Heflin Insists His Family Tree Is Non-Catholic

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—Senator Thomas J. Heflin feels certain that none of his ancestors were Catholics. The Alabama Senator bases that feeling chiefly upon the fact that his ancestors came from Scotland. The Senator gave voice to that feeling when he was shown a letter published in the Baltimore Sun, the writer of which asserted both Senator Heflin and Bishop James Cannon, Jr., came from a "long line of Catholic ancestry."
"I never heard of there being any Catholics in my family," Senator Heflin said. "My ancestors were English, Irish, Scottish and Huguenot. Being from Scotland doesn't sound very Catholic, does it?"
The Senator was reminded that there are many Catholics in Scotland. Nevertheless, the Senator said, all his forebears were Protestants—Baptists, Presbyterians or Methodists. He himself, he said, is a Methodist. The Irish strain in his grandfather, he said, was from the Presbyterian Irish of Ulster.

Portrayal Of Christ On Tokyo Stage Wins Interest Of Japanese

Tokyo, Japan, Feb. 11.—It is interesting to note the interpretation placed on the persons and facts connected with the life of Christ by Sato Koryoku, whose play about Christ has drawn hundreds of Japanese to the Imperial theatre night after night.
The Christ of Sato's play, as interpreted by the actor Sawada, maintains throughout an Oriental calm that differs from the Occidental conception of His character. Neither the emotion of pity when others suffer, nor of pain when He Himself suffers, appears on His face.
Sato has emphasized the human side of the Mother of Jesus. He portrays her as a devoted mother, wanting to keep her son for herself and unwilling to give Him for the redemption of the world.
His interpretation of Mary Magdalene also falls far short of the true character of the saint. He represents her as having a selfish, possessive love for Our Lord. Sato's portrayal of Judas gives proof of an attempt to excuse and idealize the betrayer of Our Lord.
At all events, the Christ portrayed by Sato and Sawada has appealed strongly to a great number of Japanese and has awakened in them a new interest in Christianity.

English Canon Lauds German Mission Work

By Rev. Dr. Wilhelm Baron von
(Cologne Correspondent, N. C. W. C. News Service).
Cologne, Feb. 11.—In addressing the Union of the Holy Childhood at a recent meeting in Cologne, Canon Hall, president of the London branch, said:
"During the war, the Catholics of London had great compassion for the German missionary priests and sisters. It was all the greater of all the more true because we had ever looked with admiration upon the work of the German priests and nuns in the mission fields. That is why, after the war, Cardinal Bourne did everything he could to place the expelled German religious in their former districts."
He added that the work accomplished by German children in the Union of the Holy Childhood had especially interested English Catholics and had been an inspiration to him in his work in London.

Scientific Marriage Theories Denounced By K. of C. Speaker

Lakeland, Fla., Feb. 15.—An attack on modern theories of scientific marriage was made by David Goldstein, representative of the national council of the Knights of Columbus, in a lecture just delivered at the municipal auditorium here. The subject of Mr. Goldstein's lecture was "What is Wrong With the Family?"
"The whole wrong lies in irreligion," he said. "Animalistic standards that disgrace family life are responsible for the increase in number of broken homes, and the moral fibre of America is being weakened by the tendency to accept modern theories too readily. There is nothing wrong with the origin, form or function of the family as it was designed originally."
The talk was sponsored by the Tampa chapter of the Knights of Columbus.

The thanks of the people for the works of the Jesuits was expressed in a cablegram addressed to the Superior of the Order at Rome.

Non-Catholic Backs Parochial Schools' Demand In England

London, Feb. 15.—A non-Catholic Member of Parliament, Sir Henry Slesser, supporting the Catholic demand for equality of treatment in the schools question, told a Catholic gathering at Leeds:
"It is now time that you should demonstrate that you are just as much an integral part of the community as anybody else."
"The Anglican Church does not yet realize that it is suffering under the same difficulty, but it will be soon compelled to do so."
"I am undoubtedly of the opinion that education without religion is valueless, and so long as I have the honor of being a member of Parliament I shall stand by the religious non-provided school."
The Archbishop of Liverpool, and the Bishops of Salford and Leeds were among the speakers at the meeting, held at the Leeds Town Hall. A resolution was passed demanding "equal educational facilities for all children, whether by disabilities on the ground of religion."

Prof. Soranzo has made a special study of the religious spirit of Ozanam in his private correspondence, his books and the appreciations of his contemporaries. He pictured the apostle of the Conferences of St. Vincent de Paul as a precursor of Catholic Action, independent of party strife.
