Irish Dominican Produces Mystery Plays With Success

Dublin, June 7.—The Imeldist centennial celebrations were concluded in Dublin by the performance of two mystery plays, the work of Rev. E. Gaffney, O. P. One of the plays dealt with the life of the Blessed Imelda Lambertini, and the other with a heroic story of Christians in the catacombs.

The tradition of the Middle Ages was followed by giving names of the actors on the program. The actors, who have won universal praise, appeared on a stage prepared with first-class scenic sets and effects. The solemnity of the dramas was intended by choral work by the Choir of the Church of Corpus Christi, who added several numbers in Plainsong.

Western Reserve Buys Cleveland Diocese Property For $750,000

Cleveland, June 11.—A large tract of land on Euclid ave. immediately east of Wade park purchased for the diocese of Cleveland by the late Bishop John P. Farrelly ten years ago, was sold to Western Reserve University several days ago for a consideration said to be approximately $750,000.

Officials of the University announce that the property will be used for the erection of new buildings to add to those already owned by the university in that immediate vicinity. The site is about five miles from the downtown section but in a thickly settled residential community.

Two of four houses on the land will have a frontage of 380 feet on Euclid avenue have been used by the diocese: one as the convent and chapel of the Franciscan Sisters of Perpetual Adoration at 11025 Euclid and the second by the Ursuline Sisters of the Ursuline college, 11105 Euclid ave. Two other buildings have served as private residences.

The tract of land is one of the most desirable and most extensive in that neighborhood. Besides its several hundred feet of Euclid avenue frontage it extends back in varying depth from 143 feet to 530 feet.

The Franciscan Sisters have already purchased a new home at 1453 East boulevard, not a great distance from the present convent and chapel. The Sisters will move there as soon as the new convent is ready.

It will be a year or more before the university will be ready to build and until that time Ursuline college will remain in its present location.

Council of Churches Opposes Military Training in Schools

(N. C. W. C. News Service) Washington, June 12. Council of Churches in schools and colleges, especially of the systematic and technical sort, is disapproved of by the administrative committee of the Federal Council of Churches. At the same time the War Department issued a statement showing that it now has applications on file from 19 universities and colleges and 35 high schools for training units but cannot fill them because of the lack of funds.

Included in the Federal Council committee's recommendations were: "That systematic and technical military training for youth of high school age is to be deplored as foreign to the aims and ideals of our educational system."

"That civilian educational institutions should not make military training a required subject."

"That churches and educational leaders give careful study to the whole question of R. O. T. C. in schools and colleges."

An official of the Council explained that there is no objection to simple military drill such as was found in schools prior to the war, but to technical, specialized training to fit men for military service.

In order that the facts may be made available for study, the Council's commission on international justice and goodwill was authorized to publish a pamphlet giving both sides of the military training question. Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall will write the argument in favor of the training.

The War Department's announcement said that there are now 223 senior units and 100 junior units of the R. O. T. C. with a total enrollment of 112,501. Nearly 60 per cent of the enrollment is in institutions not essentially military. High schools have 54 units with an enrollment of 31,133.

President Doumergue, Protestant, Visits Cathedral at Metz

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) Paris, June 5.—On Pentecost Day, President Doumergue, who went to Metz to preside at the closing session of a congress of disabled veterans, made a gesture which has won favorable comment.

While on his way from the prefecture to the town hall, he caused the procession to deviate from its route in order to pass by the Cathedral where he expressed a desire to stop. He was received at the portico by Msgr. Pelt, Bishop of Metz, and the canons of the Cathedral. The prelate presented to him the homage of the Catholic population.

The president, in replying to the address of the bishop, replied that he was happy to have been able to pay this visit and expressed his emotion at the thought of the great memories aroused by the Cathedral, memories which are so intimately connected with the history of Metz.

Led by Bishop Pelt, M. Doumergue walked up the great nave and stopped to kneel for a few moments of recollection before the tomb of Msgr. Dupont des Loges, a famous Bishop of Metz.

Real Philosophy Of Life Needed College Men Told

Winner Of Sach's Prize Addresses Creighton University Graduates On Necessity of Acquiring Something More than Knowledge Of Subjects Taught

Omaha, June 9.—The individual must develop a philosophy of life that finds expression in his every act and has a definite attitude toward God, freedom, immortality, his neighbor, his fellow worker and his community. Dr. Edward A. Fitzpatrick, Dean of the Graduate School of Marquette University, declared in his address at the commencement exercises of Creighton University, here, last Thursday.

"Who goes forth?" Dr. Fitzpatrick asked of 241 graduates, whom he said, had arrived at a "day of beginnings." "You who have had the advantage of the greatest instrument man has yet devised for his own elevation. Its tremendous power for good is evidence enough of its tremendous power for evil. But in its essence and in the light of its origin, it is a place where spirit grows by mysterious contact with spirit. Greater than buildings, equipment, large student body or great athletic victories, are fine human personalities. Universities everywhere are a harbor for them, and that university is fortunate indeed, that harbors many of them. And in the university 'spirits' are not finely touched, but unto fine issues! And it is such spirit we need in our contemporary life. It is the emphasis on the spiritual, not the material, the permanent, not the ephemeral, that will save modern society."

Needs Of Contemporary Life Dr. Fitzpatrick then referred to the practice of some statisticians to set forth the value of an education in dollars and added, "The supreme things in life are not meat and drink, but human personality in right relationship to itself, to fellowman and to God. And this is what contemporary life needs."

"What is to be the field of your endeavor? What kind of a world are you entering? What is the achievement of our civilization? Voices there are in every land warning us that unless something is done, this judgment of our own civilization will devour us as an inevitable sacrifice. Modern man is the Frankenstein that he has devalued by his own creation."

The speaker then reviewed recent progress in science, the social situation, the domain of humanism in politics and the challenge of contemporary life. He told the graduates that they must grow, that the University will have failed if they stop learning with graduation. He said that they needed an insight, "capacity to see things as they are and in their relations, to disentangle a skein of thought, to detect what is sophistical, and to discard what is irrelevant."

Getting Out Of The Valleys "Both the requirement to face the facts and to have insight, presuppose a philosophy of life. If in the university you have acquired only the knowledge of the subjects you were taught, you have failed even if today you were to be given your degree 'cum laude' or 'magna cum laude'.

"These things ought to have done, and not left the other undone. If you never left the valleys of learning for the inspiring and inspiring views of life in its totality and in its unity, then you have failed. You become the victim of an erratic idealism, or you dissipate your energy by 'high-browings' around. You read the tapestry of life on the wrong side and to you it tells no story."

Noted Paris Catholics Forced to Give Up Trip

Paris, June 2.—Several prominent Paris Catholics who had intended to go to the Eucharistic Congress have been forced, at the last moment, to give up the trip to Chicago. M. de Verges, President General of the St. Vincent de Paul Societies, and the Duke de Levis-Mirepoix have been prevented by illness, and Father Sanson, the famous preacher of Notre Dame Cathedral, has been ordered by his doctor to take a complete rest and will therefore be unable to go to Chicago as he had planned.

Several senators and deputies have been forced to give up the trip on account of the seriousness of the debates on the present financial crisis.

Weekly Calendar Of Feast Days

Sunday, June 20.—St. Silverius, Pope and Martyr, who was the son of Pope Hermisdas, who had been married before he entered the ministry. When a subdeacon he was chosen Pope and ordained on June 8, 536. He was exiled through a conspiracy initiated by Theodora, the empress of Justinian, and died June 20, 538, on a desert island.

Monday, June 21.—St. Aloysius Gonzaga was the eldest son of Ferdinand Gonzaga, Marquis of Castiglione, born March 9, 1568. The first words he pronounced were the names of Jesus and Mary. At the age of nine years he made a vow of perpetual chastity and later entered the Society of Jesus. He said of himself, "I am a crooked piece of iron and am come into religion to be made straight by the hammer of mortification and penance." He died at the age of 23 years.

Tuesday, June 22.—St. Paulinus of Nola was carefully educated, and through marriage more than doubled his wealth. In consort with his holy wife he sold all their property and entered religion. He became Bishop of Nola and once gave himself into the employ of a vandal of Africa to release a widow's only son, who had been taken captive. He died in 431.

Wednesday, June 23.—St. Etheldreda, Abbess, was born and reared in the fear of God, her mother and three sisters being numbered among the saints. She was compelled to become the wife of Tonberct, a tributary of the Merovingian King. She lived with him as a virgin for three years, and upon his death retired to the island of Ely. Egfrid, the powerful king of Northumbria, pressed his suit and she was forced into a second marriage. She lived at the court not as the king's wife but as his sister, and after 12 years retired, with his consent, to Coldingham Abbey. The king pursued her, however, and she fled. He then relented. In 672 she returned to Ely and founded a double monastery. Some time after her death, in 679, her body was found incorrupt.

Thursday, June 24.—St. John the Baptist, whose birth was foretold by an angel, had the office of preparing the way for Christ. He was beheaded at the will of a girl who danced for a wretched king.

Friday, June 25.—St. Prosper of Aquitaine—St. William of Montevergine. Prosper was born in 403. He does not appear to have been more than a layman, but of great virtue and extraordinary talents and learning. St. Leo the Great, when chosen Pope in 440, made him his secretary and he crushed the Pelagian heresy which raised its head in Rome. St. William sought retirement in the mountains where he could exercise the most rigorous penitential austerities. His Holy reputation followed him even when he had established himself at Monte-Vergine, and he was obliged by two neighboring priests to allow certain fervent persons to live with him and imitate his ascetic practices.

Saturday, June 26.—Sts. John and Paul, Martyrs, were both officers in the army under Julian, the Apostate. They despised the honors of the world and triumphed over its threats and torments. They won the crown of martyrdom, probably in 362.

The golden jubilee of the Church of the Holy Ghost at Coldwater, three miles east of Chill Station, and the silver jubilee of the ordination of the pastor, the Rev. Peter A. Erras, was observed with special services on June 6th.

At the solemn jubilee mass at 10:30 o'clock the Rt. Rev. Bishop Thomas F. Hickey, D. D., was the celebrant and delivered the jubilee sermon. Following the mass, a class of fourteen boys and fourteen girls was confirmed by the bishop.

Preceding the mass was a professional which started from the rectory. Societies of the church and the Holy Family Commandery, Knights of St. John, acted as an escort and guard of honor to the bishop and the visiting clergy.

At 7:45 o'clock in the evening there were special services consisting of vespers, sermon and solemn benediction. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. M. J. Gruentbauer, S. J., of Prairie du Chien, Wis.

Father Erras has been pastor of the Church of the Holy Ghost for eighteen years. Before his coming the mission was attended by priests from St. John the Evangelist Church in the Ridge Road.

The first church which has since been converted into a school building; was erected in 1876 when the parish was incorporated under the laws of New York State. The cornerstone of the first church was laid in 1875.

The Coldwater parish was started by Father Rosenbauer a Redemptorist stationed at St. Joseph's Church, Rochester. After him came Father Kraus, a secular priest appointed by Bishop McQuaid. The church has had nine priests during the last half century.
