

Bishop Denounces Those Who Would Degrade Marriage

Mgr. Schrembs Compares Catholic Ideal of the Sacredness of Marital Union With Ideas of Modernists

Cleveland, June 3.—Modern "false prophets" who "preach the destruction of the sacredness of marriage under all sorts of guises" were arraigned by the Rt. Rev. Joseph Schrembs, Bishop of Cleveland, here Tuesday in the strongest terms at the close of an impressive Catholic marriage at which he had just officiated.

Bishop Schrembs chose a striking occasion on which to make his statement. The bridegroom at the wedding was a prominent City Councilman of Cleveland, and among those in the church were the City Manager, W. R. Hopkins; the Mayor of Cleveland, John D. Marshall; members of the City Council, judge of the courts and two thousand other persons who crowded the edifice to capacity.

Louis Petras, for years a prominent figure among the Hungarian people here and a representative Catholic, was the bridegroom, and Miss Zella Marie Weizer, also of Cleveland, was the bride. The Bishop said the pontifical nuptial Mass and heard the vows of the young couple in St. Elizabeth's church.

Standing at the entrance of the sanctuary at the close of the ceremony, Bishop Schrembs said he wished to emphasize the Catholic ideal of marriage. He then read the Introit, the Gospel, the Collect and the Epistle blessing the Church centers at weddings he desired thus to show the ideal, the beauty of the Catholic marriage ritual and the sanctity and indissolubility with which Catholics regard the Sacrament of Marriage.

Bishop Draws A Contrast. "I want to contrast this marriage ceremony with that which takes place so often for others," he continued. "Here we see a young couple kneeling before the altar to ask God's special blessing upon their union. The Church, in its ceremony, prays a special benediction upon them, that they may live a holy and God-like life. They have been joined together, and with God's help their life will continue to be under His protection all days.

In the design of God, marriage is a high, a holy institution. Its purpose is to establish a home, that the couple may cooperate with God in bringing children into the world.

This union cannot be abrogated by the mere whim of either party to it. It is to continue throughout their lives, for what God hath joined together, let no man put asunder.

Marriage today has fallen from its high estate through the sin of man.

The Catholic Church has always held marriage to be the highest esteem. She knows it is unchanging in her view as to its sacredness and its indissolubility. That is the unchanging teaching of the Church. Christ spoke for all time—yesterday, today, tomorrow.

Thus the Church solemnizes the marriage rite with great pomp and impressiveness.

Today there are false prophets preaching destruction of the sacredness of marriage under all sorts of guises. They are crying out that concessions be legitimized. To legitimize prostitution, to legitimize real wish whishes, if it is legalized or not, it is nothing else but prostitution. We hear of "free love." "Free love" is nothing but free love.

Communism, brutality was the Bishop's characterization of the recent action of a group of university students who asked the most popular girl in the school the one who had the most "sex appeal." He continued:

True View of Marriage. "The true view of marriage is that shall be the forerunner of a life of holiness, of a home and a family.

Even from the lower animals we may learn a lesson in fidelity. The lower animals safeguard their young, and they are able to care for them. But with our advocates of divorce, the children may shift for themselves, and thus the Socialist is right when he seeks to make the child the ward of the State, so that the State may take charge of the child when his parents are not fit.

While we hear these pernicious doctrines being proclaimed from the pulpits and the market-places, it is refreshing to find a young couple animated with spirit of faith who come to kneel before the altar of God to ask His blessing upon their union. They realize that their marriage is a sacred thing; they have taken each other for better or for worse. One man and one woman, they face the world together.

This marriage bespeaks a sense of responsibility. It is an echo of God's thought when he made man.

The Bishop concluded his remarks by congratulating the newly-wedded couple and praying that the blessing of the Church might be richly fulfilled in their life through out the years.

Last War-Ruined Church In Nancy Diocese Rebuilt

Papal Nuncio Blesses New Edifice—Village Greets Him With Banners. By M. Magliani, (Paris Correspondent, N. C. W. C. News Service).

Paris, June 4.—The Diocese of Nancy is the first to complete the restoration of churches destroyed or damaged during the war. Magliani, papal nuncio at Paris, has just blessed the last one to be reconstructed, that at Nomeny, a village 14 miles north of Nancy. The first reconstructed edifice, at Ancerville, was blessed by his predecessor Mgr. Corretti.

M. Louis Marin, Minister of Pensions, who is also counselor general of Nomeny, was personal representative of the Republic at this ceremony, which was also attended by the prefect of the department of Meurthe-et-Moselle, and the bishop of the diocese.

Village Decorated For Nuncio. The village of Nomeny, arisen from its ruins, was decorated with arches of triumph made of green branches and greeted the representative of the Holy See with banners bearing the words, "Welcome to His Excellency the Nuncio."

The new church follows the same architecture and is an exact reproduction of its predecessor which dated from the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. Some stones salvaged from the destroyed building have been incorporated in the new.

In his address at the close of the ceremony, Mgr. de la Cote, Bishop of Nancy, recalled that the walls of the old church had heard the preaching of St. Pierre Fourier. He also described the last days of the church; the frightful events of August 20, 1914, when the invaders of the town set fire to 375 residences and caused 70 victims to perish within a few hours. The venerable curate of the parish, Abbe Lhuillier, who proved his courage and devotion in those hours of grief, fell sick soon afterwards and died some months later. His illness was attributed in part to a heart bowed down with grief at the fate of his children. At the close of the war, his successor, Abbe Guyon, took up his abode in a hovel of wood and paper to supervise the restoration of his parish and his church.

M. Marin Speaks With Feeling. At the banquet following the ceremony, M. Louis Marin paid warm tribute to the papal nuncio, saying: "Yesterday, I presided at an ex-soldiers' banquet. A wounded Italian who was present, having heard me say what I would meet Your Excellency today, sought me out and said, 'I know Mgr. Magliani. I am from his diocese. There we know all about him and his devoted affection for his mother, which makes us love him all the more.'

"That is what a humble soldier thinks of you and you know the value of the words of the humble. The humble peasants of my country are no less grateful to you for having come to bless their church.

"Our churches are an integral part of our country. Here in Lorraine there are no doubters, for all have in the depths of their hearts a religious conception and conscience. Our churches are the reflection of that conscience and the countryside of Lorraine would appear foreign to us if we no longer heard the sound of the bell of the church where we made our First Communion, the church bearing witness to all the joys and sorrow of our lives."

M. Marin closed his address by paying tribute to the Nuncio's delicate accomplishments in restoring religious peace in France.

Mgr. Magliani thanked the minister for his expression of appreciation of the work of the Holy See and assured the citizens of the particular affection of the Holy Father for his children who were so grievously afflicted by the war.

From Nomeny, the Nuncio went to Pont-a-Mousson by automobile, accompanied by M. Marin, to visit the ancient University which numbers among its alumni many scholars and eminent churchmen.

Pope Gives Blessing To Two Old Couples. San Francisco, June 3.—Papal blessings were conferred today upon two elderly couples who commemorated the golden jubilee of their marriage at a special ceremony at St. Anthony's church. The recipients of the blessings were Mr. and Mrs. Felix Schoenstein and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Buech. Through the representations of the Franciscan Fathers in Rome, special blessings were forwarded from the Vatican. These bear autographed portraits of Pope Pius XI and were presented by Father Martin Knauer, O.F.M., pastor of St. Anthony's.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS Issued Weekly From the Publicity Bureau, New Haven, Conn.

Harried Editor Demands Gorgeous Raiment

Brother J. P. Killen is the hard working editor of the Pittsburgh Knights of Columbus Bulletin. For many moons, the burden of editorial woe has pressed heavily on his heart. Resentment has smoldered in his breast—resentment against correspondents who write on both sides of the paper and resentment against those who are even worse, the happy souls who write not at all. Wherefore, Brother Killen produces the following suggestion:

"That the editors of Knights of Columbus local publications be furnished with an official robe to wear at the different ceremonies, as state, district and council officers now wear theirs. An idea for such a robe would be a two-thirds length garment, material of a light color, that will be suitably printed or decorated, say, with a picture of Annas or Baron Munchausen, borders of various typesetting and typewriting devices; picture of the editor embellishing the truth (as he sees it)—many decorative schemes will occur to the designers at the G. H. Q. The robe to have no pockets outside, but be provided inside with a sort of a removable cartridge belt, containing spaces to hold in individual containers the many cigars usually given the editor; a collapsible dictaphone, space for note sheets or cards (business or party) or various other needs. Materials used should be passed on by the Board of Fire Underwriters and of some heat-resisting fabric."

The publication, editing and circulating of Knights of Columbus has now reached almost the proportions of a new national industry, and as most of the editors, assistant editors and staffs of such publications are "Dollar-a-Year" men, furnishing them with a distinctive robe of office would allow the various degree officials to announce the name of the editor when the officers are being called, and give him a chance to make a four-minute speech. His place in the line could be determined by each degree master.

Boy Work Notes

At the Minnesota State Council meeting held at International Falls, May 22, the District Deputy of the Second Minnesota District and Chairman of the State Boy Welfare Committee presented a comprehensive report on the boys' work activities in the state during the past year and offered a resolution recommending that the officers of the state take the necessary steps to train selected men from each council as boys' workers. The committee has encouraged the formation of Scout troops in many places with the purpose of developing candidates for membership in the Columbian Squires. It is recognized that leaders are needed and the State Council officers were requested by the Committee to establish a summer school for leadership training to be directed by a representative of the Supreme Council Boy Life Bureau. This summer school is proposed to give opportunity to the smaller councils to have members trained in boy leadership.

Fourth Degree Exemplified by Montana Knights

Under the able leadership of Sir Knight Joseph T. McMahon, Master of the Fourth Degree of Montana, an unusually fine exemplification was held at Great Falls, Montana.

One hundred and twenty-one candidates received the highest degree of our Order in what was the most distinguished class ever held in this state. Among the candidates were the Right Reverend Mathias C. Lenihan, Bishop of the Great Falls Diocese, and the Right Reverend George J. Finnigan, Bishop of the Helena Diocese. The success of the day's exemplification was crowned fittingly by the beautiful banquet at the Rainbow Hotel at which there were two hundred and fifteen Fourth Degree Knights in attendance. After the banquet there were addresses made by Bishop Lenihan and Bishop Finnigan, Supreme Secretary William J. McGinley and James J. Walsh, Knight of St. Gregory. At the close of the banquet Brother McMahon, who was the toastmaster, was presented with a beautiful watch as a token of esteem from the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus of Montana as a partial reward for his untiring efforts as Master and his twenty-one years of faithful service as an officer in the Order. Brother McMahon has the distinction of being the first Master of the Fourth Degree to hold two exemplifications in as many years.
