Czech Abbot Arrives In U. S. To Attend Chicago Congress

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
Washington, May 24.—The Rt. Rev. Method Zavoral, Abbot of the Premonstratensian Abbey of Prague-Strahov, the first of Czechoslovakia's delegation to the Eucharistic Congress at Chicago to arrive in this country, spent a few hours in this city last Saturday. He came here from Baltimore to pay his respects to the Minister of Czechoslovakia and to visit the headquarters of the N. C. W. C. here.

Abbot Zavoral is widely known as a preacher and author and from the establishment of the Czechoslovak Republic until last February was president of the People's or Catholic Party in the Senate of his country. He abandoned this leadership in compliance with the order of the Holy Father restricting the religious of his country in their political activities.

Europe, he reports, is exhibiting great enthusiasm over the coming Eucharistic Congress. The low value of money on the Continent is preventing a great number of persons from making the pilgrimage and in his own country will limit the delegation to about 150, he said. When the Congress was held in Vienna he led a Bohemian section of 25,000 persons, he declared.

The Rt. Rev. Dr. Kaspar, Bishop of Králové Hradec, will head the Czechoslovakian contingent, he announced. The Bishop and his party left Prague yesterday and will come to this country by way of Amsterdam, the Abbot said. He added that the Rt. Rev. Bishop Cech of Litoměřice, Abbot Vykoukal, O.S.B., Canon Monsignor Hanus, between 15 and 18 priests, and about 150 laymen will be in the party.

Abbot Zavoral has attended the Congresses held at Montreal, Paris, Amsterdam and Vienna. He will leave this country immediately after the Chicago Congress as he must return home and lead, as Protector, a pilgrimage of his countrymen to Lourdes.

Catholics of Czechoslovakia are following the persecution of the Church in Mexico through their newspapers and consider the situation a horrible one. Abbot Zavoral said. Personally, he added, his impression is that the condition is terrible and "Bolshevism in another sense."

Friday evening Abbot Zavoral spoke at May Devotions in St. Wenceslaus Parish in Baltimore and afterward met with the parishioners. Yesterday he celebrated Mass and gave first Holy Communion to a class of children.

The Abbot arrived in New York last Thursday and went to Baltimore. He paid a hurried visit to this city Saturday and was scheduled to go to Pittsburgh yesterday. He will according to his itinerary, leave Pittsburgh Wednesday and proceed to Cleveland. On Monday he will leave Cleveland for Detroit where he will be until Wednesday when he leaves for Chicago. He will arrive in Chicago Wednesday afternoon.

He has been a member of the Council of the Society for thirty-seven years.

Piety of Napoleonic Pretender Recalled By His Death In Exile

Brussels, May 21.—The passing of Prince Victor Napoleon, who died here in exile (since French law forbids the heads of families which have reigned over France from living in that country) has caused some of the papers to comment on the fact that this last heir of Napoleon I was distinguished himself by his anti-religious attitude. Prince Jerome Napoleon, son of Jerome, King of Westphalia.

Jerome Napoleon married Clotilde, daughter of King Victor Emmanuel. Of a modest and pious July 24.

All those who complete the prenuptial, Clotilde lived and died in the required examinations will be granted special certificates by the differences which separated him from American Red Cross Society, under his father on religious questions were whose instruction the classes will be the occasion of violent quarrels instructor in charge, and he will be among his partisans and those of his conductor. Dr. M. J. Shields is the father.

Weekly Calendar Of Feast Days

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)

Sunday, June 6.—St. Norbert, Bishop, after a pious youth, led a life of dissipation and luxury at the court of Emperor Henry IV. At the age of 30 he was thrown from his horse, and after recovering resolved to amend his life. He was ordained a priest and preached against the abuses of his Order. In 1126 he was appointed Bishop of Magdeburg. He died at the age of 53 years after having risked his life to carry on his work.

Monday, June 7.—St. Robert of Newminster. In 1132 Robert, a monk at Whitby, England, joined the 13 religious who had been expelled from the Abbey of St. Mary, York, for proposing to establish the strict Benedictine rule. He became head of the Abbey founded in Northumberland and called Newminster, and by his holiness of life guided his brethren. His fasting in the refectory, alone, sufficed to edify his community. When he died in 1159, St. Godric, the hermit of Finchale, saw his soul borne up by angels in a pathway of light.

Tuesday, June 8.—St. Medard, Bishop, one of the illustrious prelates of the Church in France in the sixth century, was born of a pious and noble family at Salency about the year 457. He became Bishop in 530 and through his zealous labor and miracles dispelled idolatry from his diocese. From childhood he was imbued with tender compassion for the poor. He died in 545.

Wednesday, June 9.—Sts. Primum and Felicianus, martyrs, were brothers who lived in Rome toward the end of the Third century, encouraging each other in the practice of good works. They lived lives of piety and spent days and nights with the confessors in dungeons or at the places of their tortments and execution. They were both tortured horribly, then beheaded.

Thursday, June 10.—St. Margaret of Scotland was the granddaughter of an English king and in 1070 became the bride of Malcolm, king of Scotland until her death in 1093. She built churches and monasteries and busied herself with making vestments. She was an exemplary mother. On her death bed she received news that her husband and eldest son had been slain in battle. She thanked God for sending her this affliction as a penance for her sins.

Friday, June 11.—St. Barnabas, Apostle. A rich Levite named Joseph sold his land and gave the proceeds to the Apostles. They gave him a new name, Barnabas, the son of consolation. He labored with St. Paul in Antioch. Their preaching struck men with amazement. He won the martyr's crown in Cyprus.

Saturday, June 12.—St. John of Fagondez, a native of Spain, became a hermit of the Augustinian Order, and his life was marked by devotion to the Mass. He had a special gift of reconciling differences and putting an end to the quarrels and feuds of noblemen. After months of terrible suffering, borne with unvarying patience, he died June 11, 1479.

Americans Help Salzburg Regain University Fame

Once Great University, Now A Seminary, Built Up With Benedictines Aid—Chancellor, Dr. Selpel And 38 Abbots Attend Opening By Dr. Frederic Funder, (Vienna Correspondent, N. C. W. C. News Service).

Vienna, May 17.—A large college for Benedictines and Cistercians has just opened at Salzburg with impressive ceremonies. The college, completed with the aid of American houses of the Benedictine Order, will meet both on the part of the mothers and the students gave assurance that the highest rank and will be the training center for the future priests of the German and Austrian Benedictine convents.

In the solemn procession which was a part of the ceremonies there were 33 abbots, headed by Primate Abbot Fidelis of Stolzingen; the Prince Archbishop of Salzburg, Dr. Rieder; the Austrian Federal Chancellor, Dr. Selpel, and the Provincial Governor of Salzburg, Dr. Rehr.

Famous Old Vestments Worn. The Abbot of St. Peter in Salzburg, who officiated, wore the famous "Cuirass canonicals", which are 300 years old, and a mitre set with pearls, and carried a pastoral staff, dating back to 1485. The music rendered was composed by Haydn and Mozart, both of whom lived and worked in Salzburg.

The University of Salzburg, founded in 1617 under Abbot Joachim Buchauer of the Convent of St. Peter in Salzburg, flourished and was famous all over Europe. In modern times it had become a well conducted theological seminary, and it was from this that the new college was established. Two years ago a confederation of Benedictine and Cistercian convents, in agreement with the Austrian Government, determined to enlarge the seminary faculty by the addition of several chairs held by members of the Order of St. Benedict, and to establish a philosophical course.

"For almost 200 years", Chancellor Ramek said in his address lauding the Benedictines' contribution to education; "Salzburg University flourished, protected and furthered by the priestly sovereigns of the country, and gained great fame beyond the boundaries of Teutonic territory. The realm of its scholastic activity embraced nearly all branches of science, and it was a great blow to German research and science when the school fell a victim to the stipulations of the peace of Vienna."

"The work", he continued, "which has been undertaken by the reverend confederation, with the magnanimous assistance of the Most Reverend Primate of Germany, for the promotion of higher study at Salzburg, represents the bridge over which leads the way to an actual contact with the past as well as the future. I feel the need of emphasizing the fact that the Federal Government accompanies this work with its warmest sympathy. The tradition of the followers of St. Benedict, well established in all countries for hundreds of years, is our guarantee that in this educational institution where Christianity and science join hands in the spirit of the saint of Monte Cassino, free teaching will be a great blessing for our people."

Dr. Selpel declared that his name is inscribed on one of the beams of the college as a witness of his pledge for the reconstruction of Austria, with confidence in God and His Austrian people.

55 Seton Hill Girls' Mothers Week-End Guests Of College

Greensburg, Pa., May 28.—Mothers' week-end, an innovation among Catholic colleges for women, proved, as introduced at Seton Hill College here, a decided success. Fifty-five mothers accepted the invitation to see something of college life from the student's point of view, and entered into the regular routine of their daughters for two days. The aim was to further a sympathetic understanding between parents and child. The enthusiastic cooperation with which the plan was met both on the part of the mothers and the students gave assurance that the object was attained, and that in all probability mothers' week-end will become an annual affair in the college. The mothers themselves, unwilling to lose entirely the contacts established during their stay at Seton Hill, formed before leaving for their homes in different points in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia a mothers' club, which is to have a center in Pittsburgh and to which the mothers of all Seton Hill College girls are to be eligible.

Seton Hill's commencement exercises will be held June 5 to June 8. The Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, Bishop of Pittsburgh, will confer the degrees.

German Protestants In First Conference On Mixed Marriage

Berlin, May 18.—The National Mixed Marriage Conference called by the Evangelical Union of Germany, the first of the kind ever held by Protestant church leaders in Germany, resulted in the assembly of professors, ecclesiastics and laymen from every part of the nation for discussion of the possible adoption of uniform practice in regard to mixed marriages.

In a detailed report, Privy Councilor Mirbt of Goettingen described the mixed marriage laws of the Catholic Church, and declared that these regulations had been adopted by the Catholic Church in a spirit of self-protection rather than as a measure of aggression.

Several decisions were reached by the conference. It was resolved to make the gathering an annual event for the study of drawing up uniform legislation governing mixed marriages. The evangelical theological faculties and seminaries are to be invited to pay due attention to the new restrictions of the Code of Canon Law of the Catholic Church. The Evangelical Union also is to make a complete translation of the Catholic Code of Canon Law, and a special publication will be issued for those having care of souls, containing special information of the subject of mixed marriages. The next mixed marriage conference will be held in Dresden.
