Coincides.

The Catholic Journal has expressed the opinion that Colonel Lindbergh's air voyage into Mexico might prove the turning point in the fickle public's hero worship.

Col. Lindbergh made his successful flight to Mexico and the American people have properly acclaimed the feat.

Col. Lindbergh has been held in high esteem by his fellow-citizens because of his spirit of daring, his courage and his praiseworthy modesty.

Quacks in sociology, like quacks in medicine, have the trick of creating interest and confidence in their nostrums by picturing the horrors of the diseases they pretend to treat.

City Credit.

That the change in city management has not damaged, rather enhanced the credit of the city, is the plea of some persons in this editorial.

Rochester's financial credit in the municipal bond market still retains its enviable place at the top of the list.

That Rochester is a bond barometer is attested by the New York Times, which gives indications from the recent sale of Rochester bonds.

That Rochester is a bond barometer is attested by the New York Times, which gives indications from the recent sale of Rochester bonds.

Reforestation.

For quite a few years now the far-seeing persons interested in preservation of our forests and woodland have been urging that greater discrimination be practiced in cutting of our timber supply.

But, of late, these very interests have become alarmed at prospect of exhaustion of wood supply and they are turning to the expert foresters for advice and aid.

Through wise legislation and an awakened interest in forestry and permanent output on the part of large lumber and pulp interests, Sweden has now reached the goal of balanced timber production.

Sweden is an important lumber, pulp and paper producer. Its aim has been the strictly practical one of preserving an industry which accounts for half of its exports.

But a change is coming. Fire protection is extending. Many states have tree planting programs.

Sweden is a country where the natural growth of trees is slower than on our southern or Pacific coast timber lands.

Immoral.

In order that some of our readers who may not be well informed as to all that Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver stands for, we know something definite as to the real sentiments held by this much advertised "socialist."

Quacks in sociology, like quacks in medicine, have the trick of creating interest and confidence in their nostrums by picturing the horrors of the diseases they pretend to treat.

Let us hope now that the newspapers will devote their columns to matters more cheerful, more decent, more wholesome and of more constructive value to all their readers.

Colonel Lindbergh plans now to see America, North and South, first.

Governor Alfred Smith's many friends are united in the wish that his beloved wife may soon be restored to health.

So far this winter, the snow removal contractors have had no complaints as to overwork.

Anyway the artificial ice men and the manufacturers of electric refrigerators do not find fault with the brand of Rochester weather so far exhibited in 1928.

Community To Give Deaf Help Receives Group Of Novices

(By N. C. W. C. News Service) Cincinnati, Jan. 7.—The first group of novices for the newly formed community to work among the deaf, founded by the Rev. Henry J. Waldhaus, director of St. Rita School for the Deaf in this city, made their promises for one year on the Feast of the Epiphany.

Established to work for the deaf and hard of hearing, the community admits to membership women whose hearing is defective.

The professions followed the closing of an eight-day retreat conducted by the Rev. Stephen Klofer, S. J., during the retreat, were delivered by Father Klofer in both the spoken and sign language.

Must Revise.

Whatever else may be said of the Anti-Saloon League, it has been operated by practical politicians who know how to handle and control the politicians and it has also been able to spread its propaganda to win the popular public sentiment.

For that reason it may be of interest to our readers if we reproduce the following editorial from a recent issue of the New York "World":

It would be interesting to know what the delegates to the Anti-Saloon League convention in Washington thought of an address delivered on Sunday by Stanley High, Mr. High is assistant secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Foreign Missions.

But he is also something of a realist; he is a young man and he did not talk to the Anti-Saloon League in the stock phrases of its fathers.

He suggested, for example, that recruits to the Prohibition movement could no longer be won by "insisting that to drink however moderate a quantity is to commit a sin."

Mr. High had various recommendations to place before his elders in the Prohibition movement, not of the sort which they are used to hearing.

For one thing, he recommended open-mindedness: "One of the greatest things that could happen to the dry cause would be a widespread acknowledgment among its proponents of the validity of some of the data of the opposition."

For another thing, he suggested that it would be a good plan to stress honesty a little more and politics a little less.

What does the Anti-Saloon League think of heretics like this?

Forget It!

Now that the principals in the Gray Snyder case have paid the fine imposed by the law for their misdeeds, let us hope the press of the country will not waste so much of their valuable space in disgusting details of such a sordid happening.

It may be that demand for news necessitated a certain amount of detail but we cannot see where it was necessary to print every day the portrait of the two principals, or of their relatives to the fourth generation.

Let us hope now that the newspapers will devote their columns to matters more cheerful, more decent, more wholesome and of more constructive value to all their readers.
