seminaries in which young men are being trained for the priesthood. September has also been the traditional month for the annual collection throughout the diocese for the support of the seminaries. From the very beginning the system of free-will offerings was established by the first Bishop of the diocese, and all during these years the faithful have, through their generosity, made it possible to conduct these two ecclesiastical institutions according to the highest standards of the Church.

"The purpose of ecclesiastical seminaries is to train young men who have been called by God in a special vocation to the priestly life, and thus to prepare them for the important duties of the care of souls. It is not necessary here to dwell on the high and holy office of the priesthood in the Church of Jesus Christ, because our faithful Catholic people know only to well what it means to select young boys from good Catholic homes, to prepare them by years of instruction and discipline for their sacred duties, and at last to elevate them to the sublime dignity of other Christs. Thanks be to God, in our day there is no shortage of vocations; rather is there a surplus of them, so that all the seminaries of the Church in this country are practically filled to the doors.

St. Andrew's Seminary

"In our own diocese, there is a registration for the present year of 155 boys in St. Andrew's Preparatory Seminary, a number which exceeds anything that we know of in the past history of this institution, now over 50 years in existence. These boys come to us from all parts of the diocese, with the recommendations of their parish priests and the proper credentials of scholarship. t is our duty to care for them by proper housing, and by a competent staff of professors. Accordingly during the past two months we have, as it were, reorganized the St. Andrew's staff of professors, something which was made necessary by the promotion of two of our devoted priests and professors to parish work. Rev. Joseph V. Curtin, after 16 years of faithful service, has been appointed pastor of St. John's Church, Clyde, N. Y., and Rev. Charles F. Riefer, after 14 years, has been made pastor of Sacred Heart Church, Perkinsville, N. Y. To these two zealous and devoted professor-priests we wish publicly to pay our tribute of esteem and affection, and our full appreciation for so many years of devoted and unselfish service in behalf of the boys at St. Andrew's in their preparation for the priesthood.

Tribute to Msgr. Nolan

"With the beginning of this term, the Right Reverend Monsignor Michael J. Nolan, D.D., now president of St. Andrew's for 25 years, and associated with it for thirty-four years, has asked to be relieved from the presidency and from the position of professor in order that he may do the work of a Spiritual Director for this large group of boys. In creating this position, the Bishop feels that he is doing what is required by Canon Law for the higher seminary, and what is entirely in keeping with the mind of the Church for the preparatory seminary, and what God alone knows what fruits will be realized from such intimate contact with the spiritual lives of this small army of boys, especially when we know that Monsignor Nolan has had their love, confidence, respect and affection for all these years! We permit him to retire from the presidency only with the greatest reluctance and regret, and in this the Bishop feels that he is only expressing the mind of the great body of clergy of the diocese who have been trained under him. We wish him Godspeed in his new position, and we trust that his efforts will be rewarded even more abundantly than the splendid results which he has accomplished in the past in behalf of the diocesan clergy.

The New President

"The new president of St. Andrew's Seminary is the Reverend Francis Luddy, a Rochester boy, trained in our seminaries, and a professor now for 10 years at St. Andrew's. Father Luddy comes into this new position with youth and health and strength, and with an experience and vision which will be most vauable to him in directing the policies of this important diocesan institution. We welcome him, and we feel that he will have the prayers, the good wishes, and the cooperation of all the priests and people of the diocese in conducting St. Andrew's Seminary to even greater accomplishments in the future than in the past, if that were possible.

Tribute to Prof. Bonn

"We have added to the staff of teachers the following priests: Reverend Edward Lyons, Prefect of Discipline; Reverend Howard Geck, Reverend Henry Manley and Reverend Gerald Lambert, as full-time professors. Reverend Benedict Ehmann, assistant at St. Patrick's Cathedral, has been appointed professor of Plain Chant. He will succeed Professor Eugene F. Bonn, the grand old man, who has served these students as he has also served our Cathedral Church now for more than 40 years. May God bless, protect, and keep him with us as Cathedral organist and choir director for many years, is the fervent prayer and wish of Bishop, priests, students and people!

"We feel that this corps of professors will be able to maintain the high standard of scholarship which has been characteristic of our preparatory seminary, and also to broaden somewhat its course of studies for the benefit of the student body.

"In order to meet the urgent needs of housing th large registration of students from the city of Rochester and the outlying districts of the diocese, the St. Andrew's Seminary building has undergone considerable remodeling during the summer months, with the creation of several new classrooms and an office, at the same time the library and assembly hall facilities of former years being retained.

The St. Andrew House

"To accommodate the boys from outside the city of Rochester, a St. Andrew House has been opened at 46 Greig Street which will offer the advantages of home life to all those students who are obliged to leave their own homes in various parts of the diocese to attend this preparatory school. They will have at the St. Andrew House a spiritual director, Father Lyons, the Prefect of Discipline, and will also have the advantages of a chapel with daily Mass and the presence of the Blessed Sacrament.

"Naturally this program will entail considerable expense upon our faithful Catholic contributors to the seminaries; but so hearty and generous have been the responses from priests and people thus far with donations of every kind that we feel confident that all current expenses during the year will be fully met in maintaining the House. We ask our people, therefore, to keep in mind this new provision for our Catholic boys who are blessed with vocations, and to make their offerings more generous as an expression of their approval of what the Bishop and his counsellors are doing in developing vocations for the priesthood.

"Furthermore, we ask the careful supervision of parents over these students, and a hearty co-operation with the Faculty in carrying out the rules of St. Andrew's in protecting our boys from the spirit of worldliness.

"Lastly, we are glad to say that we are sending this year 16 graduates from St. Andrew's to St. Bernard's to enter the course of Philosophy and begin their ecclesiastical life in the higher seminary."

Nazareth Girls Are Enjoying New Gym Course

Nazareth Academy is fortunate this year in having secured the services of Mrs. Roy V. Benson to take charge of the Physical Education Department of the school. Class assignments are being made for Gym work, and a complete schedule of classes is being mapped out. The Nazareth girls are entering into the spirit of the work with great zest, and all of them are delighted by the capable and efficient way in which Mrs. Benson is handling the work.

It is believed that the new course mapped out by Mrs. Benson will be most hepful to the girls, and that all of them will continue to show the same enthusiasm for the classes that was evident at the beginning of the work.

A Large Registration

Nazareth Academy has a registration thus far this year of 1,030 students in the grammar and High School departments. Registrations are being received for the Nazareth Conservatory of Music, and the indications are that this will be another banner year for Nazareth, its students and its teachers.

Helpful Classes Are Taught Here By Capable Men

A city the size of Rochester is fortunate in having a University, but even more fortunate is the privilege of a University which provides through its Extension Division an opportunity for evening classes in cultural and practical business subjects.

Among the business courses offered for the fall term, opening on September 23, the Extension Catalogue lists: Industrial Engineering, Effective Expression, Advertising, Business Law, Corporation Finance and Investments.

The Effective Expression course is taught by Ralph Barstow, Vice President of Chas. Lyman, Inc., and President of the Rochester Ad Club. This course offers far-reaching opportunities to men and women who seek to broaden their usefulness in many fields of endeavor. Effective Expression is not a course in public speaking but an attempt to put the student in possession of those faculties of voice, tone, speech, articulation, expression, characterization and gesture which will enhance and increase his effectiveness in business.

Mr. Barstow presents the subject in a most interesting manner. A masterpiece of modern plays is selected, and each student assigned a reading part. The student soon is unafraid to face an audience, and by application becomes proficient in mastering the mechanics of proper speaking. Eventually, those most proficient for the adaptations of a selected play memorize their parts and the class becomes a "little theater". Last year two public performances were given by the students and several broadcasts presented over local stations. Effective Expression covers twenty sessions of an hour and a half on each Monday night from 7:30 to 9. Registration commenced on Monday, September 16.

Frank R. Otte Teacher Advertising

The Advertising Course is given by Frank R. Otte, Advertising Manager of Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Company. The course covers all the broad fundamentals of modern commercial publicity including such lectures as: The History of Advertising, Type and Typography, The Mechanics of Copyrighting, The Psychology of Advertising Appeals, Layout and Design, Mechanics of Printing, Advertising, Illustration and Engraving Reproductions, Display Advertising, Window Display and Store Lighting, Agency Analysis of Product, Prospect and National Campaigns, Direct Mail Advertising, Radio Advertising, Fashion as a Factor in Modern Advertising, Color in Advertising, Motion Picture Advertising, Outdoor Advertising, and Radio Advertising. Guest lecturers are also obtained. Last year such prominent men as Robert Disque, production manager for all the Gannet newspapers, and Carl Gibson, vice-president of the Standard Corporation, Chicago, Ill., were procured.

Mr. Otte's brond experience in commercial publicity, business writing, and seven years of teaching these subjects amply qualifies him to handle his presentations in a most practical manner. The practical application of merchandising, rather than theory, receives the greater emphasis. The students are given every-day problems to give them an insight into this great field of business endeavor—one which annually spends $400,000,000 in the effort to sell merchandise or service by the printed message.

Considerable attention is given to all phases of copywriting, and the class is assisted to produce display advertising, as well as in the writing of circulars, signs and general publicity.

The Advertising Course, open to both men and women, is one for the beginner as well as for the advanced student. To many in the past it has revealed a new life work in a business venture which offers unparalled opportunities for an ever-expanding future.

This course comprises thirty sessions, beginning September 23 and closing the middle of May, and meets each Tuesday evening from 7:30 to 9 P. M.

More complete details of these courses can be obtained by phoning the Extension Division, University of Rochester, Monroe 3410.

Black Ants Valuable to Worry Coco Louse

"Without Black Ants No Coco" reads a sign posted at the entrance of a great plantation in central Java.

It does not go unheeded, for the natives hand in some four million nests of these little creatures every year, and receive payment in return. These black ants live only upon trees infested by the white coco louse.

Neither the louse nor the ants injure the trees. The real enemy is a certain beetle whose name is Helopeltis, which also attacks the tea plant. It has been found that when the black ants are present the Helopeltis fails to injure the trees. Apparently this sap-sucking pest is disturbed by the activity of the ants, for the latter do not attack the beetle.

This is why the black ants are protected. Food is provided for them by picking the white coco lice from the shells of the fruit, where they congregate, and placing them on the coco trees to attract the ants and disturb the beetles.

Thought Stars New Each Day

Metrodorus of Chios (not to be confused with the four other Grecian philosophers of the same name) was a complete skeptic. He accepted the Democritian theory of atoms and void and also believed in a plurality of worlds, but he had a very ingenious theory of his own by which he staunchly stood. He declared the stars were formed from day to day by the moisture in the air under the heat of the sun. His radical skepticism also is seen in one of his writings quoted by Cicero: "We know nothing, no, not even whether we know or not!" His theory about the stars drew a lot of contemptuous criticism but he came back at his critics with, "Everything is to each person only what it appears to him to be."

Among the Best Sellers

On the shelves of book stores in Paris, the New Testament, bound in paper covers is to be found. Its price is the same as that of any paper-covered novel—fifteen francs. There is no preface and the matter is not arranged in texts, but is printed solid.

Cross heads give it a modern appearance and guide the reader through the Gospel. A table of contents arranged like the contents of a novel, ends the work.

Public Confidence In Church

"Is it a wonder, then, that public confidence in the Catholic Church exists one hundred per cent in the eyes of business and industrial life in every city of the world? No failure of a Catholic Church or Catholic project financially has ever been accounted in all these years since the Diocese of Rochester was first established, in uly, 1868. Today our holdings run into the millions. These have all been built up through the sacrifice of the great mass of the middle classes of people and of the poor.

"Surely the prediction of the Saviour Himself is being realized, Who compared the growth of the Church to the grain of mustard seed which becomes eventually the mighty tree.

Rochester's Newest Church

"The latest church of Rochester dedicated to St. Margaret Mary, has been started under the most humble beginnings, but like all the others, it will grow rapidly and will become strong and a representative parish in a few years. It is here in response to the express wishes of a large group of people, and we wish them to know that it is a great pleasure for the Bishop to grant their request and officiate today in dedicating this latest House of God in our beautiful city.

"We congratulate Reverend Father Bruton, the pastor, and the people on the rapidity with which they have erected this church in the past few weeks, and we wish them Godspeed in their efforts in the future. They will have the protection and patronage of this great saint of God, Margaret Mary, the Apostle of the devotion to the Sacred Heart."
