Fr. Walter Elliott,
Ordained 55 Years,
Guest At Gathering
Washington, D. C., May 26.—Father Walter Elliott, C. S. P., oldest member of the Paulist congregation, celebrated yesterday the fifty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood, and the event was made the occasion of a gathering of superiors and members of the society and other clergy at the Apostolic Mission House at the Catholic University.
The Very Rev. Joseph McSorley, C. S. P., superior general of the Paulists; the Very Rev. P. P. Crane, vicar general of the Archdiocese of St. Louis; Very Rev. Lewis J. O'Hern, C. S. P., rector of the Apostolic Mission House; and the Rev. Dr. William J. Kerby, of the Catholic University, were among the hosts to Father Elliott, congratulated him and wished him many additional years of life and activity.
Father Elliott, who reached his eighty-fifth year on January 6 last, was ordained by the Rt. Rev. S. H. Rosecrans, first Bishop of Columbus, on May 25, 1872. Bishop Rosecrans was a brother of General Rosecrans, one of the commanders of the Union Army in the Civil War. The latter's son became a Paulist and was long associated with Father Elliott. Notwithstanding his great age, Father Elliott is still active. He continues to write books and articles on a variety of Catholic subjects. His latest work is a volume of "Mission Sermons" recently issued. One of his best known books is a "Life of Christ."
Before entering the priesthood, Father Elliott served in the Civil War, and attained the grade of sergeant. One of his brothers was killed in the battle of Gettysburg.

Weekly Calendar Of Feast Days
Sunday, June 6.—St. Boniface, martyr, was born at Crediton, Devonshire, England, in 680. He labored in Bavaria and Thuringia and Frisia although he was in constant danger. He aimed to make objects of idolatry contribute to the glory of God, and on one occasion cut down a mighty oak dedicated to Jupiter to build a church. He was slain with his attendants to the number of 62 by a group of pagans.
Monday, June 6.—St. Norbert, Bishop, after a pious youth, led a life of dissipation and luxury at the court of Emperor Henry IV. At the age of 30 he was thrown from his horse, and after recovering resolved to amend his life. He was ordained a priest and preached against the abuses of his Order. In 1126 he was appointed Bishop of Magdeburg. He died at the age of 53 years after having risked his life to carry on his work.
Tuesday, June 7.—St. Robert of Newminster. In 1132 Robert, a monk of Whitby, England, joined the 13 religious who had been expelled from the Abbey of St. Mary, York, for proposing to establish the strict Benedictine rule. He became head of the Abbey founded in Northumberland and called Newminster, and by his holiness of life guided his brethren. His fasting in the refectory, alone, sufficed to edify the community. When he died in 1159, St. Godric, the hermit of Finchale, saw his soul borne up by angels in a pathway of light.
Wednesday, June 8.—St. Medard, Bishop, one of the illustrious prelates of the Church in France in the Sixth Century, was born of a pious and noble family at Salency about the year 457. He became Bishop in 530 and through his zealous labor and miracles expelled idolatry from his diocese. From childhood he evinced a tender compassion for the poor. He died in 545.
Thursday, June 9.—Sts. Primas and Felicianus, martyrs, were brethren who lived in Rome toward the end of the Third Century, encouraging each other in the practice of good works. They lived lives of piety and spent days and nights with the confessors in the dungeons or at the places of their torments and execution. They were both tortured horribly and then beheaded.
Friday, June 10.—St. Margaret of Scotland was the granddaughter of an English king and in 1070 became the bride of Malcolm and reigned as Queen of Scotland until her death in 1093. She built churches and monasteries and busied herself with making vestments. She was an exemplary mother. On her deathbed she received news that her husband and eldest son had been slain in battle. She thanked God for sending her this affliction as a penance for her sins.
Saturday, June 11.—St. Barnabas, Apostle. A rich Levite named Joseph sold his land and gave the proceeds to the Apostles. They gave him a new name, Barnabas, the son of consolation. He labored with St. Paul in Antioch. Their preaching struck men with amazement. He won the martyr's crown in Cyprus.

THE OLD PETTICOAT.
Flapper styles are disappearing. For which we're very glad. They were never beautiful. With sights to make one sad. Charming women shroud in mystery. They hint the gown without display. Like the old petticoat, the red petticoat.
Worn in Grandmother's Day.
It was clean, neat and modest. And hid the knobby knee. While it flashed a pretty ankle. The heartbreaker for you and me.
The wearer needs no set off. Nor Paradise l'umes ill say. With the old petticoat, the red petticoat.
Worn in Grandmother's Day.
T was Paddy's Jig Dance Partner. And graced Scotty's Highland Fling.
The Milkmaid's chief adorning. For Peasant or for King. O'er the wide-wide world. It always held the sway. The old petticoat, the red petticoat.
Worn in Grandmother's Day.

Bishop Welch Urges
Women Use Ballot
Hibbing, Minn., May 25.—Although the women of America and Europe have made great progress there is yet much for them to do, the Rt. Rev. Thomas A. Welch, Bishop of Duluth, declared in an address at the fourth annual luncheon of the Hibbing Council of Catholic Women here Saturday. Some 200 women attended the luncheon.
Not only are the women of this country taking a more active interest in social, civic and governmental problems, Bishop Welch said, but the women of Europe are also assuming places of greater influence and importance. He made it quite plain that the Council of Catholic Women is not and never will be a political organization, pointing out that its first consideration is for the welfare of the nation and its unity.
The Bishop admonished his auditors not to shirk their patriotic duties but urged them to aspire to serve their States and communities intelligently and wholeheartedly. Having been given the right to vote, it devolves upon women to make use of their franchise, he said.
Dr. Anne M. Nicholson, field organizer of the National Council of Catholic Women, also addressed the gathering. Dr. Nicholson spoke principally of the need for more intensive organization work in the Council and said that great progress has been made since the foundation of the Organization in Washington seven years ago. Mgr. J. A. Lemmer also spoke and the Rev. J. Hayes said grace. Mrs. C. A. Bardesono welcomed the guests and Mrs. J. B. Flau spoke briefly.
