Auburn, Nov. 22.—The Community Chest Campaign which obtained about 90 per cent of its quota in the campaign last week, received an unsolicited check from Rt. Rev. John Francis O'Hern, D.D., Bishop of Rochester. With his check, Bishop O'Hern sent the following letter to Ralph H. Stahl, executive secretary of the Chest:

"Dear Mr. Stahl:

"Following up my letter of October 21, and knowing that your Community Chest campaign will close on next Monday night, November 18, may I offer, unhesitatingly, a modest donation towards this community work for the city of Auburn which is so dear to me.

"I sincerely trust that you may go over the top on your closing night, and hereby authorize me to use my small contribution and name in furthering the cause as you may see fit.

"Again wishing you a 100 per cent success on next Monday night, and assuring you and the people of Auburn of my most cordial sentiments of respect and esteem, I remain,

CORNING

Lively Comedy Well Presented By Church Club

Corning, Nov. 22.—Last week on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, the Dramatic Club of St. Patrick's Church presented "Her Step-Husband" to large audiences. The comedy was directed by Albert M. Lynch, who for several years has given his talents and skill to this work in which he has been remarkably successful. This club was formed several years ago to give recreation to the parish by presenting plays, and it has had unusual success since the patrons of its plays come from even outside the city.

They have been working for some time to raise funds to pay for the pews in the new church when it will be started and already have a good sum in the bank.

The comedy was well rendered, and the continuous laughter from the audience showed that it was enjoyed and appreciated. All members of the cast took their parts in a way that left nothing to be desired, and for the time they simply lived its characters, they interested. The parish is proud of them and of their work, which has been so well done.

An orchestra directed by Mrs. Joseph Collins added greatly to the enjoyment of those who attended.

The following is the program as rendered:

Harvey P. Marshall, Mary's permanent husband, William Combe; Dr. Gerald Niles (Dr. J. J. O'Hern's husband pro tem, Fred Connors); Limpy Lantian, an ex-convict, Albert M. Lynch; Officer Shay, the good-natured cop, James H. Danaher; Mary Marshall, an incurable romanticist, Margaret Deagan; Sylvia Allen, Mary's next door neighbor who lends things, Ruth McMahon; Miss Emily Paslay (Aunt Emmy) her aunt, Genevieve McClure; Florence Ahalee, her cousin, Isabelle Hill; Stella, the maid, Margaret Young.

Orchestra directed by Mrs. Joseph Collins, pianist; violins, Fred Bellman, Alvin Aker; banjo, Francis Griffin; cornet, Bernard Saunders; drums, Edward Fitzgerald; make-up artist, Richard Cook; ticket committee, Charles Finner, John Hill, Thomas Aney; hall committee, Joseph Nesle, John McKeown, George Veldi, Arthur Kramer, Gerald Reagan. Stage furniture loaned by Harry A. Miller.

DANSVILLE

Edward Maloney, Postmaster and Leading Citizen

Dansville, Nov. 22.—Several hundred people attended the funeral in St. Patrick's Church on Wednesday morning of Edward H. Maloney, postmaster of Dansville for the past seven years, and one of the foremost citizens of the community. It was one of the largest funerals ever held in Dansville.

Mr. Maloney died suddenly on Sunday after an illness of only two weeks. He was taken ill on election day, but his condition showed improvement for a few days before his death. A turn for the worse came suddenly, and his death was a shock to his family and friends.

Mr. Maloney had taken an active interest in politics here all his life. He was an enthusiastic worker for the Republican party. On May 8, 1922, he was appointed Postmaster by the late President Warren G. Harding and was reappointed by President Coolidge in 1928. He had served as a member of the Village Board of Trustees for two terms and for several years was a member of the Board of Education. He was a member of the Board of Trade, member of Dansville Council, Knights of Columbus, Rotary Club, Union Home Company, Dansville Grange and Kanawha Tribe of Red Men.

Mr. Maloney had been engaged in the nursery business practically all of his life and was the owner of seven farms which he operated in conjunction with the nursery business. He was one of the first men in this section to raise registered cattle. Mr. Maloney leaves his widow, Clara Oliver Maloney; one son, Arthur; three brothers, William J. Albert E. John J. Maloney, and two sisters, Mrs. D. J. McCarthy and Mrs. Garfield Howe, all of this village. His death will be sincerely mourned by many friends.

central organization which stands for Charity, Fraternity and Patriotism. In your fraternal, as in your civic and domestic life, you have an opportunity to express the real spirit of the true Knight of Columbus, which is ever a Christian and not a selfish one. Your organization, through this Columbus building, is serving the men, women and children of Rochester in a way that must make for better citizenship and for higher standards in civic life.

"Therefore, your first consideration should be not what you are getting out of the order as a member, but rather what you are putting into it in the way of service for your fellow man. Consequently your first thought should be the desire of doing something for others rather than for yourself alone. For when you are serving others you are serving yourselves in the best possible manner.

"Prayers Columbus Building

"This Columbus Building, through its Administrative officers, is serving thousands of Rochester's present and future citizens, and there is not a day that goes by when it is not alive with the laughter of children, the joy of grown-ups, and with the earnest endeavor of lifting the citizenship of Rochester to a higher plane. Here all comers will find themselves in wholesome and uplifting environment, all made possible by the splendid spirit of our Rochester citizens, Catholic and non-Catholic, who have provided such a civic and social center to fill the needs of the day and age in which we are living.

"Take an active interest in your Council, and assist your officers to carry out their program of welfare for the benefit of the public common good. This building was not made possible by a handful of Catholic Knights, but by the great masses of our Rochester citizens who take a veritable pride in what is being accomplished here, and who are willing to work unceasingly to make it one of the greatest community centers in our beloved country.

At the Cost of Sacrifice

"In going to the altar calling this morning in your respective churches you have fulfilled your obligation to God and to your parish; in coming here you are showing your deep interest in the Knights of Columbus organization of which you are members, and which you stand ready to encourage and to sponsor even at the cost of sacrifice.

"Go out from here today determined that in your own personal life you will be worthy of the high citizenship which is expected of you individually and try to interest other men in joining with you in this glorious civic and fraternal movement. Your officers are men inspired with the true spirit of Columbus, and they ask you to take the same active interest in the welfare of your order that they are manifesting day in and day out. Become a salesman of this splendid cause of civic uplift and fraternal unity, and let the world know that we of Rochester appreciate our opportunities in possessing such a building as this, and that we are going to support it to the best of our endeavor.

New Chaplain Named

"So interested in your future development, in this building and the service it is giving to the community, that he has assigned one of the most distinguished professor-priests of the Diocese to the post of chaplain in the Council—the Rev. Dr. William E. Cowen, professor in St. Bernard's Seminary.

"Dr. Cowen, notwithstanding his many and onerous duties as prefect of studies and professor in our Diocesan seminary, has gladly signified his willingness to serve you, and will give the best that he has in him to planning the future program of social service for this important group of Rochester's citizens. And I know that you will be glad to give him earnest and whole-hearted cooperation in the matter, so that the Rochester Council of the Knights of Columbus may grow to even greater proportions, and may fill its God-given place among religious, fraternal and social agencies in our beautiful city in developing a better type of citizenship, and in bringing to thousands of fellow citizens the opportunity to meet and enjoy the wholesome and legitimate recreation with the uplifting educational influences surrounding them, to be happier men, women and children. Thus you will serve your country in times of peace, as you served her in time of war."

Great Crowds Daily Visit Grave of Priest In Malden Cemetery

Springfield, Mass. In 1889 the young priest died of pneumonia. He then was buried in the Malden cemetery, where are the graves of about 100 other priests, and several other members of the Power family.

The priest, his relative explained, was one of a long line of clergyman. Mr. Power and other relatives first noticed a peculiarity about the grave of Father Power, he said, when it was seen that grass on it remained green regardless of the season or other conditions in the cemetery.

In the possession of Mr. Power are two handwritten books, in French, which were composed by the priest. One is devoted to theology and the other is a treatise on mathematics.

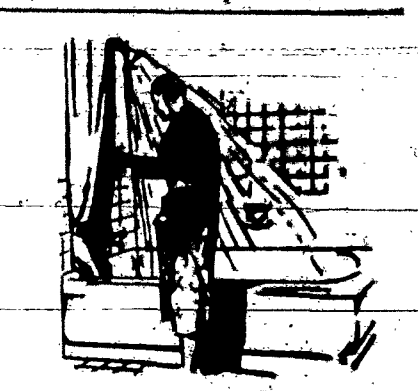

Among the other known relatives of the priest in New England are James H. Power, of Ipswich, Mass.; a nephew; and the late Rev. Nellie Bernard of Bridgewater, Mass. and Mrs. Mary Power of Ipswich, Mass.
