Words! Words!
Some very beautiful choral music we heard recently reminded us of a little speech Sir Henry Wood once made to Sheffield choristers. "Now for your greatest fault!" he exclaimed. "Words! Words are your master. When you go and hear a bad concert opera and you listen with rapt attention to the principal comedian, what attracts you? You are able without effort to hear every word he sings. Yet forget that he has no voice. Now think when you are singing choruses at the next festival what a delight it will be to the public if they hear every word you sing!"

King's Power Nominal
In England the veto is a remnant of the more extensive power formerly exercised by the king, but which has gradually been cut down until only the negative power of disapproval is left. Since 1708 the right has never been exercised. None, however, does not imply that the power was not used at the present time, though the system of responsible government makes its use so difficult.

JOVIAL JOTTINGS
A girl can't help her looks, but her looks can help her.
All men are not homeless, but some are home less than others.
Some people prune their genealogical trees by cutting their poor relations.
Hunger is the best sauce which explains why street-boys are naturally saucy.
There is one type of man who can always put a horse on its metal—the blacksmith.
It is much easier for a woman to make a fool of a man than to make a man of a fool.
Some men may be in advance of their age, but all women are a few years behind it.
When a man finds a woman for whom he thinks there's nothing good though he asks her to take himself.

The Cloverleaf Will Supply Your Food Cooked

As the warm weather becomes prevalent it becomes increasingly more important that the housewife should know of some reliable place where food, especially delicious cooked food, may be obtained without the necessity of preparing it at home. The Cloverleaf Delicatessen Shop at 631 Monroe Ave., is the best place to go.
At the present time it has expanded to take care of its increasing business and opened a baked food shop at 497 Monroe Ave. Here they carry their own baked goods exclusively. For picnics and lunches a chef is on hand at all times to prepare the best of food such as salads, sandwiches, cold meats, and deserts. Persons may order just what appeals to them and the order will receive the most careful attention. The lunches are put up in compact form for carrying and will be delivered to your door or at your destination. They also cater to parties, banquets and other social functions.
A special feature with the firm is the serving of the noon-time lunches at the shop and of dinner at night. These are very popular due to the moderate price and the good food served. When you are in the vicinity try them out you will be sure to make a second call.
A great demand is always prevalent for their delicious food, pies, cakes, cookies, french pastries, doughnuts, cheeses, baked beans, cold meats, eggs, fresh butter. All forms of bread is baked in their own plant, and includes rolls, buns of all kinds, bread of many varieties, kitchens, muffins, etc. When in need of any of the above call them at Chase 1969.

Electrical Goods Of The Best

For the graduates of High School who is leaving in a few months for college there are many electrical appliances which will make useful gifts that can be taken with them and used thru the years at college. For the girls there are curling irons so much used now-a-days and a cheap and lasting remembrance, also small-sized flat irons that can be carried in a hand-bag, one plate electric stoves and grills and small sized percolators. Also student lamps in varied designs and colorings. These would make any girl graduate happy.
For the boys who are so hard to find things for, there are the more masculine student lamps, small and convenient, Radio sets to take up the extra time between classes, and though its hard to imagine boys cooking they are some times forced to it away from home and the grills and toasters and the like come in handy.
At the Kohlmeier Shop at 625 Sawyer street the housewife too, can find many electric appliances that will delight her. These include electric washers, wringers, ironers, stoves, fans, so suitable for this weather, vacuum cleaners and many more.
They have a fine assortment of lamps that they are selling at small profit to make room for new goods. There are fixtures and other electric fixings that can be picked up cheap at this time of the year.
If father is interested in Radio take him into this store and let him pick out a reliable set, that will give the family pleasure. There is not another article which would please the whole family as a Radio would. Each one can work them easily, and the others do not get out of them. There are jazz orchestras for the young, lectures, concerts, symphonies, and other varied programs, which are always a delight. Call here and get their prices and hear a demonstration.
This firm is a member of the Rochester Electrical League. This of course gives them a fine rating. You will find all these electrical supplies and appliances arranged in order at their offices and supply rooms. They have as their watch word, Service. Try them.

Famous Roman City
The name "Hadrian's Villa" is given to a great number of superb structures, now in ruins, erected at Tivoli, 18 miles east of Rome, by the Emperor Hadrian (117-138 A. D.), who wished to reproduce the most striking objects he had met with in his extensive travels. According to antiquarians, the space enclosed in this way was about eight or ten miles in circumference. When, about 70 years after the time of Hadrian, the Emperor Caracalla built at Rome the celebrated baths that bear his name, the famous buildings of Hadrian's villa were riddled of their superb marbles for purposes of decoration.—Kansas City Star.

Odd Entries Into Life
Many babies are born at sea, but it is doubtful if any entered such a troublous world as a German baby girl born in mid-Atlantic during a recent terrible storm. Steerage babies often provide an event for passengers to talk about. A subscription list is always opened, with the result that the baby receives a substantial start-off in life.
The record in strange birthday surroundings is surely held by the baby boy who was born 8,600 feet up in the air. His mother was traveling by airplane from Budapest to Naples when the event took place.

Absurdity of Man
Really, when it comes to glory there is no limit to the absurdity of man. A man will glory in a disease, a vice, the wealth of an ancestor when he is himself poor or the poverty of an ancestor when he is himself rich; the street in which he lives; the color of his hair, of his eyes; the possession of something which he picked up in the street—even the abuse of some one more notorious than himself. Men will glory in anything, just as the famine-struck will eat anything. Such is the appetite for glory. And why is it there? I say again, to make men achieve, to make them write bad verse, build hideous houses, put up impossible monuments, pass bad laws, and in general destroy their kind.—Hillare Belloc in the New Statesman.

Spring Month Named After Greek Goddess
Maia, the Greek goddess for whom the Romans named the lovely spring month, was the oldest of the Pleiades, or seven daughters of Atlas and Oceanus and Pleione. She and her sister, who were born on Mount Olylene in Arcadia, according to Greek mythology, are sometimes called the goddesses of the mountains.
Maia became the mother of Mercury, and was greatly loved by the old Romans, who, on the first day of May, made sacrifices in her name. In Italy she was known as Maa Mapesta, the goddess of spring.
If you will watch the sky on a spring evening, you will see the six stars which form the Pleiades. The old Greeks believed that Jupiter placed Maia and her six sisters together in the sky, and that they formed for a long time a group of seven. One day Myrpepe married a mortal named Sisyphus, who in some way displeased the gods. For punishment he was condemned to spend eternally rolling a stone uphill, so that Myrpepe hid her face from her sisters in sorrow and shame. That is why we see but six of the daughters of Atlas shining in the sky; for Myrpepe's face is still concealed behind one of her sister stars.—Chicago Daily News.

Ocean Area
The oceans of the world have an area of about 180,000,000 square miles and their combined volume is about 302,000,000 cubic miles. The average depth is two miles and the deepest known depth is five miles. A gallon of ordinary sea water contains about one-quarter pound of salt. From a study of the beds of rock salt underlying Straasfort, Germany, New York state, Ohio, Michigan and Kansas, and Cheshire, England, it is supposed these areas are all dried-up inland seas.

Real Sportsman
On the fishing stream a man is patience personified. He waits hours for a nibble and congratulates himself when he finally secures one. Why can't he be as good a sportsman in his home or place of business? If he's a real sportsman he will be.—Grit
