Authority To Forbid Wearing Of A Cassock Denied French Mayor

Paris, Jan. 28.—The Council of State has just decided that the mayor of a city does not under any circumstances have the right to prohibit the liberty of wearing a cassock.

or. The major, a socialist, issued a permanent authorization but on condition that the director must either stay out of the procession or doff his cassock. The priest appealed to the Council of State. The tribunal's decree reads: "In the first place, municipalities have not the right to restrain the liberty of circulation unless such is necessary for the maintenance of public order. In the second place, any condition limiting the freedom of wearing ecclesiastical dress is contrary to the freedom of worship proclaimed by the first article of the Law of 1905 on the separation of Churches and the State."
