Anglican Leaders

Rebuked By Bishop

For Heresy Charge

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
London, Oct. 2.—Anglican leaders are in open conflict on the eve of the opening of the Anglican Church Congress at Ulsterham. Lord Halifax, on behalf of some 500 Anglican clergy, signed an open letter to the Bishop of Gloucester, president of the Congress, protesting against the election of Dr. H. D. A. Major, Bishop of Exeter, as a member of the Congress speakers' panel. Dr. Headlam, Bishop of Gloucester, rebuked the signatories, saying they had no authority to do so. He said the charge of heresy is a most serious one and declaring that it could not be substantiated by a careful examination of Dr. Major's writings.

Contrary to the assertions of his accusers, the Bishop said, he could find no evidence that Dr. Major does not really believe in the truth of the incarnation. Lord Halifax went specially to Cheltenham to reply to Dr. Headlam's letter. "Is it possible," he said, "for anyone who believes in the Church and its tradition to think for a single moment that either the Bishop of Birmingham or Dr. Major is a fit person to address a meeting of Christian people? It is a lamentable scandal that the Bishop of Birmingham should be included among the Anglican speakers' panel. It is a scandal that Dr. Major should be head of a college for training young candidates for ordination who had attacked Dr. Major, reminding them that the charge of heresy is a most serious one and declaring that it could not be substantiated by a careful examination of Dr. Major's writings."

Fr. Sasia's Volume On Ethics Finished On His Death Bed

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
San Jose, Cal., Oct. 12.—"Years ago I wondered why the Lord did not let me leave the world, for I was already weary and old. But now I know I was kept here to finish my task. It is done; I am ready to go." These were the words uttered last week by the Rev. Joseph C. Sasia, S. J., venerable author and educator. Last Sunday he died. But every word had been written, every sheet arranged in order, every citation from St. Thomas of Aquinas and the other great doctors of the Church had been duly set in order. His last work, a volume on "Ethics" was complete. Some months ago the aged Jesuit was brought from Santa Clara University to O'Connor Sanitarium, here. Eighty-five years old, his life was despaired of. Physicians agreed he would never leave the hospital. A crisis was passed and, one morning, Father Sasia astonished nurses by sitting up in his bed and directing that his writing materials be brought to him. For weeks, despite his intense suffering, he wrote daily. He regained strength to such an extent that, less than a month ago, he was permitted to return to the university. A relapse returned him to the sanitarium a week ago and the venerable priest completed his work on his death bed.

"And now the Lord will let me die," said the sinking priest as he wrote: "Finitis."
Father Sasia was born in Venasca, Italy, and came to California in 1869. He celebrated his golden jubilee in the Jesuit order in April 1927.

Missionary Society Founds New Schools

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
London, England, Oct. 19.—St. Joseph's Foreign Missionary Society, which recruits many of its members from Holland, has just opened a new preparatory college at Neeritter near Roermond, in the south of Holland, according to an announcement by the president. The society was founded by the late Cardinal Vaughan at Mill Hill, in the suburbs of London, and has now six preparatory colleges on the continent. The society also conducts missions in Borneo, New Zealand, India, Africa and the Philippines. It has a total of 221 priests engaged in missionary work, and the number of Baptisms during 1927 in the various fields entrusted to its care was 43,226.

May Construct Auto Road Up Mount Nebo

By Dr. Alexander Mombelli,
(Jerusalem Correspondent N. C. W. C. News Service).

Jerusalem, Oct. 1.—Following the first ascent of Mount Nebo by automobile, achieved recently by A. F. Futterer, of Edendale, Los Angeles, Calif., municipal authorities of Madaba have set on foot a plan to construct an automobile road to encourage tourists to visit the historic mountain. The Government will be asked to undertake the survey preliminary to actual construction work. It was in a grotto of this sacred mountain of Transjordan that Jeremiah concealed the Ark of the Covenant when the chosen people of God were obliged to abandon the land of their fathers and go as slaves under their oppressors. In the course of centuries numerous attempts have been made to discover the grotto of the Ark, but without success. Several unsuccessful expeditions have been conducted by Futterer, who has announced that he will return shortly to the United States with a view to organizing a greater expedition to Mount Nebo. He also plans to establish a Bible Widow's House in Palestine for the destitute aged.

Priest's Assailant To Get Sanity Test

Uniontown, Pa., Oct. 11.—Joseph Zlokowski, alias Walter Wilk, of Mount Braddock, Pa., is being held in the city jail here on charges growing out of an attack he made on the Rev. John Rokosz, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church here. An investigation is being made to determine the man's sanity. According to Father Rokosz, Wilk called upon him at St. Joseph's rectory last Thursday, gave his name as Joseph Zlokowski, and after making arrangements to have a Mass said for his family and giving Father Rokosz a two-dollar offering, he attacked the priest as the latter turned his back and was about to open his safe. Wilk threw a rope about Father Rokosz' neck and attempted to overpower him, but in the ensuing scuffle Father Rokosz dragged his assailant to a porch and succeeded in throwing him over his shoulders on to the sidewalk, Wilk striking on his head and in throwing him over his head and suffering a severe, extraordinarily large numbers acknowledge scalp wound. Special police took Wilk to a local hospital for treatment and turned him over to Uniontown authorities. Babe Ruth is the great home (run) man.

2 Jesuits Assigned To Manila Weather Observatory Posts

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
San Francisco, Oct. 12.—Father William C. Repetti, S. J., of Washington, D. C. and Father Paul Carasig, S. J., a native Filipino, have sailed from San Francisco to the Government Weather Bureau at Manila which is under the direction of the Jesuits there. Father Repetti was born in Washington, and received his early education at Gonzaga High School and College. He entered the Society of Jesus in 1907. He spent four years at Fordham University as professor of physics and aided materially in the development of the Fordham Selsmological Station.

Father Carasig was born in the Bulacan Province of the Philippines in 1892 and entered the Society of Jesus in 1910. While at Woodstock College he continued his studies in Higher Mathematics and after his Tertianship studied meteorology at Belen Observatory, Havana, and at Georgetown University, Washington D. C. The Manila Observatory was started in 1885 when Father Colina, S. J., gathered a few instruments in the tower of the Ateneo building. For several decades the Observatory has received government subsidies to cover expenses.

Fine Showing By Catholic Children In Essay Contest

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
New York, Oct. 19.—The showing made by pupils in Catholic schools of the Diocese of Brooklyn constituted the outstanding feature of the annual essay contest on fire prevention conducted by the Board of Fire Underwriters during Fire Prevention Week here. Four hundred and fifty children who wrote prize winning essays recently received their medals, gifts of the Board of Fire Underwriters, from Mayor James A. Walker, who made the distribution at the City Hall. Among the 153 prizes awarded to Brooklyn school children, eighty-six were won by pupils in Catholic schools. In Queens County, out of eighty-six prizes awarded, Catholic pupils won forty-six. Thus, although Catholic school children are in the minority in Queens County and Brooklyn, they were awarded more than half of the prizes.

Archbishop Glennon
Flays Attacks Made
On Catholic Church

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
St. Louis, Oct. 8.—A semi-persecution still exists in "some of the country districts where there are few Catholics," Archbishop John J. Glennon declared in his October sermon in St. Louis Cathedral yesterday. The Archbishop's topic was the similarity between the attacks made on the Church and those which had been made on the Father. He traced the persecutions of the Church through the ages and concluded: "There was a time when lying was regarded as a sin. Today it looks as if the ethics of modern life were taken from the famous saying 'Lie and lie boldly, and all will be well.' Owing to the glorious liberty of speech and the printing press, it appears you can label an institution like the Catholic Church, and so long as it is not an individual libeled you are not liable. I do not believe the Church really suffers much, however. Some of our best people today are those that have been led into the Church by its being libeled to death."
