Weekly Calendar

Sunday, November 3.—St. Hubert, Bishop, in his early youth was passionately devoted to hunting. Moved by divine grace he renounced the world and was ordained by St. Lambert, Bishop of Maestricht. When the latter was murdered in 631, St. Hubert was chosen to succeed him. He preached the Gospel in the remote places of Ardennes and God blessed him with the gift of miracles. He died, May 30, 727.

Monday, November 4.—St. Charles Borromeo, in 1560 Charles Borromeo, then twenty-two years old, was created a Cardinal and assisted his uncle Pius IV to administer the affairs of the Holy See. He was largely responsible for the success of the Council of Trent and for the administration of the council's decrees. As Archbishop of Milan he remained in the city throughout the great plague, in constant attendance on the sick and dying.

Tuesday, November 5.—St. Benedict, abbot, in her early youth learned to despise the world and wished to live it up. She entered the convent of Jouarre where she became noted for her extreme humility and was chosen prioress. About the year 646 she was appointed first abbess of the abbey of Chelles, which she governed for 43 years with vigor and discretion. She died in 692.

Wednesday, November 6.—St. Leonard, one of the officials of the Court of Clovis, was so moved by the example of St. Remigius that he relinquished the world in order to lead a more perfect life. He became the apostle of such of the Franks as were still pagan and later withdrew into solitude in order to avoid being summoned to court because of his reputation for sanctity. He undertook the work of comforting prisoners, making them understand that the captivity of sin is more terrible than mere bodily restraint. He died about 560.

Thursday, November 7.—St. Willibrod was born in Northumberland, A. D. 657, and when twenty years old went to Ireland to study under St. Eugene. Two years later, after going to Rome and receiving the blessing of the Pope he reached Utrecht and began to preach the gospel to the pagan tribes. At the request of Pepin Heristal he went again to Rome and was consecrated Archbishop of Utrecht. He labored as a bishop for fifty years converting thousands, building many churches and having the gift of miracles.

Friday, November 8.—The Feast of Holy Relics. Protestantism regards the veneration which the Church pays to the relics of the saints as a sin and contends that this pious practice is a remnant of paganism. The Council of Trent, on the contrary, has decided that the bodies of the martyrs and other saints who were living members of the Church are to be honored by the faithful.

Saturday, November 9.—St. Theodore Tyro, martyr, in his youth was enrolled in the imperial army. He refused to obey an order of the Emperor that all Christians should offer sacrifice. When his commander tried to win him with sentences and allowed him to remain at liberty he set fire to the great Temple of Isis and made no secret of his act. After cruel torture he was condemned to be burned to death. As the flames rose a Christian saw the soul of the martyr rise like a flash of light to heaven.

Slovak Banker New Head of Federation

Youngstown, Nov. 1.—Joseph Husek, Middletown, Pa., was elected president of the Federated Slovak Societies at the annual convention which ended here Friday. Mr. Husek, who is editor of the Slovak paper Jednota, succeeds Michael Bosak, a banker of Scranton, Pa. The convention was in session two days. The Catholic Educational Institute, one of the departments of the federation, recommended that the federation continue in its efforts to reach the $500,000 goal set two years ago for the educational program of the organization. A total of $263,159 has been received.

A resolution of commendation to Pope Pius Friday and another resolution expressing gratitude to Bishop Schombas of Cleveland, also was adopted. Bishop Schombas was lauded for his interest in the Slovak people. It was made in his paying the Slovak Benedictine priests and of the Slovak Order of Sisters into the cause. The Benedictines have been here several years and the Sisters came a year and a half ago.

DIOCESAN SCHOOLS HOLD HEALTH EDUCATION INSTITUTE ON OCT. 26TH AND NOV. 2D

Final Session on Saturday Forenoon This Week, with Interesting Talks by Experienced Health Educators—An Important Work

An important forward movement in the work of the schools of the Diocese of Rochester was the holding of a Health Education Institute in two sessions at Aquinas Institute—the first session on last Saturday, October 26, and the final session on this Saturday, November 2d. The institute was sponsored by the Tuberculosis & Health Association of Rochester and Monroe County, Inc., and this association brought to Rochester a nationally-known health educator, Miss Mary E. Spencer, formerly with the National Catholic Welfare Conference, to talk at the sessions and to meet with and assist the Sisters in the various schools in developing health work in the schools.

More than 400 Sisters attended the first session of the institute, and it was expected there would be a larger number at the second session. They came from all Catholic schools of the city, and from a number of schools outside of the city. The committee in charge of the institute was composed of the Rt. Rev. John Francis O'Hern, D. D., Bishop of Rochester, as Honorary Chairman; Rev. John M. Duffy, Diocesan Superintendent of Catholic Schools; Joseph P. MacSweeney, Vice-President, Tuberculosis & Health Association; Dr. Walter A. Callhan, Vice-President, Medical Society, County of Monroe.

Father Duffy presided at both sessions. The program for the first session follows: Invocation. The Rt. Rev. John Francis O'Hern, D. D.; "The Teachers Role in the Promotion of Public Health," Walter A. Callhan, M. D.; "Health Education from the Religious Point of View," Mary E. Spencer, M. A.; "Teaching Health to School Children," Herman J. Norton; Demonstration, "Individual Daily Morning Health Inspection," "Standards for Judging Well Children," A. D. Kaiser, M. D.

For Saturday, Nov. 2d The program for Saturday, Nov. 2, follows: Invocation. The Rt. Rev. John Francis O'Hern, D. D.; "Greetings from State Education Department," Frederick Rand Rogers, Ph.D., Director of Division of Health and Physical Education; "Health Behavior of School Children," Marion Lerrico McWilliams, Ph.D.; "Motivation in Health Habit Education," Mary E. Spencer, M. A.; "Health Teaching Devices," Ethel A. Grosscup.

Purpose of Institute In announcing the purpose of the Institute Father Duffy said: "The subject of health education is a matter of great importance. With the gradual development of the work in health education, there has developed a widespread demand for more definite and constructive help for the teaching of hygiene. Child training should be carried on through the home, but conditions often make this impossible. The school therefore, must assume a reasonable measure of responsibility in the matter. No more important opportunity has ever been offered in the field of education. Incidental instruction given by an expert to school children, however valuable it may be, is not the kind of teaching the school administrator has in mind when he speaks of health teaching. He means periodic daily instruction by the class room teacher as "health teacher" and as part of the established curriculum including training in health habits and attitudes and instruction in health facts. "We are indeed grateful to the Tuberculosis and Health Association, through its Health Education Committee of which Mr. Joseph MacSweeney is Chairman, in making possible this Institute and providing the services of a health education counselor to meet with and assist teachers in health teaching problems, and in supplying supplementary teaching material and devices. The Association has co-operated in our parish schools as a regular part of its service program, and the program now being developed aims to assist in teacher training, which, after all, is the most fundamental part of any organized school program. We feel especially fortunate in having secured the services of Miss Spencer who is a recognized authority throughout the county in matters of health education, and who can bring to us the benefit of her specialized knowledge and experience."

Will Outline Health Work "Miss Spencer will remain in Rochester for a time for the purpose of visiting the schools, conferring with the principals, and making certain recommendations regarding the teaching of health to school children. Miss Spencer who is a health specialist and member of the Department of Superintendents of the National Catholic Educational Association, is especially qualified to be of assistance to our schools, having had practical as well as teacher training service with the National Catholic Welfare Conference, and served as instructor in health and education in the Catholic University in Washington. She is the winner of the first American Child Health Association Fellowship, and has just returned from a conference of the World Federation of Education at Geneva, Switzerland. In addition to serving as Research Assistant to Dr. Thomas E. Wood of Columbia University, she is a staff writer for the National Catholic Welfare News Service, serving Catholic papers throughout the country. She has been active in Diocesan Institutes in Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville, Providence, Brooklyn, Syracuse, Denver, Newark, and has made surveys in Hartford and Newark."

The Novena That Brings Results

This is probably true of all Novenas, but it is most certainly true of the Graymoor Novena to St. Anthony. Ten thousand clients of the Wonder Worker of Padua have written letters to testify to this effect. These letters of testimonials continue to pour in by every mail from all parts of the United States and Canada. Not a day passes that does not bring to St. Anthony's Shrine on the Mount of the Atonement testimonials such as the following:

M. D., Oak Terrace, Minn.: "My sister, while riding on a street car, lost a sum of money. I asked St. Anthony to help us find it. The motorman picked it up and returned it in the office, so it was returned to my sister the next day. I am enclosing an offering in thanksgiving."

P. G., Chicago, Ill.: "I promised a donation if Saint Anthony would find me more work when the job on which I was working was finished. The work was completed on the thirteenth of the month, and on the fourteenth I obtained work with another contractor. Many thanks to Saint Anthony for his help."

W. J. C., La Crosse, Wis.: "I wrote you some time ago asking you to pray to St. Anthony to intercede that I be restored to health. I am now able to do hard work and my recovery seems like a miracle. I am enclosing a thank offering and ask you to pray that I may continue in good health."

Mrs. J. F., Penn.: "My husband was eager to make a change in his work and another position was open but two other men were entitled to bid for it before my husband. I started a Novena and promised Saint Anthony an offering for his poor if my husband obtained the position. Thanks to the good Saint my prayers were answered on the seventh day of the Novena."

K. A. B., Cambridge, Mass.: "About one month ago I sent a telegram asking you to pray for my nephew who was ill, and for whom all hopes of recovery had been given up. The day you started the Novena there was a change for the better and in three days such a remarkable gain that the doctors could not understand it. Please publish this in 'The Lamp.'"

E. Y., New York City: "I wrote this morning asking your prayers that an important file of papers be found and I have just found them. I felt sure that as soon as I put my trust in Saint Anthony my prayers would be answered."

A new Novena to St. Anthony at Graymoor begins on every Tuesday. Petitions to be prayed for in this Novena should be addressed to

New Britain Proves Fertile Soil For Missionaries' Labors

Antipodes Gradually Converted by Missionaries of the Sacred Heart

"Send us more missionaries," reads an urgent message from Raboul, New Britain, Australia, and we shall now and then receive the greatest number of missionaries in so pitifully small that the enormous field can be but partly covered."

Not only New Britain, but also China and many other missionary centers are suffering from an acute shortage of field workers.

For the layman and particularly the American layman who is accustomed to a favorable climate, good transportation and the protection of the law, it is hard to realize what it means to cover vast stretches of treeless forests, deserts or swamps, made unsafe by wild animals and poisonous reptiles, and often harassed by unfriendly or hostile tribes. Distances which we easily cover for social calls and friends become journeys full of hardship and dangers.

Yet the missionaries set out on their errands joyfully, for the reward is sweet. A soul, a single soul, wrested for our divine Lord and Master, the seed of Christianity sown in other pagan hearts turns physical hardships into spiritual joys.

"Go, teach All Nations," saith the Lord, and this mission command has been heard by many young men, who are anxious to devote their lives and labors to missionary work. They know the hardships, dangers and discomforts awaiting them in the tropics, but they are nevertheless eager to serve Jesus as He wishes to be served.

Yet missionaries must be prepared for their duties. Like soldiers they cannot be sent into the field without training, and they receive their education at the Sacred Heart Apostolic School at Geneva.

This "training camp" has become too small for the many vocations in
