Students' Mission Crusade Announces Its Convention Date

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
Cincinnati, O., April 16.—The fifth national convention of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade will be held at the University of Dayton (Dayton, Ohio), June 25-28, it was announced today by Rev. Frank A. Thill, National Secretary.
Conventions of the Crusade are held every three years, once in every "student generation," in order that some of the Catholic student body may always have had the advantage of attendance at one of the national assemblies. The last convention was held at the University of Notre Dame in the summer of 1923.
The dates have been chosen to permit the attendance of educators and students at the International Eucharistic Congress in Chicago and, also, at the Annual Meeting of the Catholic Educational Association in Louisville. With the present arrangement, it will be possible for pilgrims to the Eucharistic Congress to attend the Crusade meet on their return trip and to go from this assembly to the International Association gathering, which opens June 28.

Mexicans To Attend Eucharistic Rally In Special Trains

Chicago, April 19.—Four special trains will bear 900 Mexican Catholics in a single party to the Eucharistic Congress here in June, the Congress headquarters here has been informed. The delegation will arrive Sunday morning, June 20, and will immediately march in a body to a church, where its members will receive Holy Communion. Accommodations already have been arranged for the party here.
Two more Mexican prelates have announced their intention to attend the Congress. They are the Most Rev. Giuseppe Ottone, Archbishop of Oaxaca, and the Rt. Rev. Ignatius Valdespino y Diaz, Bishop of Agua Calientes. Other large parties of Mexican pilgrims also are expected.
Congress headquarters also have been informed that Cardinal Mundelein's invitation has been accepted by the Rt. Rev. Hugh MacSherry, Bishop of the Eastern district of Cape of Good Hope. Bishop MacSherry was born in Ireland but is known in this country because of a series of lectures he gave in America on his last visit. He hopes to bring a small party of his native flock to the Congress with him.

Of Course Pop Knew All About Philistines

"Pop, my Sunday school book says to write a short story about David and the Philistines. How shall I begin it?"
"Hm, Yes—David. David and the Philistines. The Philistines and David. Well, let me see: "Once upon a time there was some—there were some—people with a king named David."
"The Philistines, pop?"
"Now don't interrupt. Just listen carefully. . . . with a king named Philistine."
"Aw, pop, you mean David?"
"I said David. Why aren't you listening? Anyhow. . . . This king of the Day—of the Philistines wanted to conquer some people called the—called—a . . ."
"The Philistines, pop?"
"No, of course not! Why should a king want to conquer his own people? Will you listen or shall I stop?"
"But, pop, David did beat Goliath—or something. I—"
"That's it. That's it. David and the Philistines beat the Goliath by building a wooden bridge. I remember it all now. . . . Well, soon after—"
"Say, pop, I guess I remember now, too."
"Good! Well, run along then and I'll finish my paper."

Arrive as Strangers in National Capital

One of the outstanding features of Washington's difference from other capitals of great countries is that it is not—as are London, Paris and Berlin,—the most important of our cities, nor indeed a city at all in that sense, writes Maude Parker Child in the Saturday Evening Post.
Therefore most of the appointees who come to our capital come as strangers. In other countries the chances are that a man chosen as a cabinet member will be known in his own capital and will have a wide acquaintance there. His social status will have been established long before he becomes part of the government.
In the United States, however, a new official may come from a town as remote geographically from Washington as Constantinople is from Dublin. His wife and children may have never even seen the city of their new residence until they go there to live. It is possible that they may not have one friend who is a resident.
This applies equally to the under-secretaries and to the innumerable men of the State department, but it is usually more acute in the cases of senators and congressmen.

Sumthin' Missin'

Aw, shucks, I ain't so crazy 'bout my father's new machine. There's such a thing as havin' things too fine. He went and bought the bunch of us a classy limousine. The best that he could buy—but not for mine.
Ya know how people feel about a thing that's spakin' new. They're allus 'fraid of mars and scars and such. And every time I'm in it pop'll watch each thing I do. That's why I can't enthuse about it much.
The seats 'er all upholstered with a cloth of silver gray, an' all the wood and metal's shiny bright. But that don't mean a thing to me. I just found out today they wouldn't let my dog in. That ain't right.
Aw, what's the fun of ridin' when I leave my purp behind? I hate to see him whine an' fume an' fuss. I don't see why my father didn't wait and try to find a plain old common second-hand bus—Detroit News.

Pharaohs Played Checkers

They were playing checkers in Egypt in 1600 B. C. and there is a question whether some of those old games are not going on yet. Archaeologists find checkers was the favorite game of Queen Hatshepsut. They have even found several of her draughtsmen and fragments of the board on which she played. Egyptian inscriptions show the game was popular in the times of the earlier Pharaohs.
As the centuries go by men dress differently and customs change, but man himself is pretty much the same kind of fellow.—Capper's Weekly.

Times Have Changed

The chairman of a campaign committee was approached by an unimportant politician who had previously bolted the party. The man said that he had seen the error of his ways and expressed a desire to be taken back and given a job at campaign headquarters.
"I am sorry that I shall have to disappoint you, Mr. Blank," the chairman replied. "Glad to see you back, of course, but in these days the wise prodigal brings along his own calf."

Secret Service

"What's this?" asked the boss as his stenog laid a box on his desk.
"Why, they're the envelopes you told me to get while I was in the department store," replied his stenog.
"Great Scott!" exclaimed the boss. "I meant for you to get them in the stationery department."
"Oh," giggled the stenog. "I thought your wife had asked you to make a purchase and you were too bashful to go yourself."

GOOD THINGS WE LIKE
When eggs are plentiful and reasonable in price is the time to serve them freely. A poached egg on toast that has been well toasted and buttered is a breakfast dish which will appeal to almost any appetite. For a supper or luncheon dish an omelet or scrambled eggs will be liked.
Curried Eggs—Cut three hard-cooked eggs into eighths lengthwise. Melt two and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, stir until well blended, then pour on gradually, while stirring constantly, one cupful of milk. Bring to the boiling point and add one-third of a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and one-half teaspoonful of curry powder; then add the eggs. Turn into a shallow buttered dish, sprinkle with one-fourth of a cupful of grated cheese, cover with three-fourths of a cupful of buttered crumbs and bake until brown.
Vassar Eggs.—Finely chop two ounces of smoked dried beef. Add one cupful of tomatoes, one-fourth cupful of grated cheese, a few drops of onion juice, a few grains each of cayenne and cinnamon. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add the mixture and when well heated, add three beaten eggs. Cook until the eggs are creamy, stirring constantly. Serve on squares of buttered graham toast.
Hot Egg Sandwiches.—Mince a tablespoonful of shredded onion and add to a tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan; when hot and partly cooked add an egg, fry until cooked and place on a piece of bread which has been warmed—not toasted; cover with another warmed slice well buttered and serve. An egg sandwich will make a good meal.
Hard-cooked eggs, chopped while warm, mixed with butter and a little mustard to season with salt to taste, make a most satisfying sandwich for any occasion.
