Mexican Police Raid Wedding, Arrest Priest

Mexico City, April 18 .- Informed that religious marriage ceremony was being held in a residence at No. 49 Mina Street, police entered the house and arrested the priest and the two contracting priests, according to an account of the raid published in El l'niversal. Most of those present to attend the nuptial ceremony escaped in the confusion attendant upon the police invasion of the home,

The priest, it was stated, was arrested on the double charge of offending against the Calles law of cults and of not having obeyed orders recently issued calling for the registration of addresses of all priests with the government.
