International Justice will be sitting this summer.

The lectures include many of the most famous international lawyers and statesmen from a number of countries. Among them are Senator Pouillet, professor at the University of Louvain, Belgium; Prof. Pillet, of the University of Paris; Senor Guani, member of the Council of the League of Nations; Prof. Pilence, formerly of the University of St. Petersburg; Count Rostrowski, of the University of Cracow, Poland; M. Politis, Minister of Greece at Paris; M. Gide, Professor at l'Ecole des Sciences Politiques, of France; Prof. Fedozzi, of the University of Genoa; Prof. Saldani, of the University of Madrid; Prof. De Vischer, of the University of Ghent; Prof. Manley O. Hudson, of Harvard University; Prof. Van Der Wiught, Dean of the Law School of the University of London; Baron Heyking, former Consul-General of Russia and Arthur K. Kuhn, prominent international lawyer of New York.

Thomas H. Healy, Assistant Dean of the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown, has been appointed to join this group of international celebrities and to give a series of lectures on Public Order in International Law. Students of the Academy are recruited from practically every nation in the world. Last year 40 of the students hold degrees from universities in different parts of the world. In view of the unusual character of the Academy, appointment to a lectureship there is considered a single honor. Dr. James Brown Scott, famous international lawyer, a resident of Washington for many years, is one of the Directors and founders of the Academy.

Due to the central location of The Hague arrangements will be made for all the students who go there to make side trips to Belgium, France, Germany and England. The study tour to Portugal will be to the University of Coimbra which is one of the oldest and most famous universities in the world. Courses will be given in Portuguese, Spanish and English. A part of the lectures will be given by Dr. J. de Coutinho, Professor of Portuguese in Portugal, and Brazilian Seminar in the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University.

Plans are being made for this group to land at Bordeaux, France and to make the trip by rail across the southern section of France or across Spain and eventually to Coimbra, Portugal. Both of the tours will leave New York about June 15 and return to New York about September 15.

Pilgrimages Sailing By United States Lines Every Week

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) New York, May 1.—Indications that the tide of American pilgrims to Rome for the Holy Year has set in is earnest are contained in booking figures given out here by Dr. Michael J. Slattery, Director of the Holy Year Tours for the United States Lines. All vessels of the United States Lines are booked so solidly, said Dr. Slattery, that he is unable to accept any more large group pilgrimages for sailing before July 22. The Lines now have a Holy Year tour leaving the United States virtually every week up to July 22, he added.

This announcement does not mean, Dr. Slattery emphasized, that there is not room for individual bookings. He commented on the fact that there is a widespread tendency for pilgrims to go individually or in small groups. "Thousands are going in this way," he said.

Large tours which will leave on United States Lines vessels in the next two months and a half were mentioned by Dr. Slattery as follows: Miami Valley Holy Year pilgrimage, drawing its membership from Cincinnati, Columbus and other nearby cities; June 6; Bishop Curley's Syracuse diocesan pilgrimage, July 22; Bishop Swint's Wheeling pilgrimage and Bishop Gannon's Erie pilgrimage, now being arranged for sometime before July 22. In addition, numerous pilgrimages organized by priests, schools and individuals will sail in the period mentioned. A Pittsburgh pilgrimage is virtually decided upon.

St. Louis University Broadcasts Program On WEW Anniversary

St. Louis, Mo., April 30.—This evening at St. Louis University a program of sacred and classical music was given in celebration of the fourth anniversary of the establishment of WEW, St. Louis University, the first telephonic radio broadcasting station in the middle west. This was also the second such station in the country to broadcast government reports of the weather and the first in the West, to send out reports of the U. S. Agricultural Department. The reports were so successful and beneficial to farmers that government officials were sent from Washington to investigate in order that similar stations could be established throughout the country.

While this experiment was in progress the Secretary of Agriculture had the news broadcast that these reports might not be continued, but thousands of signatures, including 4,000 from one Illinois district alone, were collected in protest against discontinuance.

In the summer of 1921 WEW again took the lead in broadcasting musical programs, now so popular. In March, 1924 were added religious lectures and sermons which have pleased audiences of all creeds and none.

The sacred music of the concert this evening was rendered by a select choir of male voices, as follows: Miss S. Rosae, by tenors and basses; Kyrie, Gloria, Sanctus and Benedictus; Pante Angelicus, tenor solo and choir; soprano solo and Regina Coeli. The concert was heard by thousands of music lovers throughout the city.

The Tramp by the Haunted Well. First Verse A thousand leagues from old New York. Tossing and rolling from side to side. Like a rudderless lurching ship. At the mercy of wind and tide. My traps for the Sandman's coming. One by one in the discard falling. While from the sleeping Irish village. The Great White Way kept calling.

Second Verse Uncanny grew the stillness. And stuffy was the night. Repose had left my body. When sleep had taken flight. Naught left but follow suit. I ganged the dusty way. 'Till I spied a crystal well. In a meadow of new-mown hay.
