

Corpus Christi Holy Name Event Had Great Crowd

The annual banquet of the Holy Name Society of Corpus Christi Church, held in the church hall on Wednesday evening this week, drew a capacity crowd, the largest in the history of the society. The men of the parish gave a great welcome to the Rt. Rev. John Francis O'Hern, D.D., Bishop of Rochester, former pastor of the church. It was the first social event in the parish he had attended since his consecration as Bishop of Rochester last March 19th, and his heart was warmed by the welcome he received. A fine sukkraut dinner was served, with loads of other good things. All former assistant priests at Corpus Christi Church were invited, and they made a fine-looking company. Included among them were the oldest living former assistant, the Rev. John B. Sullivan, pastor of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, and the Rev. F. William Stauder, rector of Holy Redeemer Church.

President O'Neill of the Holy Name Society welcomed everybody happily. The Rev. Charles R. Reynolds, vice-Chancellor of the Diocese, made a happy toastmaster. Harry J. Crowley, speaker of the evening, gave a splendid talk on "Catholic Education." Other speakers were the Rt. Rev. Magr. M. J. Nolan, Chancellor of the Diocese; Bishop O'Hern, Rev. John B. Sullivan, Rev. F. W. Stauder, Rev. Adolfo Gabiani, V.G., rector of the Church, gave a gracious talk at the close of the banquet.

A splendid entertainment was provided, the men of the parish cooked the dinner, the ladies of the parish served it, and all in all it was one of the largest, finest and happiest Holy Name banquets ever held in the City of Rochester.

Holy-Redeemer Sodality Party On February 28

The Sacred Heart Sodality of Holy Redeemer Church will hold its first card party of the year in Holy Redeemer Hall, corner Clifford and Hudson avenues, next Friday evening, February 28th, beginning at 8:15 o'clock. More than 75 prizes will be given, refreshments will be served and there will be a fine door prize. Admission will be only 50 cents, and a cordial invitation is extended to everybody to attend.

Mass Honoring Coronation Of Pope Pius Attended By Delegate and Diplomats

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
Washington, Feb. 21—His Excellency the Most Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore, two Bishops, 400 eminent representatives of the diplomatic corps, prominent members of the clergy and daily, and the entire professoriate and student body of the Catholic University of America, attended the solemn Mass celebration in the crypt of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, on the University campus, Feb. 12, in observance of the eighth anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XI.

The Rt. Rev. Magr. James H. Ryan, Rector of the Catholic University, was celebrant of the Mass. The Rev. Dr. Fulton J. Sheen preached the sermon.

Among those attending were: The Rt. Rev. John M. McNamara, Auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore; the Rt. Rev. Bishop Thomas J. Shahan, Secretary Emeritus of the Catholic University; the Rev. W. Coleman Nevin, S.J., President of Georgetown University; The Ambassador from France and Madame Chaudet; The Ambassador from Italy and Donna Antonietta de Martina; the Minister of the Irish Free State, Mr. M. W. White; the Minister from Yugoslavia, Dr. Leonida Pitanic; the First Secretary of the Cuban Embassy, Senor Don Pedro Rodriguez Capote; and Admiral and Mrs. William S. Benson.

Dr. Sheen began his sermon by calling attention to the presence at the Mass of two distinguished groups—the first group that of the Church and the other made up of Ambassadors, Ministers, etc.

"Both of us," he said, "those professionally engaged in the service of God, and those professionally engaged in the service of Caesar, have our own distinct set of obligations. For the Ambassadors of Christ and the Ambassadors of Governments move in different and yet relating spheres. If you distinguished men of state were to ask us what was our great problem, that is, the problem of the religious world, we would tell you that it is the problem of Church unity or the bringing of individual lives under the heading of Christ. If we were to ask you your great problem, you would probably tell us that it was that of bringing individual lives into the harmony of international peace. In other words, the problem of world unity.

"Is not the answer to both of our problems supplied in the very reason of coming together, namely, to testify our mutual love, loyalty and obedience to the Eleventh Pine whose coronation feast we are now celebrating? In the tribute to him and to the office he held, I shall, therefore, suggest as the burden of this conference that the office he holds as primate in the body of Christ, alone offers a solution to our respective problems of Church unity and World unity.

Organ Dedicated In St. Patrick's, New York City

New York, Feb. 21—A splendid new organ was dedicated in St. Patrick's Cathedral in this city last week. The organ cost $270,000 and is one of the best in America. More than 5,000 persons attended the dedication, and many more thousands were unable to obtain admission to the Cathedral, so crowded was it for the ceremony. For more than an hour before the ceremonies, ticket holders stood in a long line along Fifth Street awaiting admission and large crowds were turned away.

Shortly after 8 o'clock the procession of the priests began from the vestry, as the "Hymn to St. Cecilia," the patron saint of organists, was played on the Cathedral organ by Paolo Giugino. As the priests took their places on the main altar in the Cathedral College Choir, led by Leo de Hierapolis and Carl Schlegel, chanters, sang the "Laudate Dominum." After this hymn Cardinal Hayes blessed the new organ.

In dedicating the organ Cardinal Hayes said it had been installed through the generosity of the late John Whalen, an attorney, whose memoirs it had been provided. He declared that a great bond of friendship had existed between Mr. Whalen and the late Cardinal Hayes, rector of the cathedral.

Publisher Buys Mss. By Scott

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)
London, Feb. 21.—F. J. Sheehy, Catholic publisher and one of the leading editors in the Catholic League Gold movement here, pulled off a literary coup just before sailing for the United States by purchasing the unpublished Mss. of Sir Walter Scott's unfinished novel "The Suez of Malta."

Scott's centenary will be celebrated next year, and it is considered probable that Mr. Sheehy will act as a sponsor in Sheehy and Ward, Catholic publishers, will create a literary reputation by publishing the Mss. when revived interest in Scott will be at its height.

The Mss. has lain at Abbotsford, Scott's home, for many years, and Mr. Sheehy bought the literary treasure from Major-General Maxwell Scott, C. B., the present owner of Abbotsford, for what is stated to be the highest price ever paid for a Scott manuscript.

Mr. Sheehy himself became closely connected with the Scott family on his marriage to Miss Marie Ward.

CONNIE MACK

Some years ago Edward W. Bok, editor of the Ladies Home Journal, established a fund to pay $10,000 each year to the resident of Philadelphia who would render the "most outstanding service" to the city during the year. A few evenings a Miss prize was given to "Connie Mack—Cornelius McGillicuddy" for having won the world's championship in the baseball field with his Athletics. A group of prominent citizens took part in the presentation of the prize, and "Connie" smiled generously. He modestly disclaimed personal credit, and said his boys did the work.

Heretofore the prize has gone to the field of letters, art and science, but never to athletics. The recent death of Mr. Bok saddened the ceremony, and resulted in it being held privately, instead of publicly, as in the past. The conferring of the prize on "Connie" has been acclaimed throughout the country.

For Boy Scouts

The Rev. Joseph R. Koch, formerly of Rochester, is a U. S. Army Chaplain in the Philippines now, and he has formed a troop of native Scouts there. He is also chaplain of a young ladies' sodality, and is interested in other organizations.

Father Koch has been away from Rochester about 20 months now, but his people here frequently from him here.

Mrs. Charles K. Voelkl of 248 Herald Street is a sister, and Frank Koch, musician at the Rochester Journal-American, is a brother.

Father Koch is well known and has many friends in Rochester. He was educated at Nazareth Hall here, and in St. Bernard's Seminary, and 11 years ago was ordained to the priesthood at Denver, Col. He said his first high mass in his parish church, Holy Redeemer, in Rochester, N. Y., was celebrated in 1908.

He has always been interested in boys, their work, their pastimes and their organizations, and he is doing a splendid work with boys in the Philippines.

Methodist Board Starts Fight On Tobacco Advs.

Washington, Feb. 21—The Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Moral of the Methodist Episcopal Church is waging a war against cigarette advertising through its general secretary, Clarence True Wilson, and its research secretary, Deeds Pickitt.

Wilson's plan is to regulate tobacco advertisements through the prohibition of the Pure Foods and Drugs act.

"If the advertising of tobacco were to be," he said, "it is probable that within five years the number of tobacco users would decrease by half."

Shrine of Our Lady of Perpetual Help In Heart of City

In the heart of the business section of Rochester stands St. Joseph's Church. There are more beautiful churches in the diocese, but through out the city many a Catholic has a warm spot in his heart for old St. Joseph's. There is one reason in particular for this, because this church possesses the most famous and most popular shrine of our Blessed Mother in the city—the Shrine of Our Lady of Perpetual Help. The exquisite beauty of the shrine consists in its simplicity. The image of Our Lady of Perpetual Help is an exact copy of the miraculous picture, venerated in Rome, is borne aloft amid the clouds in the hands of angels. Only recently the Shrine and Our Lady's Chapel were redecorated, and a new lighting system, with bronze fixtures, installed. The moments were made thoughtful, sackcloth and genuflection of the hearts and patrons of Our Lady of Perpetual Help.

It is Wednesday afternoon. In the great theatre of Rochester the curtains raise at 3 o'clock. A crowd of house looks and listens, laughs and applauds the whole afternoon. At the very same hour there is another meeting on the next street—old men and women, bent with the weight of years, people crippled by disease of suffering from some malady, young men and women in the full bloom of health—one and all crowd about the Shrine of Our Lady of Perpetual Help to show her homage, to ask a favor, or to offer thanks. A hymn, sung by a Redemptorist Father, gives a short sermon and tells in simple language of the power, the beauty, the mercy and love of Mary. The people are blessed with a small copy of the miraculous picture, and the devotion is closed with the blessing of Our Lord in the Blessed Sacrament.

From Jesus, through Mary, success enters these hearts. Perhaps the glow of health returns to the cheek, dim eyes grow clear, or at least the grace of patient suffering and resignation to the will of God is poured into those hearts. There is nothing spectacular about the whole affair.

There is no advertising of a new program every week. Our Lady of Perpetual Help does not need a publicity agent. The favors she grants speak for themselves. God alone knows the many and wonderful graces and blessings that Mary dispenses among her children during these devotions. It is a perpetual joy, for these devotions are held every Wednesday at three o'clock. Exactly the Blessed Mother is well pleased with them. What these devotions were started only a few years ago, but now through the help of Mary and through the efforts of Father Thomey, a large crowd of tens every Wednesday. Each week notices are received, telling of cures and graces granted.

Not only on Wednesdays, but on any day at any hour you will find someone before the Shrine of Our Lady. It may be a group of little children, coming into say one Hall Mary and dash out again. It may be a gray-haired father begging help and protection for his family. Like another Monica, a broken-hearted mother may be pleading for the return of a wayward son or reckless daughter. Especially in the evening, when the day's work is done, when office doors are shut, when machines are silent, then clerks, mechanics, teachers, steamographers, men and women of every profession and trade, slip in for a moment before the shrine, and just say a few words of prayer to Mary. It is inspiring to see so many young men and women visiting the shrine. We hear so much about the youth of our day. But when you see young men and women, praying before the shrine, with hearts pulsing with love and devotion, you have nothing to worry about such girls and boys. We invite all to visit this Shrine of

Irish Castle Is Up For Sale By Benedictines

Galway, Ireland, Feb. 21—An multi-millionaire who wants a new castle in the Connemara district with Irish and Irish associations, can buy it from the Benedictine nuns who wish to sell Kilmore Castle, overlooking beautiful Kilmore Lough.

It is the former Irish west coast residence of the Duke of Manchester who carried Helen Zimmerman of Cincinnati. The Duke bought the castle for his daughter and son-in-law from the heirs of Mitchell Henry, a Manchester cotton millionaire, who built the gorgeous structure. The Duke Manchester then sold the place to Benedictine nuns, who used it as a school.

Mitchell Henry spent a fortune in the building and ornamentation of the castle and the laying out of its grounds. He also erected nearby what is considered the prettiest little church in Ireland, lined inside with Connemara marble.

The castle is of granite and, if it stands, cost more than $1,250,000 long before the World War when building values. To reproduce it today probably would require $3,500,000.

Close to the castle is Kilmore Lough at the foot of steep mountains, beautifully reflected on its surface. From the castle windows one may look south across the lake to one of the finest mountain panoramas in the British Isles.

In marshy ground between the castle and the main lough New Zealand flax was planted 30 years ago and it flourishes as it does almost anywhere in Ireland.

Town Once Seat Of Bigotry Elects Catholic Mayo

Somerville, Mass., Feb. 11—Somerville, in the confines of which bigotry destroyed the Ursuline convent nearly a century ago, a day known as the Charlestown outrage, for the first time in its 87 year existence, elected a Catholic as mayor. In the same election, also establishing precedents, Catholic candidates for the board of aldermen and another for the school board were victorious.

Somerville formerly was part of the city of Charlestown, where the Ursuline convent was founded in 1826, occupying a site on Mount Benedict. Eight years after its establishment, a mob of fanatics destroyed it. For fifty years the ruins of the convent were permitted to stand as a monument to the justice of its destroyers, and to the fact that religious bigotry refused to make restitution. Each year a committee of the State Legislature introduced a resolution to indemnify the Sisters, but the measure never passed. The property finally was sold.

The Catholic mayor who has just been elected is John J. Murphy. Other Catholics elected are Eric C. Carr and John J. Crowley, president and vice-president, respectively, of the board of alderman, and D. Francis J. Fitzpatrick, president of the school board. The invocation at the inauguration ceremony of the four was pronounced by the Rt. Rev. John B. Peterson, Auxiliary Bishop of Boston.

The Catholic Courier and Journal is the Official Catholic Paper of the Diocese of Rochester, Published in Rochester by Rochester People.
