Weekly Calendar Of Feast Days

Sunday, May 2.—St. Athanasius, Bishop, was born in Egypt toward the end of the third century. Though only a deacon, he attracted great attention by his learning and ability at the Council of Nicea in 325. He later became Patriarch of Alexandria and for 46 years bore the brunt of the Arian assault, which heaped every insult, calumny and wrong upon him. He stood unmoved against four Roman emperors and was banished five times. He is honored as one of the greatest Doctors of the Church.

Monday, May 3.—The Discovery of the Holy Cross. The heathens, out of aversion to Christianity, sought to cover up the places of Christ's burial by heaping rubbish and stones upon it and building on the site a temple to Venus. St. Helen, mother of Emperor Constantine the Great, caused these impious structures and statues to be torn down, and digging into the earth found the three crosses of the crucifixion. In 326, the True Cross was distinguished when the three were placed upon a sick woman and one of them caused her immediate and complete recovery.

Tuesday, May 4.—St. Monica, mother of St. Augustine, was born in 332. Her life of piety and forbearance effected the conversion of her husband, Patritius, a pagan, one year before his death. When her son Augustine, who was at once able and head strong, went astray in faith and manners, she fairly pursued him with fervent prayers and he was marvelously converted.

Wednesday, May 5.—St. Pius V. A Dominican friar from his fifteenth year, Michael Ghislieri was famous for his intrepid defense of the Faith and his spotless life. His first care as Pope was the reformation of the Roman court and capital. He supported the cause of Mary Queen of Scots against the usurper Elizabeth; backed the Catholic king of France against the Huguenot rebels and crushed the Ottoman forces at Lepanto in October, 1571. He was wont to kiss the feet of the crucifix upon entering and leaving the room. One day the feet withdrew from his lips. He made an act of contrition thinking some deflection of his was the cause. It was later found an enemy had put poison upon the feet of the figure.

Thursday, May 6.—St. John the Baptist. In the year 95 St. John was the only surviving apostle and governor of all of the churches in Asia. Seized and brought to Rome by Emperor Domitian he was cast into a caldron of boiling oil. The oil became as a refreshing bath to him. However, and he came out of the caldron in even better condition than he entered. He was banished then to Patmos but later returned. His triumph over persecution occurred without the gate of Rome called Latina.

Friday, May 7.—St. Stanislas, Bishop and Martyr as Bishop of Cracow, alone rebuked Boleslas II, King of Poland, for his excesses and cruelty. When tried falsely he, through prayer, raised to life a dead man whose nephews accused him of withholding money from their uncle, to serve as a defending witness. He finally pronounced the sentence of excommunication upon the king for his excesses and was slain by the ruler while saying Mass. Previously three companies of soldiers, sent into the chapel to dispatch the Bishop, were driven out by a light from Heaven.

Saturday, May 8.—The Apparition of St. Michael the Archangel. St. Michael, who opposed Lucifer, is regarded as a particular defender of the Church. In a vision to the Bishop of Siponto he admonished the prelate to build a church in his honor on Mount Gargano near Manfredonia in Naples. It is mentioned particularly that he will be defender of the Church in the persecution of the Antichrist.
