An Easter Vision

When'er I hear the Easter bells
Ring out their carols gay,
The graves from all the hills and dells
Dissolve from sight away.
I see the mighty planet left
Without a marble stone
To tell of death, or one bereft
Who comes to weep alone.

Dear hands, long folded to their rest,
Return to touch my own,
And voices memory has blessed
In each familiar tone
Speak as in other days to me;
While on the springtime's breath
Is borne to every land and sea
The news, "There is no death."
—Exchange.

Easter Promise Brings Comfort to Believers

Hope, Joy, and Faith Combined in Message Savior Left to Men.

Easter day, the day of the risen Christ—what is its message to humanity? Above all other Christian festivals its significance is paramount. His birth beneath the wintry stars in the Bethlehem manger brought joy only to the few. He came unto his own and his own knew him not. His death on that dark Friday plunged even His most faithful into despair—their faith was not yet complete. Nineteen hundred years ago the loving ones that had followed Him mourned about his tomb. The promised Redeemer of Israel had gone the way of all human flesh and the great stone of the tomb sealed Him from their view. So His followers mourned and wept, as stricken mortals mourn and weep today. His great promise was forgotten—even the faith of those whose eyes had seen Him and whose ears had heard His words, humanlike, was weak—resurrection was still a meaningless word to them. And then, on that first Easter morn, the great miracle that was to confirm their faith and to become the real foundation stone of Christian hope was fulfilled. He rose from the dead and among His

Joy Registered When Lost Goose Returned

The flock bore eastward high over the Columbia—save for a single bird that must have passed above the gunner ere he fired. This goose drove to the west above and along the river, and at every wing stroke the distance between bird and flock widened.

They faded from sight. The call of the lost goose, the voice of the flock, merged gradually into silence, shading away until one heard only the ceaseless whisper of the current.

Presently, far to the west, the call came faintly forth again and grew in volume. The lost goose was described as a frantic hurrying speck, tacking hither and thither. His cry was rapidly repeated, which is not the habit of Canadas, and beyond all misunderstanding it was not only plaintive but perturbed.

At a quarter mile in the air he drove past, seeking far to eastward, only to retrace his course, constantly calling, and to retrace it time and again.

He heard them a full minute before we did, for on the instant his cry was joyous and confident and his flight to the east took a determined and resolute direction.

And then, distant as a dream, faint and far, we caught the bugles of the returning flock. Were they, too, searching? But surely there was elation in their quickened clamor when the lost one literally hurled himself among them, and took his rightful place. They rose to the flight lane. The V took shape, and southward they drifted, southward. Wild geese!

Filial Devotion That Dared Tyrant's Rage

Margaret More was the daughter of Sir Thomas More, lord chancellor of Henry VIII, the bigamous monarch. At the time of the Reformation and the king's divorce and subsequent marriage with Anna Boleyn, Henry demanded that More, an ardent Catholic, should give his assent to the marriage, which Sir Thomas refused on principle and law. He was committed to the Tower and beheaded and his head stuck upon a pike and exhibited on London bridge. Margaret, his beloved daughter, undaunted by fear or danger, had a trusty servant row her at nightfall to the bridge. She kept the boat steady in the current while the servant climbed to the pier, loosened the precious head of her father and dropped it into the lap of his devoted daughter. She buried the head in the garden of the house in Chelsea, and with no realization of the heroism of her act, she became the mainstay of the afflicted family.—Advertiser Magazine.

Easter Greetings

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

- A Happy Easter!
The comfort of Easter, the strengthening of faith, the joyous balm of immortality.
- A Happy Easter!
The beauty of Easter, the fragrant flowers, the lilies, daffodils, hyacinths.
- A Happy Easter!
The newness of Easter, everything beginning with freshness, the adornment of nature and human nature.
- A Happy Easter!
The merriment of Easter, children hunting for bright colored eggs, chocolate bunnies wearing fancy ribbons and droll smiles.
- A Happy Easter!
The thoughtfulness of Easter, friends taking flowers to friends, comforting cards, gay plans.
- A Happy Easter!
The music of Easter, the hymns that are sung, the organ's deep beauty, the glory with which it fills us.

QUESTIONETTES

- Could anyone who loves the truth let sleeping dogs lie?
- If a stamp won't stick, should it be given a good licking?
- Would the last trump frighten a confirmed whist player?
- What's the antidote for a girl who dotes on an ineligible man?
- Could an inefficient curate be described as a clerical error?
- Is it right to keep your age dark by dyeing your hair black?
- Should not the bald facts of a case bring matters to a head?
- Do policemen get tired when they go a long time without arrest?

OPTIMISTIC LESSON

First lessons in cheerfulness, by the Tifton Gazette man:
"Suppose that everyone you knew was always gloomy, glum and blue, and no one ever undertook to give a cheerful word or look."
"Suppose that people everywhere were downed by every woe and care, and didn't ever laugh or smile, but simply grumbled all the while."
"Or what if there was no one here who ever spread a bit of cheer; or if we really never heard a pleasant or a cheerful word."
"The answer is, with such the case, this world would be a gloomy place."
—Atlanta Constitution.

Old Traditions Kept

Many of the old traditional English expenditures are still to be seen on the London city accounts for the year. The lord mayor draws his salary "in lieu of all ancient fees and emoluments." He has at the same time a "furniture allowance for the Mansion house," and a "robe allowance."

The official city sword-bearer, the city trumpeter, the ancient ale conners and the vergers of St. Paul's cathedral are still on the list of salaried officials.

Another item of expense is labeled "open spaces," which being translated means the cost of parks and commons. Another entry says "For cloth delivered, according to ancient custom, to ministers of state and others," while there are expensive entries under the entertainment of foreign royalty "for the cost of writing and illuminating the (presentation) scroll."

Parent of Languages

Sanskrit is the ancient classical tongue of the Hindus, and the oldest preserved form of Aryan, or Indo-European, language in existence. It ceased to be spoken about the fourth century B. C. and is preserved only in the Hindu sacred writings. Sanskrit is the parent of all the modern Aryan languages of India, and the language most closely related to the original tongue of the ancient Aryans, from which have descended the Celtic, Graeco-Latin, Teutonic, Slavonic and Persian languages. Sanskrit literature, which begins with the Vedas, extends back as far as 2000 or 1500 B. C. Sanskrit is still cultivated as a classical language by the Hindus, and remains the sacred language of the Brahmans.—Kansas City Star.

Has a Boiling Lake

The Grande Soufriere, of which the chief feature is the remarkable Boiling lake, in the West Indian island of Dominica, is but little known even to the islanders who are constantly reminded of its presence, says Nature Magazine. Clouds of steam indicate where it lies in the mountains, and to Roseau, the island's port, the detonations from its steam vents proclaim its close proximity. It is only six miles from the town as the crow flies, but until an air route is established, man must foot it over a difficult and even dangerous mountain trail.

Old Shop-Windows Gone

Paris shopkeepers still talk of "putting up the shutters" at closing time, but actually they pull them down. The quaint, many-paned shop windows familiar in the old illustrations to the "Songs" of Beranger and the Cruikshank and Phiz drawings for Dickens' works, have disappeared to make way for great, solid iron "curtains," which are hauled down with a lever. The old windows, charming, cob-webbed and gaudy, remain in a few out-of-the-way parts of Paris.
