St. Andrew House Card Party Moved To Nurses' Home

The benefit card party for the new St. Andrew House, 46 Greig Street, announced to be held in that place on Friday evening this week, has been changed to the Nurses' Home at St. Mary's Hospital, because of the large demand for tickets. The St. Andrew House could not accommodate the crowd expected, and the Nurses' Home will be used instead. Prospective patrons who were unable to attend the party are reminded that the party was held for the benefit of the new home for non-resident students at St. Andrew's Preparatory Seminary. If they wish to help this worthy cause, checks may be sent to the Rev. Edward M. Lyons, director of the home. Any donation will be gratefully received, and will be put to good use for the boys and their welfare.

Recent Rochester Deaths

Beloved by Friends, Mrs. Ellen McInerney, Died at Age of Ninety

Mrs. Ellen McInerney of 16 Edgewood Park died at her home on Monday, and on Thursday morning her funeral was held in St. Peter & Paul's Church at 9 o'clock. There were many friends present at the funeral service, and sincere tribute was paid to this lovely lady by those who knew and appreciated her best.

Mrs. McInerney was born in Ireland 90 years ago, and came to America with her people when 16 years of age. She lived for a time in New York City, and had been a resident of Rochester for the past 42 years. Eucharistic Congress In 1930 in Carthage, Where Many Martyrs Died

Great Religious Spectacle Will be at Site of Ancient Amphitheater Where Thousands of Early Christians Shed Their Blood For Christ

Carthage, Sept. 6.—In a spot whose sacred sands were impregnated with Christian blood, on the site of the ancient amphitheater in this age-old city, will be held the final ceremony of the Eucharistic Congress of 1930, which meets in Carthage May 7 to 11, 1930.

Today, the amphitheater, where thousands gave their blood for Christ, has been disclosed. The prisons, where condemned were kept waiting, where Felicit's child was born; the subterranean cages whence the wild beasts were driven into the circus, all have been cleared of the masses of stone and solid earth with which they were encumbered.

All over the world Catholics who are planning to attend the Eucharistic Congress are eagerly seeking information of the wonders they will see. They know of the historical association.

Those who attend the Eucharistic Congress will find housing conditions at Carthage a problem. Most of them will have to take quarters in tents, some dozen miles away, but many will find their hotel accommodations aboard the ships which bring them to the ancient city.

It was here, on the African shore, the Dido, the Phoenician princess, received the pious Aeneas, whose departure plunged her into despair, sung for eternally by Virgil. Here, too, the epic story of the Punic wars, inspired by Gates immortal cry of Jingo.

Succession of Devastations
 Here, also was the primal church of Africa, of which St. Leo IX could say that for the number of its martyrs it was not second even to the church of Rome.

Carthage has piled ruins upon ruins and known a succession of devastation. The Romans took it from the Phoenicians; the Vandals from the Romans, who took it back.

Loyal Fox Terrier

A delightful little story of the faithfulness of a fox terrier is told in a Budapest (Hungary) newspaper. The little dog was a great friend of the little flower seller. One day he asked her from her place and nipped. The next day she was still absent. He rushed into the restaurant where he belonged and made such a disturbance that the waiters set to work to discover what it was all about. They made inquiries about the flower seller, and learned that she had been run over. A collection for her was made in the restaurant as a tribute to the dog. Perfectly true, says the newspaper.

An Arithmetic of 1649

In the Garcia library of the University of Texas is the oldest arithmetic in America. Upon touching its vellum covers and back skin things your memory may go back to that proud but unwelcomed day when your own schooling arrived at the portal page of "Fractions." With awe one discovers that pupils of 1649 had to wade through seven chapters of mathematical quicksands. The pioneers evidently desired to obtain strength of mind in their children for it was a stern age. Another chapter was devoted to the formation of military companies in squares, hexagonal units and other strange geometrical forms. Otherwise the book shows pupils struggled with the same problems that perplex modern youngsters.
