Christmas, Feast Of Family, Topic Of Radio Address

Dr. Anne Nicholson Uses Paulist Wireless To Apply Lessons Of Season For N. C. W. C. Study Clubs New York, Dec. 28.—Christmas is the feast of the family, and the annual retelling of its ancient story is and should be a renewed incentive year by year to cherish and protect family life, said Dr. Anne Nicholson of the National Council of Catholic Women in an address here tonight over the Paulist radio. WLWL Dr. Nicholson spoke at the regular N. C. W. C. Study Club Hour.

Recounting the old story of the Holy Family in the simple words of St. Luke, the speaker drew from it the following modern lesson: "The pace at which the world is rushing has drawn men away from family life. In a few minutes we are carried to scenes that make the simple joys of home weigh heavily on those who forget their true worth. Later on comes the realization that the craving for excitement is only an effervescence of youth. It has in it no real substance nor satisfaction for the human heart.

Effects Of War. "A deep wound was inflicted in the very heart of American home life by the World War. We do not yet know the amount of destruction it has left in its path. But there came with the war a perverted idea of patriotism. It fostered, too, a false freedom. In the midst of this false liberty and shattering of ideals there still lives, in the hearts of devoted fathers and mothers, the home spirit and love of the simple life.

"But just as the situation seemed to have reached its climax and all fathers and mothers looked on in fear and trembling, St. Teresa of the Child Jesus was placed before them as a world-figure who grew up in a home as simple as was that of Nazareth. "In canonizing the Little Flower, Pope Plus has canonized a modern Christian home. He has placed on the brows of a devoted father and mother the reward of God's eternal approval of a work well done. All fathers and mothers can look to these simple French parents. They modeled their home after the home of Nazareth. They modeled their own lives after the saintly lives of Mary and Joseph."

Dr. Nicholson pointed to the lives of Mary and Joseph as exemplars for the home. "A great affection united them in closest comradeship," she said, "The loving interchange of thought and opinion was the home.

Love prompted little kindly deeds to console and warm their hearts, for Joseph and Mary were poor in this world's goods. Their wealth was an abundance of love and thoughtfulness. In all the details of life there was a close comradeship between them. Mary accompanied Joseph on all the pilgrimages the law and customs of the Jewish race commanded, she shared and softened all the little trials Joseph met in supporting the home at Nazareth. Their minds and hearts were one. Out of this noble affection arose a respect and reverence for each other, for life to them was sacred in its source, in its dignity, and sacred in its destiny.

Secret Of Strength. "In the simple joys of life shared in the family circle is the secret of strength for every individual even today. Christmas has brought us back to this family circle in body and in spirit. In response to Christ's childhood, the child of high purpose that sleeps within our hearts has been awakened. In terms of the family life we must evaluate the things the world offers us. On one side is fame and wealth and honor, high adventure and pleasure. We turn from them with true insight into the sounder joys of the home. We too can only be happy in a home modeled after that of Nazareth. We are happy only if our lives are modeled after Mary and Joseph's. We are happy in each thought, the word, and deed, we seek to please the Child Jesus."

Next Monday, at the N. C. W. C. Study Club Hour there will be given the first of a series of addresses on "What is Going On in Congress."

Bishop Says Jubilee Mass In Church His Convert Father Gave

London, Dec. 28.—Bishop Cary-Elwes of Northampton assisted this week at the celebration of the golden jubilee of St. Mary's Church, Brigg, in Lincolnshire, which his own father, Mr. Valentine Cary-Elwes, presented to the diocese fifty years ago. Both Mr. Cary-Elwes and his wife were converts. The faith had been practically stamped out in Brigg by the Reformation, but with the conversion of Mr. Cary-Elwes, who was lord of the manor, the fortunes of the parish became more prosperous. There was no Catholic place of worship in the district, but Mr. Cary-Elwes converted his manor house and stables into a church. Among those who took part in the procession at the opening in 1875 were the present Bishop, then seven years old, and his brother Mr. Gervase Elwes, the famous singer who was killed at Boston, Mass., a few years ago.

Chinese Admiral's Daughter Enters Catholic College

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) Toledo, Jan. 2.—Miss Cecelia Hsu, daughter of a Chinese admiral, has arrived in Toledo to enter Mary Manse College, the women's branch of St. John's College. She expects to remain until she receives her A. B. degree.

Miss Hsu's father is Vice-Minister of the Chinese Navy, and is known in the United States, having visited this country twice on official missions. Miss Cecelia's coming to Toledo, however, is the outgrowth of a meeting in China between her father and Dr. Barry O'Toole, a Toledo priest who has been in the Orient for several months. When the admiral expressed the intention of sending his daughter to an American college, Father O'Toole suggested Mary Manse. Miss Hsu's elder sister is a Franciscan nun. Miss Hsu has been attending a Franciscan Sister's school in Peking. When she arrived Mother Mary Margaret, Dean of the College, took with her to the station a French girl, in the hope that if the new student could not speak English she could converse in French. To her astonishment, Miss Hsu spoke both English and French fluently.

Cardinal Dougherty Dedicates New Home Of The C. Y. M. A.

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) Philadelphia, Jan. 2.—Cardinal Dougherty this week dedicated the new $290,000 home of the Catholic Young Men's Association in Arch street. It is to be opened in about a month.

Recounting how World War work in Philadelphia through the National Catholic War Council grew, three years ago, into the founding of the Catholic Young Men's Association, His Eminence said: "In every large city of the United States there is room for a Catholic Young Men's Association. When the home influence is broken, when a young man is adrift, with no one to keep an eye on him, how easily he falls! No sacrifices can be too great to aid the Catholic Young Men's Association. Gymnasium and swimming pool equipment will be installed soon in the new C. Y. M. A. home. There will be a cafeteria and accommodations for 125 young men, as compared with room for only 41 in the old quarters.

Bishop Of Cleveland Moves His Office To Big Title Building

(N. C. W. C. News Service) Cleveland, Dec. 31.—Removal of the office of Bishop Joseph Schrembs from the Cathedral House to a nearby office building will take place tomorrow. The change is made in keeping with the plan to assemble in one place the diocesan offices including the bishop's office, those of the chancery, the superintendent of schools, superintendent of charities, and certain diocesan bureaus, instead of having them scattered, as has been the case for many years. The office of the bishop has been in the cathedral residence adjoining the cathedral for half a century and the four preceding bishops made it not only their office but also their home for many years. The first break in the office-home combination came shortly after Bishop John P. Farrelly was installed, when a large house on Ambler Parkway, Cleveland Heights was purchased for him and was used as his private home. The change in the Bishop's residence from downtown Superior Avenue was made necessary because of the growth of the business section of the city in that vicinity. The Cathedral House remained, however, the bishop's office. Upon the death of Bishop Farrelly the residence on the Heights became the residence of his successor, Bishop Schrembs. The new offices will be in the Guarantee Title Building, 615 Superior Avenue, N. E.

Mayor Of Buffalo Will Pay Visit To Archbishop Cieplak

Buffalo, Jan. 2.—Mayor Schwab of Buffalo, receiving Archbishop Cieplak of Vilna, the Polish prelate once condemned to death by the Russian Soviet government, on the occasion of his visit here, accepted an invitation to visit the archbishop in his See city next Spring. Mayor Schwab said he would go to Poland in the course of a three-month tour in Europe next Spring. Archbishop Cieplak arrived in Buffalo a week ago Tuesday, and following an enthusiastic reception, remained here until Saturday night, when he departed for Bay City, Mich. Members of the clergy, business and professional men, and members of women's organizations met him at the train. He was then taken in a decorated car to his quarters. There followed each day a busy series of receptions, meetings and religious observances, arranged by the executive committee of the Polish Welfare Council. Bishop Turner and the Acting Consul of Poland were among those who received the distinguished prelate. Another to greet him was Frank Rozkwalicki, a resident of Buffalo whose son Archbishop Cieplak ordained in Rome last Summer.

Northwest's Veteran School Teacher Dead

Vancouver, Wash., Jan. 2.—Patrick Hough, one of the oldest educators in the Northwest veteran of the Franco-Prussian War, and an ardent Catholic, is dead at his home here. He began his teaching career in Tipperary County, Ireland where he was born, and was still teaching in the high school here when he was 77. In 1870 Mr. Hough was in France with a group of Irish students when the Franco-Prussian War broke out. He organized an ambulance unit for service at the front, and while aiding the wounded had his right arm torn off by a shell. The following year he went to British Columbia to take charge of a school conducted by the Oblate Fathers, pioneer missionaries in that field. In 1883 he came to Vancouver as principal of Holy Angels College, a diocesan institution no longer existing. Later he entered public school work, which he followed for many years. When war came in 1917 he reentered the field of active teaching.
