

Honolulu to Have A Catholic Paper

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
Honolulu, T. H., Oct. 30.—The Catholic Church in Hawaii is to have a weekly organ, to be known as The Church Bells, it has been announced.

October 31 was chosen as the date of the first issue of the paper. Its editor is Father Reginald Zencorn, and the place of publication is Honolulu.

The Church Bells already has subscribed for the N. C. W. C. News Service, and its despatches will appear regularly.

The Vicariate Apostolic of the Hawaiian Islands has a Catholic population of 75,000, with two bishops and a clergy of 32 who will be served by the new paper.

Rafaelo Diaz of the Metropolitan Opera sang. This meeting inaugurated a program which, at successive meetings, will bring prominent personages and artists before the Guild for addresses and entertainment.

Among the speakers scheduled to appear are Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University; Irvin S. Cobb, Otto H. Kahn, Father Francis P. Duffy, Dr. James J. Walsh, Thomas F. Woodlock, Will H. Hayes and E. F. Albee. Among the artists who will appear are Lucrezia Bori, Giovanni Martinelli, Clarence Whitehill, William Rustafson, Mary Lewis, Francis Peralta and George Lieblich.

Cleveland N.C.C.M. To Aid Circulation Of Diocesan Paper

Cleveland, Oct. 29.—Increasing the circulation of The Catholic Universe-Bulletin, the official diocesan newspaper, has been assigned by Bishop Schrembs as the first task of the National Council of Catholic Men in the Cleveland diocese. The aim is nothing short of putting the Universe-Bulletin into every Catholic home.

Preliminary meetings have been held and plans made, and already the Rev. Joseph P. Smith, V. G., executive chairman of the Cleveland diocese N. C. C. M., has launched the campaign with letters to all deanery and parish chairmen. A special pastoral letter written by Bishop Schrembs was read in all the parishes, churches, and posters are now being distributed. Extra copies of the paper to the number of 100,000 have been distributed free and a second and similar distribution will be made later.

Milwaukee To Have Diocesan Promoter Of Catholic Press

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 29.—Archdiocesan Press Promoter is the novel but effective title and task which has been given by Archbishop Messmer of Milwaukee to the Rev. John P. Donaghey, of the faculty of Marquette University.

Father Donaghey has taken up the duties of his new office with vigor and great success. He addresses the parishes of the archdiocese on the value, to both the Church and the individual, of Catholic papers. He has taken as many as 630 and 400 subscriptions for papers of the archdiocese after a single address, and thus far has obtained an average of 100 subscriptions each Sunday he has spoken.

Brooklyn Merchant Gives Kindergarten For Negro Children

Brooklyn, Oct. 29.—Robert Whalen, prominently known in business here, has donated a kindergarten for colored children to St. Peter Claver's School. Mr. Whalen, in giving the kindergarten which will bear his name, was moved by the realization that many poor mothers could keep their homes together if they could obtain part time employment. Children are to be left at the school in the morning and called for by their parents in the afternoon. The kindergarten is conducted by the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament whose Motherhouse is at Cornwell Heights, Pa.

Oklahoma Priest Elected Chaplain Of Valor Legion

Philadelphia, Oct. 29.—The selection of Chaplain A. V. Simoni, U. S. A., of Fort Sill, Oklahoma, as national chaplain of the Army and Navy Legion of Valor at its annual convention held here recently marked the first time in the history of that body that a Catholic priest has been chosen chaplain.

The Legion of Valor was founded in 1919 and is comprised of veterans who have been decorated for valor in battle by the United States with the Medal of Honor or Distinguished Service Cross.

Foundation Is Laid By Catholic Group For World Accord

Cleveland, Oct. 29.—The foundation of a permanent organization for the promotion of international relations and international peace was laid in the discussion of these topics by a group of prominent Catholics in convention here lately. The meeting was called by a small committee named by the Department of Lay Organizations and the Department of Social Action of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Attendance at the meeting was limited, but those who arranged it declare that the resultant serious attention and interest manifested was truly remarkable. The participants were unanimous in favoring a permanent body to continue the work which has had its beginning here. Accordingly a committee was named to draw up a constitution.

The possibilities of such an organization were reflected in the addresses given at the meeting by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, and Judge Martin Mantou of New York, neither of whom was scheduled for an address on the original program. Mr. Baker told the meeting that the Churches could make war impossible if they applied themselves actively and with intelligence to the task. Judge Mantou mentioned the need of a strong force to express the Catholic opinion in such emergencies as the present Mexican crisis.

The former Secretary of War declared the preservation of peace is one of the three great problems that confront this and the next generation. The other two, he said, are industrial peace and racial peace in this country. The latter two are less immediate and pressing than the first, he added. Mr. Baker's address was a general treatment of the problem of peace and embodied opinions he was aided in forming by his experiences in the cabinet. He said little or nothing concerning the cancellation of debts as an aid to international peace a move he has previously favored—but was emphatic in asserting the need of some machinery to meet international disputes and even to anticipate them. Up to the present, he said, the League of Nations is the best machinery, and although not perfect is capable of being made what the people want it to be.

Shorter Work Day In Industry Aids Nation, Doctor Says

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 29.—The increasing interest in public health is being well supported by the Catholic educational institutions throughout the country. Creighton University here is cooperating with this movement and recently Dr. James McDonald, professor of physiology in the Medical School delivered a radio address over station WOAW on the subject of "Health and Work."

Dr. McDonald emphasized the importance of good health in industry and spoke particularly of the effect of the shorter working-day on increased efficiency. "The story of those who have labored too hard or too long in unhealthy surroundings is one of untold cost to the human race in money, sickness, suffering and in the loss of life," he said.

The sentiment for the shorter day is not solely one which concerns the worker, though Dr. McDonald asserts that the "reversal of the attitude of employers" towards it has been brought about largely by legislation, and the rising influence of organized labor.

"Why," he continued, "are the industrialists with their superior energy and intelligence endorsing the regime of the shorter hours? Because they have learned that it pays in cash value. They have learned that long hours cause fatigue, reduced output, accidents, spoiled work, loss of time and ruined health of the worker. The employer now understands that too long a strain has caused these ill-effects because the poison of fatigue collects in the tissues of the workers' body, and that those tissues under long continued strain are, as it were, burned out, and thus permanently damaged."

The value of a recreational period in industry, of good lighting and good ventilation were stressed by Dr. McDonald, and he summed up his argument by saying: "Health and efficiency are inseparable. Yet the United States Health Service estimated a few days ago that in this country six per cent. of the workers were non-effective and that nearly 300,000,000 days were lost yearly by the 33,500,000 workers in this country, at a national loss of three quarters of a billion dollars."

John Rockefeller Sees Investiture Of Priest-Friend

Lakewood, N. J., Oct. 29.—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., was one of those who attended the investiture of the Rev. Maurice Spillane, for seven years pastor of St. Mary of the Lake Church here, with the title of Monsignor by the Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Walsh, D. D., Bishop of Trenton. Mr. Rockefeller is a personal friend of the new Monsignor.

More than 150 members of the clergy from New York and New Jersey attended the ceremonies. One hundred and fifty girls from Georgetown College formed the choir for the occasion.

Msgr. Seipel Again Is Made Austrian State's Premier

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
Vienna, Oct. 29.—Msgr. Ignaz Seipel is again Chancellor of Austria. He was called upon to form a cabinet when Rudolph Ramek resigned a few days ago and has accepted. Ramek, incidentally, succeeded Monsignor Seipel in office in November 1924.

Dr. Ramek's ministry resigned as a result of its inability to reach an agreement in its controversy with the civil service employees who demanded an increase in salaries. Both Monsignor Seipel and Dr. Ramek are members of the Christian Socialist Party and the former is recognized as the country's best spokesman. It is anticipated that a more energetic foreign policy and a more vigorous home policy will result from the change of Chancellors.

The cabinet headed by the Monsignor was elected by Parliament by 590 to 91. The new cabinet is the same as that of the Ramek Ministry with four exceptions. Monsignor Seipel replaces M. Ramek as Chancellor and Minister of Foreign and Internal Affairs, Dr. Franz Dinghofer is the new Vice-Chancellor and Minister of Justice, Richard Schmitz, Minister of Education, and Dr. Viktor Kienboeck, Minister of Finance.

The choice of this cabinet manifests a personal triumph for Monsignor Seipel; maintains the coalition of the Christian Socialists and the small Pan-German Party; presages an open fight upon Socialists through the choice of M. Kienboeck as Minister of Finance, and indicates through the establishment of M. Schmitz as Minister of Education a final fight on the school question.

Monsignor Seipel's ministerial program as disclosed differs but little from that of M. Ramek, except that he announces a war against corruption and the control of politics by business. He has taken the same stand as M. Ramek on civil service employees' demands for higher wages. It remains to be seen whether they will carry out the threat to strike. The Monsignor is expected to be firmer in his stand.

Regarded as Savior of Austria

Monsignor Seipel, who attracted much attention in the United States where he went to attend the Twenty-eighth Eucharistic Congress last June, is regarded in Austria as the "savior of his country" and will go down in history as one of the major heroes of the nations Europe sees him as a brilliant statesman and administrator who twice before has headed the call to save Austria; once in the declining days of the empire when it was too late, and the second time in the face of post-war despair when he brought his country to its feet, stabilized it and won its respect in so brief a time that Europe marvelled.

The priest's recognition by the public came during the war. His tolerance, sagacity and serenity were known even then, but when he joined with Dr. Lammassch in a plea for a reasonable plan for peace, against the wild Pan-German demands, he was taken note of by the political world. He next appealed for a revision of the laws of nations in conformity with Christian principles, and finally, when he openly advocated a new order for Austria-Hungary to replace the monarchy, the entire continent turned its attention toward him.

In the troublous days of the last cabinet of Old Austria, Emperor Charles gave the young priest his complete confidence. The Lammassch cabinet sought him as Minister of Public Works, in a forlorn effort to rally support through the confidence the people felt in him. When Charles suspended his last ministry he found time to confer on Dr. Seipel the highest dignity of the Old Monarchy—the title of Privy Councillor.

Turned Tide In Austria's Favor

Dr. Seipel was called upon to form a cabinet when in May, 1922, with the defeat of the Schober regime, Europe thought it impossible to revive the dying Austria. The new Chancellor faced the appalling task with courage and confidence. His treasury was empty, government administration was corrupt and inefficient, and the mob in the street ruled the National Assembly. Count Czernin himself despaired and openly advocated a union with Italy. The Chancellor worked day and night, and in the summer of 1922 made his famous tour of Europe capitals and after facing sarcastic comment from many sides turned the tide in Austria's favor.

He brought his case to the League of Nations, pleading his nation's cause with such eloquence and power that a long-term loan for $135,000,000 from the League was quickly obtained.

On June 1, 1924, Dr. Seipel was shot and dangerously wounded at the Southern Railway station by a Socialist who turned the weapon upon himself, inflicting a serious wound. The Chancellor, carrying the bullet imbedded in his lung, confronted his assailant in court and said that he regarded him "in a spirit of forgiveness."

He resigned in November of the same year.

St. Anthony's Best Known Shrine

We think we are entirely right in saying that St. Anthony's Shrine in the Church of St. Francis, on the Mount of the Atonement, is the most widely known and most liberally patronized of any Shrine erected in honor of the Wonder-Worker of Padua in America. Ever since the statue was set up in the Gospel Corner of the Sanctuary, a few days before the dedication of this same St. Francis Church, it has been the object of an increasing devotion on the part of his Clients. Beginning with a rivulet, the petitions sent for remembrance in the Graymoor Novena to St. Anthony, have swollen into a perennial brook.

The following are a few of the more recent testimonials received by the Friars of the Atonement from grateful clients of the Wonder-Worker of Padua.

Mrs. J. A. B., Minnesota: "I am glad to write and let you know that every since I have been praying to Saint Anthony, I have been feeling a lot better. There has not been any return of the old trouble since last March. I truly believe Saint Anthony is working a miracle for me."

A Friend of St. Anthony, Anaconda, Mont.: "A petition that I have been asking for over five years has been granted to me gradually. I am very grateful to St. Anthony and will always trust in him as he has never failed me in any petition that was pleasing to God. Inclosed find a thank offering."

H. H., Massachusetts: "Inclosed please find a thank offering for St. Anthony's Shrine. Last week I mislaid two valuable things and had given up looking for them as hopeless. After praying to St. Anthony, my husband looked in an almost un-heard of place and found them. I feel that it was a miracle that they were not thrown out. I shall always have great faith in dear St. Anthony."

M. J. M., Virginia: "Through our prayers to St. Anthony, my nephew won the four year scholarship I am very grateful and I am sending you the offering which I promised for this favor. Please publish."

Mrs. E. C., Massachusetts: "I inclose offering in gratitude for a very great favor received from good St. Anthony. It seemed almost a miracle to have things turn out as they did, and I know St. Anthony heeded my prayers and directed everything."

Mrs. M. B. M., Oriente, Cuba: "I am truly thankful to Our Lord and St. Anthony, for the return of a book which I had lost on a train. I appealed to St. Anthony and the book was returned by mail."

I. C., New York, N. Y.: "My request has been granted through St. Anthony's Perpetual Novena, and I have found the position I had been looking for. I am very happy."

N. F., Portsmouth, Va.: "I am enclosing offering for St. Anthony's Shrine in thanksgiving for a position granted through his intercession on the very day your Novena ended. I am very grateful for your prayers."

The Friars of the Atonement will be pleased to enter your intentions in the Perpetual Novena which begins each Tuesday and ends the following Wednesday. Address your petition to
