Cardinal Expects General Communion At Congress Opening

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
Chicago, May 14.—June 20, the opening day of the Twenty-eighth Eucharistic Congress, will, in his belief, be a day for the general reception of Holy Communion by Catholics throughout America, His Eminence Cardinal Mundelein, Archbishop of Chicago, declared at a tridium just concluded in Notre Dame Church in celebration of the beatification of Peter Julian Eymard. The tridium was conducted by the Blessed Sacrament Fathers whose order Blessed Eymard founded.
Clad in the scarlet robes of his office, Cardinal Mundelein referred to the Blessed Eymard as the John the Baptist of the Eucharistic movement. The outstanding purpose of the Blessed Sacrament Fathers is the spread of devotion to the Holy Eucharist. His Eminence closed the tridium with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.
The Rt. Rev. Joseph Schrembs, Bishop of Cleveland, delivered the opening sermon of the tridium before the Nocturnal Adoration Society.

Cardinal Hayes Pays Tribute To Efforts Of Ladies Of Charity

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
New York, May 12.—A glowing tribute to Catholic women for their charitable work was paid by His Eminence Cardinal Hayes at the twenty-fourth annual conference of the Ladies of Charity of the Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York at the Hotel Plaza today. The Cardinal attributed the success of the organization to the women themselves, rather than to the clergy, when he said:
"The Ladies of Charity have covered fields that neither pastor nor archbishop have been able to reach. I marvel myself at the zeal, at the sustained enthusiasm, year after year, of this splendid organization."
Following the opening of the conference by the Moderator, the Rev. Bryan J. McEntegart, Miss Teresa R. O'Donohue, secretary, submitted a report of the work of the organization during 1925. The report showed that 7,174 visits had been made by members to 1,536 needy families, that garments valued at $10,991, had been distributed, and $24,199.49 expended for relief.

African Chief Gave Name to Zulu Tribe

The name "Zulu," which means "sky," was not further back than a hundred years, confined to a small and insignificant tribe, occupying that part of the White Umfolozi valley which falls between the Mhlabatana magistracy on the north and that of Melmoth on the south, according to Adventure Magazine. Zulu, son of a certain Malandela, flourished in Zululand probably during the Sixteenth century. This son is said to have quarreled with his elder brother Qwabe, who took exception to the former being presented by his mother with a certain white ox, with the result that Zulu left with his followers to occupy the White Umfolozi valley, while Qwabe went to live nearer the coast on the south side of the Umhlatuze river and in what is known as Eshewe district.
It was with the help of the chief of the Mletwa tribe that Tshaka, who was not the proper heir, became chief of the Zulu tribe. No sooner did he become chief than he began to build up an extraordinary military organization, and to attempt what had never been attempted before, namely, to fuse the various tribes into a nation.

Lesson to Humanity Found in Bee Hives

It is more than sweets and fruits and many a lovely flower that would fall us, lacking bees. We would lack books—a few books. In fact, more books have been written about bees than about any other domestic animal. We should also lack something of sympathy and history. Beekeeping is the oldest craft in the world. As a beekeeper I am continuing an ancient line; joining the oldest of human guilds; speaking a language known of all lands; supporting and practicing an art beloved of all peoples; subscribing to a simple faith, wiser than any creed or color or the folds of any flag. The bees are a good first step in an all-world brotherhood, and could well be included in any world-peace plans. The symbol of that plan might be the hive for its universality, its unbroken continuity as a peaceful occupation, no less than for its social significance—its practice of sacrifice for the common good.—Dallas Lore Sharp, in "The Spirit of the Hive"

Curse Trademark Fakers

In the latter part of October each year the English city of Sheffield celebrates its "cutlers' feast," a civic function that has been held annually since 1648, when the first of the city's master cutlers was elected. The banquet is attended by captains of industry from all over the empire, and by at least one minister of the crown. Two toasts that are always drunk with enthusiasm are: "Eternal destruction to all false marks on Sheffield goods" and "success to the Hallamshire Whittella." This quaint wording is explained by the fact that the park of Yorkshire where Sheffield is situated was once known as Hallamshire, while "whit tell" is an old name for a knife. There is no public office more highly esteemed than this. As head of the ancient "cutlers' guild" the master takes precedence next to the lord mayor of Sheffield.

Prodigious Memory

One of the sources of the late Rene Viviani's eloquence was his profound knowledge of French literature. He knew by heart thousands of verses and could recite entire acts of the classic tragedies without an error.
He demonstrated this at the time of his baccalaureate, when he agreeably surprised the examiner by his accurate analysis of the Cid.
"Can you recite a few verses of it?" the examiner asked.
"Certainly," said Viviani, and had recited the whole of the first act before he was halted. On another occasion he recited the whole of Horatius and Phedre from beginning to end.—Bulgaria, Sofia.

An Expert

"Julia, do you know what love is?" The young man put the question in an intense voice.
"Yes," replied the girl, firmly.
"But do you really know?" he asked again. "Have you ever been the object of a love as undying as the sun, as all-pervading as the air, as wonderful as the stars? Have you ever loved and been loved like that, Julia?"
In an agony of suspense he waited for her reply.
"Have I?" she murmured. "If you will come up into our boxroom, I can show you a trunk full of letters, and three albums full of photographs, and in my jewel-case are seven engagement rings!"

The Ruling Passion

A member of the Lambs' club tells of a comedian, who of late years had not had much luck, and who was dictating his notions of what his will should be. "What money I have, if any such as it is, or might be, that is to say—," he began.
"Wait a moment," said his lawyer. "I can put that in more legal language."
"I know," said the comedian, "but I want to get a laugh."

Cinder Blocks Manufactured Under Straub Process

The Rochester Cinder Block Corporation was organized for the manufacture of cinder block under the Straub patent.

Combination of cinders and cement in the Straub patented block are advantageous and builders of all kinds of buildings are rapidly adopting them. They are absolutely fire-proof, thus giving lower insurance rates, less costly to erect, are damp proof and require no lathing or furring will take stucco perfectly, do not crack or peel and will take nails.

All wooden trim can be nailed to blocks themselves. They provide insulation and insure even temperature, thus reducing fuel consumption. Great structural strength is found in buildings made of them. They are sound proof, making them very desirable for libraries, schools and other public places.

Vermine proof, they eliminate these obnoxious things. They can be cut to any size, are non-conductors of electricity, and do not fracture readily when cut for conduit openings.

It costs from 2 to 5 per cent more to construct a house out of cinder blocks complete with stucco than it does to build a house of the ordinary frame structure.

The Straub cinder blocks are built here in the city in the plant of the corporation on Norman street. More than 8,000 square feet of factory space is required to manufacture four thousand blocks per day.

The Rochester Cinder Block Corporation is the only plant in the city using the Straub patent. It has no connection with any other firm here building cinder blocks.

Many Delights for Women in The Red Cross

Give a woman—a housewife who keeps a better home and does her own work—a satisfactory kitchen range, and she is always bright and smiling and so appreciative she delights in preparing extraordinary meals for the family.
Chas. G. Diehl, 634 Jay Street, phone Genesee 4498, sell the Red Cross combination range and furnaces, which are made right here in Rochester by the Co-Operative Foundry Company.

The one point the women all stress in praising the range is the absolute even heat control, which allows of cooking the whole meal at one time in the oven, and without the housewife staying in the kitchen, or even going near the kitchen from the time the food is placed in the oven until it is ready to take out. And that time is determined by the point at which the heat control is set.

Right at the present season of the year, the women are experiencing a new joy in the Red Cross combination range in its ability to do cooking by the cold pack method, through the oven's being arranged for that work. Naturally, the range will also can by the old preserving method, and housewives dilate on the satisfactory results obtained by both methods with the Red Cross Combination.

Mr. Diehl is always glad to have housewives come to his store and look over the Red Cross line of ranges, and ask for a demonstration for he knows a demonstration will result in a sale.
