Fr. Blackmore, S. J., Noted Shakespeare Authority, Is Dead

Cleveland, Sept. 6.—Rev. Simon Augustine Blackmore, S. J., aged 77, widely known Shakespearean scholar and since 1917 professor of literature at John Carroll University here, is dead after a long illness.

The funeral was held in St. Mary's Church. Burial was in the cemetery of the Jesuits at St. Stanislaus' novitiate, Parma, a suburb of Cleveland.

Father Blackmore entered the Society of Jesus 55 years ago and had taught in Jesuit colleges and Universities in other cities. These included St. Louis and Creighton. He was ordained in 1885. Besides his work in the classroom Father Blackmore lectured throughout the Middle West. He also had written six books, two of which are yet to appear, and contributed to educational publications.

Three of the volumes of which Father Blackmore was author dealt with Shakespeare. His studies of Shakespeare's plays treated the subject both from a psychological and a literary point of view. The fourth, "Facts and Frauds," was a refutation of Sir Oliver Lodge's pronouncements on spiritualism. Two still in the press entitled "The Angel World," a spiritualistic study of angels, and "The Life of Father Secchi, S. J." These will be issued in December.

New York, Sept. 10.—The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John P. Chidwick has resigned as Department Chaplain of the United Spanish War Veterans of the State of New York and has withdrawn entirely from that veterans' organization. His action was due to what he regarded as the coming into power of a Ku Klux Klan element in the organization.

Monsignor Chidwick was chaplain on the Battleship Maine when it was blown up in Havana Harbor in 1898, and has been prominent in the United Spanish War Veterans' organization.

Kluxers Indorse Means

The withdrawal of Monsignor Chidwick from the organization follows the election at the national encampment of the veterans at Des Moines last month of United States Senator Rice W. Means of Colorado as National Commander in Chief. Monsignor Chidwick was informed by members of the organization that Senator Means had been endorsed by the Ku Klux Klan.

"As a Catholic priest," Monsignor Chidwick said, "I could not serve under a Klansman. Of course I said I would resign."

The term of the National Commander in Chief is for one year and Monsignor Chidwick indicated that if the situation which led him to resign for readmission into the organization.

Third Move In 300 Years For Biggest Library In Wales

London, Sept. 1.—The biggest library in Wales, belonging to St. Beuno's College, the Jesuit house of St. Asaph, has been moved for the third time since its compilation began more than 300 years ago at Liege, Belgium. St. Beuno's has ceased to be a theological seminary, its staff having removed to Heythorpe Hall, Oxfordshire, and taken their 35,000 books with them.

The library's first move from the Jesuit house at Liege was in 1794 when it went to Stonyhurst. In 1848 it was removed to St. Beuno's, where it has rested and grown at the rate of several hundreds of volumes a year.

Joseph Aloisius Hanson, who gave his name to the single-horse vehicle known as the "Hanson cab," was the architect of St. Beuno's nearly eighty years ago. It has served since then as a college of the English Jesuit province.

REGENCY THEATER

What "The Covered Wagon" did for the first sweeping rush of settlers to the West in the turbulent days of the roaring forties, "3 Bad Men," which will hold the Regency theater for all next week, does for the last great gold rush that followed the opening of the coveted Sioux fold lands in Dakota in the middle seventies. Vast hordes of men and women of every race and creed swarmed from the overcrowded cities of the east to pour into a little mushroom town the government had designated as the official starting place for the great rush for claims in the gold bearing areas.

The 3 Bad Men are portrayed by J. Farrell, Tom Santschi and Frank Campeau, while Olive Borden and George O'Brien are principals in the romantic interest of the tale.

A stage feature of extraordinary interest comes to the Regency this week in "The Palm Court Orchestra," sensationally successful recording and radio broadcasting ensemble which has appeared before the President. They come here with a remarkable vaudeville experience behind them and are managed by Wm. J. Waggoner, a Rochester youth well known here in musical circles. "My Dream of The Big Parade," "Moonlight and Roses" and other popular dance numbers will be among their selections. An attractive list of screen supplementary features rounds out the bill for the week.

PICCADILLY THEATER

"The Lady of the Harem," a bizarre and lavishly filmed spectacle that takes its audience back to the glamorous and colorful times of the Arabian Nights and features a notable cast that includes such stars as Ernest Torrence and Greta Nissen and William Collier, Jr., the stars of Cecil B. DeMille's "The Wanderer", and over 5000 extras comes to the Piccadilly Sunday for a four days' engagement.

Beside those mentioned the cast includes Louise Fazenda, Snitz Edwards, Chester Clinkin, Andre Beranger, Sojan and other well known screen figures.

An attractive list of supplementary features for the fore part of the week is headed by an overture by the new Piccadilly Jazz Orchestra, Arthur Newberry conducting. "Songs of Spain," a song scenic; "It's a Pipe," a comedy; Aesop's Fables and Piccadilly News Pictorial are other features of popular interest on the same bill.

Beginning Thursday an entirely different program will be shown for the remainder of the week, the principal film attraction for the week-end being "The Midnight Kiss," a picture version of John Golden's popular stage play, "Pigs," with Janet Gaynor and Richard Walling in the principal roles.

"Open House," a short comedy, an overture by the Piccadilly Jazz Orchestra and numerous other screen features round out the bill for the latter part of the week.

St. Boniface Commandery Celebrate Their Golden Jubilee

The fiftieth anniversary of the St. Boniface Commandery, Knights of St. John, began last Sunday.

The celebration opened with the reception of Holy Communion at the 7:30 o'clock mass by members of the commandery and Ladies' Auxiliary at St. Boniface Church in Gregory street, after which breakfast was served in St. Boniface School hall in Whalin street. Following the breakfast, there was a full dress parade of the Knights, escorted by staff officers of the Rochester Regiment, after which the knights entered the church for participation in a solemn pontifical high mass, celebrated by Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Hickey, bishop of Rochester.

Rev. William L. Rice, of Clifton, Kansas, formerly of Rochester, and a member of St. Boniface Commandery, delivered the sermon. Bishop Hickey addressed the knights briefly, telling them that their parish was proud of the commandery and that the city has good reason to be proud of the Knights of St. John. An orchestra of ten pieces provided music at the church services.

Under Captain Maeder, the commandery gave an exhibition drill in front of the church after mass, and brought the formal services to an end for the day.

Mayor Martin B. O'Neill was guest Monday night in the hall of St. Boniface School, when the two-day celebration closed with a dinner for members, their wives and friends, and the Ladies' Auxiliary. A memorial mass for deceased members of the commandery was celebrated at 7 o'clock Monday morning.

WATER LILIES.

Held Sacred by the Ancients, Deified by touch of hand, Sun Stars from slimy depths, Reflect the Soul so grand, For the unseeing thinker, Whose thoughts forever tread, To Space's Eternal Circle, Where ne'er's a beginning or end.

Note:—Water lilies have a pungent odor, and were not intended by Almighty God to be culled or gathered for bouquets. Water lilies are at their best riding the rippling water in the bright sunshine with the lily pads flip-flopping, then they twinkle like the stars.
