

Cardinal Dougherty Dedicates Big Organ Presented By Jews

Philadelphia, June 4.—With more than 1,000 persons of various denominations in attendance, His Eminence Cardinal Dougherty, Archbishop of Philadelphia, yesterday dedicated the memorial organ in the Church at St. Martin, student chapel of the Seminary of St. Charles Borromeo, at Overbrook, the beautiful Italian Renaissance edifice, being opened to public view for the first time.

The organ is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Greenfield prominent Philadelphia Jews, in honor of Judge John Monaghan, District Attorney, and was presented in recognition of his humanitarian work in the city. Both donors and Judge Monaghan were present.

Simply marked the dedication of the instrument, the initiatory ritual on which was given by Fr. Min Swinnen, noted Belgian-American organist. The ritual was preceded by a procession, through the nave of the church to the choir loft. The Rt. Rev. Joseph A. Whitaker, and the Very Rev. Dr. G. P. O'Hara, with the Very Rev. Joseph M. Corrigan, rector of the Seminary officiated.

Cardinal Dougherty, in accepting the organ, said:

"Neither fire nor sword nor persecution has been able to break the spirit of the Jewish people, nor have they ever lost either their consciousness of race or their brotherly love. The enormous results of Jewish charity campaigns in this city may well serve us as models."

His Eminence referred to Mr. Greenfield as "the kind of American American feel proud of—a self-made man, in the prime of life he has reached a standing by which he is counted one of the first men in Philadelphia, in Pennsylvania, in the United States."

Calling music the demonstration of law and order in the realm of sound, Cardinal Dougherty added, "It is appropriate that this organ should be dedicated to the illustrious fellow citizen whose life has been dedicated to the preservation of law and order, Judge Monaghan. It is a memorial of what he has done for the community as well as to the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Greenfield."

Hundreds of persons remained to inspect the interior of the church and the seven chapels dedicated to seven saints, and finished each in the historic period of its patron. The dedication of the remaining faculty and student units of the new auxiliary building will be conducted Sunday, with the Rt. Rev. Daniel J. Gerke, Bishop of Tucson, Arizona, officiating, the ceremonies to be a part of the celebration of the episcopal silver jubilee of His Eminence Cardinal Dougherty.

Archbishop Shaw's 40th Year As Priest Solemnly Observed

New Orleans, May 29.—The fortieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood was observed by the Most Rev. John William Shaw, Archbishop of New Orleans, here, when the distinguished and much-beloved prelate was celebrant of a pontifical Mass in Notre Dame Seminary. As an expression of the love, veneration and gratitude the clergy and laity of the Archdiocese feel for their leader, they thronged the chapel for the services.

The actual anniversary of Archbishop Shaw's ordination was Saturday, but at his request it was not publicly observed. The clergy of the archdiocese simply assembled for a "family feast" at which he was highly honored.

The celebration of the eminent churchman's fortieth anniversary of his ordination lacked but a few days of being the tenth anniversary of his elevation to the archbishop's throne. He was canonically installed as metropolitan of the New Orleans ecclesiastical province June 2, 1918, in St. Joseph's church.

The pontifical Mass in the seminary was followed by a reception. At about a luncheon was given in his honor by the clergy, at which the seminary and faculty of Notre Dame were guests.

Archbishop Shaw is the first American-born archbishop of the New Orleans metropolitan see. He succeeded the late Archbishop Blank.

Member of Faculty Of Trinity College, Dublin, Decorated

Dublin, June 1.—Professor Walter Starke of Trinity College, Dublin, has been decorated with the Civil Order of Alfonso XII, by the King of Spain. This is in recognition of Professor Starke's services to Spanish literature and history, on which subjects he is a distinguished lecturer and writer.

Professor Starke is a doctor of literature, and a fellow of Trinity College, Dublin, which is generally regarded as the summit of academic ambition in Ireland. He is the only Catholic fellow of Trinity. He is a distinguished musician, a member of the Council of the Dublin Fels Cells (Musical Festival), and was an ardent supporter of the successful experiment of introducing a competition in Plain-song at the Fels. He was a speaker at the last congress of the Catholic Truth Society of Ireland.

Strife Over Prayer Book Bill Is Still Dividing Anglicans

London, June 7.—Gravely concerned about the fate of the Prayer Book Measure which is soon to go again before Parliament, the Archbishop of Canterbury has published a letter in his Ecclesian Gazette appealing for prayer that God may guide Parliament in its deliberations to the furtherance of His will for the Church and people of our country.

The Commons debates have been provisionally fixed for June 13 and 14.

Dr. Randall appeals to his clergy to "keep the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace," and asks ministers and people to "pray together that the right solution may be given to our perplexities."

The Bishop of Lincoln, Dr. Swayne, preaching at Louth, said that even if the Commons rejected the Book, that would not prevent its use. The lesson of history was that liberty was seldom conceded; it must be taken. They must take it themselves the liberty they needed.

Trouble between Bishops and clergy continues. Dr. Barnes, Bishop of Birmingham, refuses to approve a grant which the Church Extension Fund wants to make to the Rev. C. Brown, a Birmingham vicar, because the latter belongs to a group that refuses to obey his Lordship's instructions and refuses to cease "grave irregularities in public worship."

The Bishop of Leicester, (Dr. Bardsley), is in dispute with the vicar of St. Mary de Castro church, Leicester, because the minister insists upon using ritual which the Bishop refuses to allow. The parish has been placed under discipline. As a result the Mayor and Corporation cancelled the 300-year-old custom of attending the church on Trinity Sunday because the Mayor has been advised that it "would not be proper or legal for him officially to attend a church under the Bishop's ban."

Timothy Healy Is Honored By Pilgrims

London, May 28.—Famous statesmen, ecclesiastics and soldiers, many of whom were at one time his bitter foes, assembled at a dinner given by the Pilgrims in honor of Timothy Healy, formerly Governor General of the Irish Free State on the occasion of his 73rd birthday. Cardinal Bourne and Viscount FitzAlan, the last Viceroy of Ireland, who is a Catholic, were among the guests.

The Duke of Connaught, uncle of King George, who was prevented from attending, wrote: "In Mr. Timothy Healy we always recognize a distinguished Irishman who for forty years was a Member of Parliament and occupied a commanding position in the House during one of the most critical periods of the country's history. As Governor General of the Irish Free State he enjoyed the respect and, I think, the affection of the great majority of the Irish men and women throughout the English-speaking world."

Lord Birkenhead, who in his House of Commons days often crossed swords with the redoubtable Irish champion, proposed the toast of Mr. Healy's health, and paid a very warm tribute to his work for Ireland in the stormy days and to his work for peace.

Mr. Healy replied: "I had the sympathy of the English and the Irish people, and while four British administrations have come and gone since the treaty was signed, the wayward and impulsive Irish have been satisfied to keep the same Government in all that time not an acid drop passed between the two countries so far as Government interference was concerned."

Msgr. C. Roy Elected President of Royal Society of Canada

Winnipeg, Canada, June 4.—The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Camille Roy, vice-rector of Laval University, Quebec, was appointed president of the Royal Society of Canada, at the annual election of officers of the organization at Lower Fort Garry, recently. Other officers chosen to serve during the year 1928-29, were Dr. A. S. Eve, of Montreal, vice-president; Dr. L. J. Barpe, of Toronto, secretary; Dr. A. S. Young of Toronto, librarian, and Dr. J. Patterson of Toronto, secretary of the meetings.

For the French section the following were elected: President, the Rev. J. Caron vice-president, Dr. A. Bachevalier and secretary, Major A. Lanctot.

Election of new members to fill vacancies in the society included, among others, the Rt. Rev. Francis Xavier Ross, Bishop of Gaspé. Monsignor Roy is widely known as an educator and man of letters. A member of the Legion of Honor of France, he is among the foremost authorities on French literature in Canada.

Senator Thomas Chapais, awarded the Tyrell medal for history, at the meeting, is a doctor of Letters of Laval University, chevalier of the Legion of Honor of France, and former president of the Royal Society of Canada. In the political world, the medalist is a member of the legislative council of Quebec, and a Senator of the Dominion of Canada.

Expert On Currency Believes Sen. Heflin Only "Sees Things"

Cleveland, May 31.—C. L. Bickford, assistant cashier in the Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank and an authority on currency designs, declares that Senator Heflin of Alabama has a vivid imagination, which accounts for his statement in the Senate that a portrait of the "Pope," a "Roman cross" and a "rosary" appear on dollar bills.

"The cross that Senator Heflin's mind conjures up," Mr. Bickford said, "is merely the crossing of two lines that make an X."

"The first printing from this plate was in 1869, and there were subsequent printings in 1878, and 1880, and again in the Wilson administration in 1917. We had many inquiries in the matter of the alleged Catholic symbols in 1917 from those who thought the plate was new, whereas it was originally made in 1869 by private bank note engravers in New York under a Government contract. The Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington was not in existence at that time, and it is a matter of record that the plate was not engraved by any governmental agency, though the proof was doubtless approved by treasury officials of the period.

"The designs are in keeping with the style of engraving art then current and matched the higher denominations of the same original series.

"Before 1917 the last subsequent printing from this plate was in 1880. With a spread of 35 years most people had forgotten this legal tender $1 bill and when it reappeared in 1917 due to withdrawal of silver certificates it impressed many that it was a new design entirely.

"On one of the cross sections of the X on the dollar bill in question, the words 'United States' are printed, and on the other 'America' appears. The outline of the X is merely an artistic bit of engraving and has no connection with the Roman cross."

Heflin's other evidence of a Roman cross, Mr. Bickford said, is a bit of scrip work on the letter "E" in the word "United" and the letter "E" in the word "States". Among engravers this fanciful effect was known as "pearling" and was an accepted and conventional script of the times.

"The representation of the rosary is also as remote as the two other claims, for this rosary is merely some 'lath' work with which engravers embellished the plate," Mr. Bickford explained.

Regarding the claim that the profile of a pope was a corner design on the bill in question, Mr. Bickford said: "Examination of this alleged papal profile under a microscope showed that it was merely a floral design or petals of a blossom."

Sioux Falls Diocese Organizing N.C.C.W.

Sioux Falls, S. D., June 1.—Meetings looking toward the formation of the Sioux Falls Diocesan Council of the National Council of Catholic Women have been held here.

A reception for out of town delegates was held at the Carpenter Hotel. Some 150 persons attended the luncheon at which Miss Agnes G. Regan, executive secretary of the National Council of Catholic Women, was the guest of honor. At the business meeting the following officers were elected:

Mrs. J. W. Keogh, president; Mrs. B. S. Reardon, vice-president; Mrs. Hugh Whitcomb, secretary; Mrs. William Kelly, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. E. P. Kreiser, treasurer. A discussion of the constitution was held at this time, and the date for the first annual convention was set for the third week in September.

At an evening meeting held in the Cathedral High School auditorium, the Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Mahoney, Bishop of Sioux Falls, spoke, giving the projected Council his full approval. Miss Regan explained the organization and work of the National Catholic Welfare Conference and the National Council of Catholic Women. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. A. F. Ambrault, president of Columbus College, was the final speaker. Pastors of the local churches attended the meeting.

St. Yves, Lawyers' Patron, Is Honored

Paris, May 28.—A tradition of ancient times was resumed, when members of the Paris bar had a Mass celebrated in honor of St. Yves, patron of lawyers, and for their conferees who died during the year.

The services were conducted in the Church of St. Etienne du Mont, in the neighborhood of the law schools, and was attended by numerous lawyers, magistrates and professors from the Paris School of Law.

A Dominican, Father Pade, reviewed the life of St. Yves, who lived in Brittany from 1153 to 1303 and was, at the same time, priest and advocate. He was canonized by Clement VI in 1347 and is revered as the patron of lawyers.

While Msgr. Cerretti was in Paris, he presented a beautiful painting of the Saint to the baristers of the capital. The picture hangs in the Palais de Justice.

Graduates Warned By Admiral Benson Of Nation's Perils

Cincinnati, O., June 7.—The country needs the services of its young men not alone in the army and navy, but constantly in the ordinary walks of life, Admiral William S. Benson, U. S. N., retired, declared in an address delivered last night at the commencement exercises of St. Xavier College here. St. Xavier College, on this occasion, awarded degrees and certificates to 109 successful candidates—the largest graduating class in the history of the school.

The country, Admiral Benson said, needs the honor and dependability of its young men, "their willingness to brave any peril rather than let down the defenses to corruption, selfishness and soft living."

Surveying the state of the nation from the vantage point of years of experience and service, the speaker said, "one cannot help but experience a sense of alarm and misgiving." As a nation, he added, American have accomplished marvelous things, but "there is plentiful evidence that all things are not as they should be." Things happen in public life, the speaker continued, "strange, unaccountable things that soil the fair name of public service."

"Forces are laboring to undermine the cornerstone of national greatness, the home," he said. "Crime flourishes, and its prevalence assumes the proportion of a national peril. The older American virtues, honor and responsibility, seem to be on the wane."

One is unable to find an adequate explanation of these various phenomena, the speaker said, adding that one thing seems to be apparent, that there is an absence of self-discipline and a waning sense of responsibility and of mutual interdependence evident all around us.

"In the long run," he continued, "it is not external enemies that destroy a nation, but an undisciplined, undependable citizenry that betrays its highest ideals in times of peace."

"There may be a great difference of opinion among men as to the proper definition of education, but who may give thought to the subject must come to a common agreement as to what they expect to accomplish by it. Society looks to the school to furnish it with young men endowed with noble vision and equipped with the power to follow their vision wherever it may lead. We expect the schools to teach the young the truth about life and to breed in them the habits that are requisite to noble living. No by-product of education is more important than a sense of responsibility, the speaker added, pointing out that the more freedom man has, the greater is his own personal responsibility.

Admiral Benson, is closing, paid a tribute to the teachers of St. Xavier College, "inspired with the spirit of Loyola, soldier of the world who became the soldier of Jesus Christ."

"If you have learned well the lessons they have sought to teach you," he said to the graduates, "then you are a good American because you are a man of discipline, of integrity and never shrinking difficulty. You have seen in your teachers a vision of duty in action. That vision you can never forget. If you live true to it, your education has been a success. If you prove renege, yours will be the severer judgment. Since you have received much, much will be expected of you."

League of Writers, Chicago, Organizes

Chicago, June 5.—Temporary officers chosen by the recently formed League of Writers, Chicago Guild Press Association, an organization of Catholic writers of the Western Metropolitan Press Association, are as follows: President, William J. Clark, Chicago Evening American; vice-president, James Ryan Hayden, Chicago Journal; secretary, Francis D. Hanna, and treasurer, Miss Elizabeth Callahan, New World. These officers are to serve for six months.

The object of the organization, the initial meeting of which was called ten days ago by S. A. Baldus, former president of the Catholic Press Association, and J. H. Meter, secretary, is to aid Catholic journalists in every way and to secure cooperation and acquaintance between Catholics employed on religious and secular papers in Chicago and vicinity.

$10,000 Is Pledged By N. Y. Man To Aid Buying Of Abbey

London, May 31.—George P. Whaley, president of the Vacuum Oil Company of New York, has sent a cable to the Anglican Bishop of Blackburn offering to contribute $10,000 to the fund which the diocesan authorities are raising to acquire Whalley Abbey.

Canon J. E. W. Wallis, Anglican vicar of Whalley, says Mr. Whaley's offer is conditional on the balance of the $90,000 required for the abbey being raised by the end of June.

When the fund was opened recently it was contended that the Anglican's purpose in acquiring the ruin and grounds of the abbey was to keep them out of Catholic hands. Catholics at present own a small portion of the property. The Anglicans stated that they wanted it as a diocesan country house.

Catholic Women's League of Canada Meets June 25-30 Calgary, Alta, June 4.—The eighth annual convention of the Catholic Women's League of Canada will be held at the Pallister hotel in Calgary June 25 to 30, inclusive, according to an announcement just issued. Representatives from every Province will be present and the various reports of officers will detail the amount of work accomplished throughout the past year.

CINDER BLOCKS The greatest improvement in the building industry in the last decade—Let us show you Rochester Cinder Block Corp. Norman St. Glen. 41 70 (Near End of Emerson Car Line)

"A Catholic Welcome to New Canadians," is the slogan adopted by the organization, the application of which will appear in many of the addresses as the immigration policy of the C. W. L. and its results are reported and discussed. The fulfillment of the national scholarship project decided upon last year at Montreal will initiate an educational policy which is expected to broaden and grow from year to year.

Prominent speakers, both clerical and lay, will address the delegates at the luncheon and supper hours on subjects of general interest. At the opening meeting, June 25, the Most Rev. Henry J. O'Leary, Archbishop of Edmonton, who is honorary national chaplain, will speak, as will the Rt. Rev. John Thomas Kidd Bishop of Calgary.

The national president, Mrs. J. J. Duggan, of Edmonton, and the Calgary sub-division and the Calgary Juniors, will be hostesses of the convention. Many social functions arranged for the visitors include a trip to Banff by motor.

When Mr. Neary was a political prisoner in Ballykintler, in the North of Ireland, during the Anglo-Irish struggle in 1921, he and James Gill, of Dundalk, organized a band of their fellow prisoners to perform the exercises of the pilgrimage in their internment camp. The shrine, known throughout the west as the Sacred Heart Shrine of Lough Derg, will be saddened to learn that the frame building that housed the beautiful statue was reduced to ashes a week ago last Friday.

The shrine was built in 1917 of frame structure with cement pillars. Besides the statue there was a carved altar at $600. This, too, was completely destroyed. Announcement was made immediately following the fire that the shrine would be rebuilt and would be completed in time to hold the annual pilgrimage on July 2. Origin of the blaze has not been ascertained.

Men Once Political Prisoners Pilgrims To Old Irish Shrine Dublin, June 1.—Arrangements have been completed by Edward Neary, of Dublin, for a pilgrimage of former political prisoners to Lough Derg. The pilgrims will leave Dublin on July 7, and will remain at the Shrine for the customary period of three days.

Three N. Y. Catholic Institutions Share In Large Bequests

New York, June 6.—St. Agnes Hospital for Crippled Children, White Plains; St. Rose's Free Home for Incurable Cancer, and the Home for the Aged of the Little Sisters of the Poor, Catholic institutions, will share with the New York Foundling Hospital in the bulk of the estate of John B. Colgan, retired business man, who died April 2, according to terms of the will just entered for probate. More than thirty cousins were named as next-of-kin in this petition, but only one of these is mentioned in the will. The amount of the estate, principally real estate and stocks and bonds, could not be determined yesterday.

Among those to receive special bequests are Mr. Colgan's nurse, Amanda Moon, of Valley Stream, L. I., Sister De Sales, of Clinton, Iowa, and Jacob Moskowitz of Brooklyn, each of whom will be given $1,000.

Mrs. Mullen Again Omaha N.C.C.W. Head (By N. C. W. C. News Service) Omaha, Neb., May 29.—Mrs. Arthur F. Mullen of this city, a former president of the National Council of Catholic Women, was elected president of the Omaha Diocesan Council of Catholic Women at its annual convention.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. P. S. Heaton of Central City, first vice-president; Mrs. William Bligh of O'Neill, Nebraska, second vice-president; Mrs. Charles T. Dougherty of Columbus, third vice-president, and Miss Anna E. Hughes, treasurer.

Resolutions adopted by the convention vigorously opposed federalization of education; urged the organization of parent-teacher associations in connection with all parochial schools in the Diocese of Omaha; pledged the council "to continue actively in its protests against all legislative measures which would in any way undermine the sanctity of family life; condemned improper and objectionable literature.

The Rt. Rev. Francis J. Beckmen, Bishop of Lincoln and Apostolic Administrator of the Diocese of Omaha, addressed the banquet with which the convention closed. Bishop Beckman told the convention that today Catholic womanhood must take up a stand outside the home in order to meet the dangers that threaten the home. "The cause for which you fight," he said, "is the cause of God and of His Church. I commend you for it and thank you for your efforts, and promise the fullest cooperation."

Bishop Beckman also took occasion to congratulate the people of the See on the selection of Bishop Eumiel as their Ordinary.

Shrine In Canada Destroyed By Fire

(By N. C. W. C.
