Georgetown, Detroit Teams Score Great Victories on Gridiron
(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
Washington, Nov. 5.—The victories scored Saturday by the football teams of Georgetown University and the University of Detroit give promise of a game of surpassing interest on December 1, when the elevens of these two Catholic institutions of higher learning clash in Detroit. Georgetown's team, undefeated and the highest point scorer in the East, won the highly-touted New York University aggregation, 7 to 2, in one of the outstanding upsets of the day, while the Detroit eleven, overwhelming St. Louis University by the score of 38 to 0, ran up its string of consecutive victories to 12. The University of Detroit's eleven has not been defeated since early last season when it lost to Army and Notre Dame.
The teams of Boston College and Villanova, outstanding in Eastern collegiate circles, also continued undefeated, the former downing Manhattan, 60 to 6, and the latter conquering Bucknell, 20 to 6.
In the South, Loyola of New Orleans defeated St. Edward's 28 to 0, while in the Far West Santa Clara lost to the Olympic Club by the narrow margin of 18 to 20.

Three Daring Youngsters Fly 50,000 Miles For Thrilling Scenes in "The Air Circus"

By the time the trio of young players who played the leading roles in "The Air Circus," which plays at the Rochester Theatre the entire week of November 11th, had finished this production for Fox Films, they had travelled a distance equal to circling the globe four times. Which, in a manner of speaking, 50,000 miles means anything more than 50,000 miles. No one can ever get all wrapped up in mileage for its own sake. But in this case the distance traversed can be roughly translated into 50,000 thrills. And there, you'll admit, one has something.
For David Rollins, Sue Carol and Arthur Lake easily got that amount of stimulus out of it as they swooped and spun and careened over the aviation ground at Clover Field, Hollywood. Perhaps if they hadn't learned to fly themselves for this picture they wouldn't have had those delightful prickles up and down the spine.
The youngsters were so enchanted with this new game that they swore a great oath to buy their own planes as soon as they had finished standing on their heads for "The Air Circus."
Five great acts of vaudeville will supplement the feature for the week, with many additional features on the screen.

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
Manila, Oct. 29.—The Catholic Women's League of the Philippines will have its own recreation center and residence club for young women. Plans for the building have already been submitted to Msgr. O'Doherty, Archbishop of Manila, and the site selected is on Calle Florida, near the government university.
The League is planning a series of entertainments for raising the necessary funds, one of which is scheduled for November 8-11.
The proposed building will be three stories above the ground and will have a library, auditorium, bowling-alley and swimming pool. Club rooms and offices will be found on the second floor, but the third will serve as a hotel exclusively for women.

Dubuque Trappist Monks Celebrate 80th Anniversary

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
Dubuque, Ia., Nov. 1.—The eightieth anniversary of the coming of the Trappist monks to the archdiocese of Dubuque was celebrated Sunday, Oct. 28, with the blessing of the new guest house and enlarged chapel at New Mellary Abbey, twelve miles southwest of the city. A large gathering of clergy and laity attended the pontifical Mass sung by Bishop Rohlfman of Davenport.
Archbishop Keane of Dubuque in the course of the sermon paid eloquent tribute to the little band of fifteen who, at the urgent request of the saintly Loras, set out from Mt. Mellary, Ireland, in 1848 for the new foundation in the west. Six of their number never reached Dubuque, having died of cholera during the journey which was made entirely by water via New Orleans. It is noteworthy that the second bishop of Dubuque was a Trappist monk, Dr. Clement Smyth.
New Mellary has long been a place of pilgrimage and the new guest house will care for the priests and laity who come there throughout the year.

DISPUTE OVER FIRST SOLDIER KILLED IN WAR

Washington, Nov. 2.—The report from Evansville, Indiana, that the body of James Bethel Gresham, "the first American soldier killed in the World War," is to be given a special place of honor in a privately built mausoleum being erected there, has stirred a controversy in the secular press of several cities as to the identity of the first American soldier killed in action, and has led to appeals to the Bureau of Historical Records, N. C. W. C. here.
The Bureau, basing its stand on a signed statement by Secretary of War Davis, has replied to the inquiries by saying that Gresham was one of the first three American soldiers killed in front-line action, all presumably dying at the same time. The Secretary of War's statement on this point is as follows: "The first members of the combatant forces of the American Army to be killed in a front-line action during the World War were: Lance Corporal James B. Gresham, Private Thomas F. Enright and Private Merle D. Hay, all members of Company F, 16th Infantry. Those three men were killed on November 3, 1917, at practically the same time in the course of a German raid on trenches occupied by American soldiers at Bathelempont, France." Private Enright was a Catholic.
The Bureau's records show that that John I. Eppolucci, U. S. N., the first enlisted man to be killed in the World War, was a Catholic; that Lieut. Louis J. Genella of the Medical Corps, the first American soldier wounded in the World War, was a Catholic; that Lieut. William T. Fitzsimons, the first officer of the American Expeditionary Force killed, was a Catholic; that Sergeant Alex. Arch. who fired the first shot for the United States in the World War was a Catholic; that Lieut. William D. Meyerling, winner of the first Distinguished Service Cross awarded by the United States in the World War, was a Catholic, and that the Rev. William F. Davitt, a chaplain and the last officer killed in the American Expeditionary Force was a Catholic.

Purgatory Doctrine Primary Consolation, Says Card. O'Connell

Boston, Nov. 2.—On commemoration day of all the faithful departed, All Souls Day, Cardinal O'Connell sent out a pastoral letter setting forth the Catholic Doctrine on Purgatory, of which he said no greater consolation can answer the throbbing desires of humanity concerning the hereafter.
"Indeed," said the letter, "even the most benevolent teachings of unbelievers plunge us into freezing theories of despair concerning the lot of those who have gone before us into the vague beyond. They misunderstand one of the most consoling doctrines of the Church of Christ. They cannot explain, therefore, the great mystery of the future life; namely,—where do the souls of the just go to purge themselves of their imperfections which render them unworthy of immediate union with God?
"The doctrine of Purgatory is another manifestation of God's love for humanity, and of His great and tender mercy even for those who during life have offended Him but who, dying, at least came back to receive the pardon of His love."
"If we are content to forget those we loved we should have no right to complain when we, too, are utterly and entirely forgotten. Let, therefore, this holy month of November, dedicated to the poor, suffering souls, be observed by all of us with the tenderest feelings of devotion."

Rev. Thomas I. Cryan Dies At Georgetown

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—The Rev. Thomas I. Cryan, S. J., died at Georgetown University Hospital, Saturday night. Funeral services for Father Cryan, who at the time of his death was Superior of the Jesuit residence at Great Mills, Md., were held yesterday.
Father Cryan was born in London, England, in 1859. Brought to the United States in childhood, he was educated at Fordham University and was ordained on June 26, 1895.
His priestly career was evenly divided between college work and the ministry. He was a member of the faculty at Georgetown from 1899 to 1902 and at Fordham from 1904 to 1912. Three years were spent as Catholic Chaplain on Welfare Island.

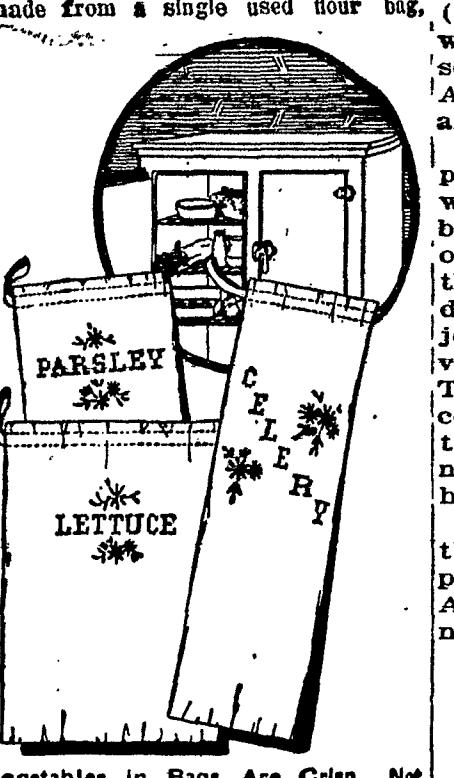

Leather Bag Is Smartest For Any Type of Costume

The leather bag is still the smartest bag for every type of costume. For town wear with the new tweed suits and ensembles of smooth-surfaced wools there are new pouch and envelope shapes in plain shoe, calf and suede. A perfection of their tailored lines is enhanced by the intrinsic beauty of the leather materials which may be in black or the unusual "mixed" browns as well as high shades like autumn blue, green or red. Novel fasteners sponsored by such eminent designers as Paton, Lanvin, Chanel and Lelong, lend fashion interest to these tailored bags. Then there are small bags of black, brown, tan and red, for more formal costumes and new evening bags in beautiful shades of antique suede. They exactly match the subtle tones of lovely frocks in lace, transparent velvet, chiffon, satin and moire.

Set of Vegetable Bags Made of Used Flour Bag

Salad materials such as lettuce, celery, parsley and radishes should be prepared for use as soon as they are received and then put in the ice box until ready for use. In this way, not only will they keep better, but they are crisp but not dripping wet when needed for the table.
After they have been allowed to freshen in cold water, cut away any withered leaves and imperfections and then place them in refrigerator bags on ice.

A complete set of these bags can be made from a single used flour bag.

Vegetables in Bags Are Crisp, Not Dripping Wet.

costing only a few cents at the local bakery. It makes an excellent gift for a bride's shower or a quick-selling item at a church or charity bazaar. In these instances, the bags may be decorated with some simple design or the name of the articles for which they are intended worked in cross-stitch.

First remove the stamping by larding the inked places or soaking them in kerosene overnight. Then wash the bag out in lukewarm water.

The lettuce bag measures 10 by 18 when completed, the celery bag 7 by 15, and the parsley or radish bag 7 by 10. Make the hem at the top deep enough to provide a casing for the tape.

New Tweed Serviceable; It Is Soft and Pliable

Do you realize just how good looking the new tweed is?
Many of us have memories of tweeds in days gone by as fabrics all very well for cold weather wear if you wanted something durable and substantial.

The new tweed is ideal. It is serviceable, because it is tweed, but it is soft and pliable and can be made in many different textures and colors and suits of the utmost charm.

Another thing about it—it is made in beautiful colors. Grays that are slightly softened with brown, browns that are cooled a little with gray, blues that suggest green, and greens that have an overtone of blue.

Lace Is Popular for Frocks and Trimmings

Lace is a notable fabric in the fashions not only for evening but also for formal afternoon frocks. In the latter case it takes on a tailored look. Worth showed in his collection ensembles consisting of short jacket and skirt of lace with georgette blouse. Both thread laces and silk laces are in favor and in addition to black, white and natural there is a vogue for the colored laces. Besides being used for the entire frock, lace recurs frequently as trimmings.

There are few of us who can believe that lace could be spoken of in terms of Jersey yet some of the smartest Jerseys for sports and daytime wear are very light and show in patterns that resemble tatted wheels, spiderwebs, fans and other lace designs. There is even a Jersey in a real macramé pattern. Rodier is responsible for a group of particularly lovely lace Jerseys.—Woman's Home Companion.

African Native Sisterhood Holds First Profession

Shire, Nyasaland, East Africa.—The foundation for a native sisterhood in the Shire Vicariate, known as the "Atumiki a Maria Woyera" (The Servants of the Holy Virgin) was laid some years ago. The first seven nuns pronounced their vows on August 15, after two years postulancy and two years novitiate.

The Christians, catechumens and pagans crowded into the church to witness the novel ceremony, unseen before in this section. The formation of this native sisterhood has affected them considerably, as it is unprecedented that any Nyasa girl should reject marriage. The new sisters will visit the sick and act as catechists. They are expected to deeply impress certain non-Catholic Europeans of the section who have looked upon the native population as incapable of higher life and sacrifice.

The Vicariate of Shire is under the care of the Fathers of the Company of Mary, with the Rt. Rev. L. Aungau as Bishop. The mission numbers some 26,000 Catholics.

Mission Establishes Five New Stations

It will be recalled that the Jesuit Fathers, in charge of the flourishing diocese of Mangalore, gave up this well-equipped field to the native clergy under a native Indian Bishop. These missionaries thereupon concentrated their forces on an undeveloped section, formed into the diocese of Calicut. Work here is progressing with encouraging results. The Bishop in charge, the Rt. Rev. P. Perini, S. J., writes as follows:

"Just now I am struggling hard to establish five new mission stations at places called Mananghat, Nilambur, Badagara, Manjeri and Talappoya where we have already secured a fairly good number of converts and where we expect more when these small stations will have a chapel and a room or two for the priest and catechist. The little money I had for this undertaking is exhausted. Please help me to put up one or two of these chapels for this promising mission which is still in its infancy."

Five hundred dollars will build such a mission chapel. What joy would come to the good Bishop if he could find sponsors for all five places?

Two Priests Named Athletic Directors

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 2.—The Rt. Rev. John J. McMahon, Bishop of Trenton, has announced the appointment of the Rev. Leo M. Cox of St. Mary's Cathedral and the Rev. Thomas I. Hannon of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament as directors of athletics among the Catholic high and grammar schools of this See. Father Cox will supervise athletics in the secondary schools, and Father Hannon in the elementary schools.

These appointments, it is said, place a new emphasis upon the athletic side of the activities of the schools of the diocese, and will lead to the information of diocesan football, baseball, handball, basketball and tennis leagues and track meets. Both of the priests charged with the direction of this work are graduates of Seton Hall College, where they were outstanding athletes.

Social Action Regional Meeting Places Announced

Washington, Nov. 2.—Wheeling, West Virginia, and Green Bay, Wisconsin, are to entertain two of the six important regional meetings to be conducted by the Catholic Conference on Industrial Problems during the next few months, the office of the Conference's secretary announced here today. It has already been announced that two of the meetings would be held in Hartford and San Francisco. Two cities are yet to be named.

The six regional meetings, planned in addition to the national meeting of the Conference and representing the most ambitious program of this sort the body has yet undertaken, are to be held in widely scattered sections where such meetings have not yet been held, or have not been held for a long time.

The Hartford regional meeting, the first of the six, will be held in December. The San Francisco meeting, the last of the group, will be held in June. The meeting at Wheeling will be held in February, while the Green Bay meetings is scheduled in March. The two meetings yet to be announced probably will be held in January and May.
