

FOURTH ANNUAL ROCHESTER
RADIO SHOW
 SEPT. 17-22
SAX SMITH AND HIS CAVALIERS
 LATEST RADIOS
 PRIZES DAILY
 ADULTS 35¢
 CHILDREN 20¢
 OPEN 12 NOON TO 10:30 P.M.
CONVENTION HALL

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin.

Grace J. Austin.

"Dame Fashion, would you list of the ten 'best sellers'?"

"What's mirage, pale gray?"

But to return to the 'after-supper' headgear.

There are hints as to when the time of year that the rich purple shades are to be used.

Gray Karakul Coat With Collar of Soft Gray Fox

Here is shown an exceedingly smart fashion designed for the coming winter and which is sure to have many admirers. It is a gray karakul coat with a collar of soft gray fox.

Velveteen Promises to Be Much in Limelight

Velveteen, delightfully inexpensive as fabrics go these days, and combining rich luster with durability, will be welcomed as a coat material of considerable smartness for both formal and informal wear for fall and of winter weight.

The Teltta Record

By JEAN STEVEN

"YOU'RE the prize," she claimed, "in Marshall's class."

After that, she took up a conversation over their conversation.

"Oh, that's all right," she said, "but I don't want to be a little bit of a nuisance."

"I suppose not, but I don't see how you can be so sure of it."

"I don't know," she said, "but I don't want to be a little bit of a nuisance."

"I don't know," she said, "but I don't want to be a little bit of a nuisance."

"I don't know," she said, "but I don't want to be a little bit of a nuisance."

"I don't know," she said, "but I don't want to be a little bit of a nuisance."

"I don't know," she said, "but I don't want to be a little bit of a nuisance."

"I don't know," she said, "but I don't want to be a little bit of a nuisance."

"I don't know," she said, "but I don't want to be a little bit of a nuisance."

"I don't know," she said, "but I don't want to be a little bit of a nuisance."

"I don't know," she said, "but I don't want to be a little bit of a nuisance."

"I don't know," she said, "but I don't want to be a little bit of a nuisance."

Animals for Children

Made of Flour Bags

Going to bed isn't such a bad business after all if you can make some animal friends to give you just such companionship.

To make these animals, the chain stitching is first pulled out of the bag and the stamping removed by covering the inked places with lard or soaking them in kerosene for a few hours.

A single bag, bought at

Empty Flour Bags Used to Make Animal Playthings.

a bakery for a few cents will make several of these animals, depending, of course, on the size.

If one has the slightest skill in drawing, no pattern is required for cutting these out, as children are not exacting about physiology so long as eyes, ears, nose and tail are discernible.

The rabbit's ears might be traced with a bit of pink flannel and his coat made out of findings in the scrap bag. Sew the back and front together, leaving an opening at the side for the stuffing. Snips of clean rags and old underwear are better than bray or sawdust for stuffing because they will not leech so disastrouly.

Character dolls from the children's favorite fairy stories or comic strip can be created in the same way with a little more effort and will delight them enormously.

HOW

WRITERS HAVE MADE USE OF SLANG TERM "BOOZE"

"Booze" is not a word of recent coinage, as is commonly supposed. Although it is now classified as slang, in varying forms it has been part of the English language for centuries.

It appears variously as "booze," "housen," "houze" and "house." The verb "housen" meaning to cuzzle or drink to excess, was a reputable word in the time of Edmund Spenser. In the "Faerie Queen" the poet refers to a character who carried a "houze can." A similar form of the word occurs frequently in the Scotch of Robert Burns. There is no reason to suppose that a few authorities do, that the word "houze" is derived from the Turkish "buluk" which is applied in Scrin to sherbets and similar drinks. Nor is it probable, as sometimes stated, that the slang term is derived from the surname of a Philadelphia distiller named E. C. Booz, who about the middle of the Nineteenth century sold whiskey in bottles stamped, "E. C. Booz's Old Cabin Whisky." Exchange.

How Fern Lovers May

Protect Their Plants

There are few insects which trouble the indoor fern and these plants also are subject to few diseases, but when they are troubled no time should be lost in taking remedial steps.

The commonest fern enemy is scale on the stems and leaves. When thus infested the plants should be turned upside down, holding the soil and roots so that they cannot fall out of the pots, and dipped into a pail filled with a mixture of an ounce of nicotine solution and a half ounce of soap dissolved in water.

After dipping, the plants should be kept in the shade 24 hours. A weekly spraying with the same mixture is advisable as an extra treatment.

In case the scale has made much headway before you discover it, it will be well to remove entirely the most affected fronds before administering the prescribed treatment.

How Japan Educates Voters

Because about 60 per cent of the voters under the new municipal suffrage law failed to go to the polls at the last election, Japan will try to popularize the use of the franchise before the elections of 1928. The authorities do not believe the people are indifferent, but voting was prevented under certain circumstances. The government is negotiating with private factories to allow their employees to go to the polls. The social education bureau is putting emphasis upon citizen's education and spreading more knowledge about the exercise of voting. Speeches urging voting are being made during intermissions at motion picture and other theaters throughout Japan.