Another member of the class, Maurice A. Feehey, of the Diocese of Albany, entered the Catholic Foreign Mission Society and will be ordained at Maryknoll, N. Y.

Fall River Diocese
William F. Donahue.
The ordination services are open to the public, but a certain number of pews will be reserved for friends of the Seminarians who are to be ordained.

The Gospel In Pictures For Sunday, May 25, 1930

"For the Father himself loveth you; because you have loveth Me." Christ during His public life often told of the love of the heavenly Father for His earthly children through stories. The story of the all-forgiving love of the Father of the Prodigal Son is a symbol of the great love of God the Father for us. It has also been the subject for many an artist's inspired treatment as is evident in this masterpiece.

"Ask and you shall receive that your joy may be full." Oftentimes throughout the Gospels, Christ bids us to ask for His love and favor as simply as a child would. Many beautiful paintings have been inspired by Christ's love for children. This masterpiece called "Ask and the Child" is one of the most popular.

Four $10,000 Pledges For St. Bonaventure's Made by Graduates

Hartford, Conn., Priest Heads the List with Generous Contribution to Help Rebuild Burned Buildings—Outlay of Nearly Two Million Dollars Will Be Necessary for College

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES TO BE HELD IN THE OPEN AIR AT COLLEGE, JUNE 10

St. Bonaventure, N. Y., May 23.—The historic buildings destroyed by fire on May 28th, the faculty of St. Bonaventure's College is busy making arrangements for "Commencement as usual" to be held on Tuesday, June 10th.

This will be the 70th commencement of the college. The exercises will be held for the first time, because of the results of the fire, in the open air, under the shadow of the burned buildings, but with all the customary ceremony of an indoor commencement. There is every prospect that there will be a record-breaking attendance of alumni of the institution who will revisit their Alma Mater in the hour of misfortune on the day the class of 1930 receive its diplomas.

White practically all the students of the college were sent home after the fire, because of the destruction of the big dining hall and other necessary buildings, the members of the Senior Class remained for final examinations. With the spirit characteristic of the institution, the seniors carried on and held their annual ball in Ocean on the evening of May 14th.

The graduating class of St. Bonaventure's (this year numbers over 100, besides those who will receive the degree of master of arts as well as the degree of bachelor of science. A number of graduates in the extension school will be given degrees including some 30 women.

Three $10,000 Pledges
Plans for the Jubilee enrollment in celebration of the 75th anniversary of the founding of the college are progressing. Already a number of the alumni have pledged substantial sums for the rebuilding of the structures destroyed by fire.

Leading the list of pledges is that of the Rev. Michael W. Barry of Hartford, Conn., who graduated from St. Bonaventure's in 1904 and who was honored by his Alma Mater in 1929 with the degree of Doctor of Laws. At a meeting of the representatives of the chapters of the Alumni Association held here some days ago, Dr. Barry offered to give $10,000 by July 1, 1930. It is also announced that other alumni would each give a similar amount. It was announced by the President of the college today that already three other pledges of $10,000 each had been secured.

Guild of Choirmasters, Organists and Teachers, To Be Organized in Diocese

A Guild of Choirmasters, Organists and Teachers of Music will soon be organized in the Diocese of Rochester for the purpose of aiding choirmasters throughout the Diocese in promoting Church Music, according to an announcement just made by Bishop O'Hern.

A letter from Bishop O'Hern was read in all churches of the Diocese last Sunday to the Clergy and Laity of the Diocese in the matter of Church Music. In this letter Bishop O'Hern tells how Pope Pius X issued a decree on Church Music more than a quarter of a century ago, and how in December 20, 1928, Pope Pius XI issued an Apostolic Constitution in which he stressed the importance of the value of proper liturgical music.

Sacred Music has always had an important part in the life and liturgy of the Church, Bishop O'Hern says, and there are three kinds of church music, he says, Gregorian Chant, classic Polyphony and Modern Music. Gregorian Chant is the church's own music and is superior to all other forms. Classic Polyphony is sung by many harmonized voices, and is considered ideal by the Church and by music critics. Modern Music furnishes compositions in no way unworthy of liturgical functions, the Bishop says. But great care must be taken in regard to its choice, and nothing should be used which savors of the theater or the concert hall. For instance, the Bishop says, the wedding marches of Mendelssohn and Wagner are noteworthy examples of secular and operatic music that should never be heard in a Catholic Church.

About Mixed Choirs
Touching on mixed choirs, the Bishop's letter says:
"The liturgical choir of the Catholic Church is made up of men or boys or of the combination of both. This represents the discipline of the Church for centuries. Men and women, of course, have the right and are expected to sing as members of the congregation in the pews, and such singing is always laudable and consistent with the earliest traditions of the Church. However, mixed choirs of men and women is only a concession granted by ecclesiastical authorities when the formation of the liturgical choir is impossible. Hence the matter of the liturgical choir is one which concerns every parish, in which an honor"

Chinese Ship Christened By Catholic Girl

(Fides Service)
Shanghai, China, May 23.—Miss Catherine Lo, daughter of the prominent Chinese Catholic philanthropist, Lo Pa Hong, christened the new motor ship "Yung-On" before its launching at Shanghai recently. The "Yung-On" and its sister-ship, the "Yung-Ping" are the most beautiful and most modern two vessels in Chinese water. Ecclesiastical, as well as commercial and political representatives, were present at the ceremony. The two boats are the property of the Dah-Zung Company, of which Lo Pa Hong is president.

The Dah-Zung Company, owned by Chinese stockholders, mostly non-Christian, is noted for its courtesy to Catholic missionaries, all of whom are transported free of charge and afforded every facility for the daily celebration of Mass. Operating between Shanghai and Hai-tchu and between Shanghai and Yung-tchu, it enjoys a high reputation in shipping circles.

Lo Pa Hong holds interests in several other Chinese corporations. A great part of his wealth is distributed in Catholic philanthropy, Mr. Lo himself being an ardent lay apostle.

Meet the Hierarchy

RT. REV. GERALD P. O'HARA
The Archbishop of Philadelphia is presided over by His Eminence Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, with the Rt. Rev. Gerald P. O'Hara as Auxiliary Bishop. This Diocese has more than 1,000 priests, 409 parishes; five seminaries, six colleges, 27 academies, five Diocesan high schools, 275 parish schools, and approximately 150,000 children receiving Catholic education. There are 8 Catholic hospitals and 13 orphan asylums. The Catholic population is close to 1,000,000 people.

Sources of Vice Listed by Woman in Bombay, India

(Fides Service)
Bombay, India, May 23.—In her maiden speech as the first woman member of the Bombay Legislative Council, Miss Ida M. Dickinson, well known Catholic social worker, cited nine causes for the excessive vice in this great Indian port city. These chief contributing factors, said Miss Dickinson, are: (1) difficulty on the part of young women in finding employment; (2) ill-paid work; (3) harsh treatment of girls at home; (4) promiscuous and indecent mode of living; (5) the young coming in contact with demoralized companions, especially in the mills and factories; (6) example of luxury, self-indulgence and loose manners by the rich; (7) demoralizing amusements; (8) profligacy and its agents; (9) alcoholism.

Miss Dickinson's speech before the legislature was made in her capacity as specialist for consultation in the suppression of commercialized vice in Bombay. A bill for vice suppression is before the legislature. If passed it will close the infamous "licensed area."

India's Fight For Freedom Does Not Affect the Church, Says Bishop Of Diocese Which is Home of Gandhi

(Fides Service)
Vatican City, May 23.—The agitation for independence now sweeping India is not affecting the Church in any direct way, states His Lordship Bishop Joseph Poll, O.M.C., of Allahabad, United Provinces, now in Rome. The Church tries to remain above all political questions, says His Lordship, and its recognition in the most sections as interested solely in the spiritual welfare of the people.

"It is true," said His Lordship, "that my see of Allahabad is a center of the independence movement and frequently the residence of Mahatma Gandhi. A prominent Indian approached me a short while ago and asked me what was the view of the Catholic Church toward the struggle for independence. I had to tell him that the Church seeks to fulfill her calling in every country of the globe and thrives under any form of government based on justice and freedom of worship."

"We are giving ourselves heart and soul to our work and to our people. The pride of my diocese is my schools, of which I have 14 with an average of 85% Catholic pupils. The Secretary of Education, the Honorable A. Panalal, took occasion to say to me recently: 'The Catholic schools are the best and the cheapest for the government. I can assure you that the civil authorities are convinced that your religious orders deserve well of the government of the United Provinces.'"

"A similar sentiment was expressed by a high official with whom I discussed recently the question of government aid. 'We know well,' he said, 'who work for the country and who work for their own pocket. We are happy to say that our major seminary, begun 10 years ago, has already graduated eight priests and will give us five more next year. Credit for this magnificent record belongs to the society of St. Peter the Apostle, which has provided the support.'"

The Diocese of Allahabad counts 11,000 Catholics in a total population of 27,000,000. It is thus one of the largest missions in the world. Bishop Poll plans a visit to the United States in the near future. He will return to his field in October.

Pope Receives American Group From Carthage

Vatican City, May 23.—A group of American pilgrims returning from the Eucharistic Congress at Carthage were received in audience by the Pope Saturday.

They included Dr. James J. Walsh, Catholic author, of New York; Rt. Rev. Msgr. John P. Childwick of New York, Rev. Edward J. Walsh of St. John's College, Brooklyn; Rt. Rev. Msgr. Eugene J. McGuinness of Chicago; Rt. Rev. Msgr. F. X. Ludeke of St. Anthony; Rt. Rev. Msgr. James W. Stenson of Omaha, Neb., and Rev. H. E. Buse of Northwood, Ohio.

Irish Singer

ALFORD O'SHEA
Familiar to radio audiences all over the country is the name of Alford O'Shea, who on May 7th gave a program of Irish music through the Paulist Station WLWL. He also sings over the National Broadcasting Chain.

Sothern Medal Won By Student Of Creighton U.

Omaha, Neb., May 23.—Damian C. Flynn, Creighton University student and a member of the cast of "Box and Cox," won the E. H. Sothern medal for individual excellence in acting at the collegiate theater tournament just conducted at Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill.

The award is the highest individual honor given to any student in the tournament.

If God gives you much to suffer, it is a sign that He would make a great saint of you.

"Journey's End" Will Be Played At Notre Dame

(Fides Service)
Notre Dame, Ind., May 23.—The dramatic play, which has run well over a year in New York City, will be presented by the University Theater, Notre Dame's student dramatic organization, on Friday evening, May 30, as a feature of the Eighty-sixth Commencement program of the University.

Its cast, composed entirely of men, makes it very adaptable to the University players. Prof. Frank Kelly, head of the department, made a special trip to New York to study the play as presented there.

Permission to use the play was secured with some difficulty and largely through the influence of alumni and friends of Notre Dame in the profession. The play promises to be one of the outstanding features of the program.

Priest To Attend The Canonization Of Father Jogues

Aurlesville, N. Y., May 23.—The Rev. Peter Cusick, S.J., former president of Canisius College, Buffalo, and now director of the Aurlesville shrine, will attend the ceremonies of canonization of Father Isaac Jogues, who suffered martyrdom here in 1644. Father Jogues and seven other North American Jesuit martyrs will be canonized in the Vatican City on June 29. Father Cusick will sail for Rome on June 1st.

When Father Cusick returns a mammoth celebration in honor of the canonization of Father Jogues will be held here, and thousands of pilgrims are expected to attend from all parts of the continent.

Jubilarian

RT. REV. VINCENT HUBER, O.S.B.
The Rt. Rev. Vincent Huber, O.S.B., abbot of St. Bede Abbey and President of St. Bede College, Peru, Ill., will celebrate the golden jubilee of his ordination to the priesthood on May 28th. He is a distinguished educator and a beloved character.

Says Religion Is An Antidote For Brigandage

Telanki, Kiangsi, China, May 23.—The spread of religion as an antidote for the scourge of brigandage in China was recommended by the local Mandarin on his recent visit to the Catholic Church at Telanki, Kiangsi.

"Diffuse religion, Father," he advised, "it is a good thing for the consolation of the people and an efficacious means to combat the increase of brigands."

Telanki, in the Vicariate Apostolic Nanchang, in care of the Vincentians, has been the scene of many outrages. Father Theodore Reynolds was recently captured by bandits here, robbed, forced to walk 20 miles, and finally liberated.

Catholic Summer School Will Open on June the 30th, With Father Duffy in Charge

Cliff Haven, N. Y., May 23.—The Catholic Summer School of America, incorporated by the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York, will open its 39th annual session at Cliff Haven, N. Y., June 30.

The Rev. Francis P. Duffy, D.D., famous war chaplain, is president of the school, and will have charge of its activities. The Rt. Rev. Joseph H. Conroy, D.D., Bishop of Ogdensburg, is honorary president, and he will give much time and thought to the work of the school, as he has in the past.

While the idea of summer institutes is not new to Catholic education, there are many who are not aware of the unusual opportunity provided at Cliff Haven for a combination of instruction in happy surroundings. The Summer School, briefly, is an assembly of Catholic clergy and laity, held during the summer months to foster intellectual culture in harmony with Christian faith, to learn to know one another better, to understand their strength, to enlarge the scope of their education, to get correct views upon the many important questions incident to Catholic life in our country and last but not least—to have a real vacation and all the fun that goes with it.

Head Humble Beginning
Thirty-nine years ago, in New London, Connecticut, this movement was inaugurated. It has since become a unique feature of Catholic educational life in America. A band of earnest and ardent men had conceived the idea of a Summer Institute devoted to the dissemination of knowledge in the form of lectures and discussions. In a spirit of modesty, commensurate alike to the plan and scope of the first gathering, the early founders named it a Summer School.

Foch's Memoirs to Be Published Immediately By An American Firm, Telling His Story of the World War

Paris, May 23.—The personal memoirs of Marshal Ferdinand Foch, Generalissimo of all the Allied armies in the World War, written by him during the last seven years of his life, will be published in the very near future by Doubleday, Doran & Co. of the United States, and by the firm of Plon of France. The memoirs contain 150,000 words, carefully written and carefully edited by the late Marshal. It had been planned not to publish them until 10 years after his death, but since his death so many articles have been published, claiming to have originated with him, and misrepresenting his views, that his widow has decided to publish the memoirs at once.

Explains Controversies
The Marshal deals fully with all his controversies with General Pershing, Marshal Haig and Georges Clemenceau and it will be found that his own account differs in some cases from those which have already been given to the public—in each case he explains his decisions and tells why he stuck to his own view or yielded to the opposing arguments.

The book will be illustrated with facsimile letters and orders not hitherto published, which will throw important light on some of the crises of the war and the rivalries of the leaders. Marshal Foch's meetings with General Pershing, their varying opinions and plans, their compromises—and conclusions and on the whole their united effort are the subject of many pages.

A Real Test
May Our Lord give thee the best of letters. Be patient, and kind to all things. If thou hast a heart that is anything, let it be for God. I shall know if thou art a man of God, if thou hast a heart that is anything, let it be for God. I shall know if thou art a man of God, if thou hast a heart that is anything, let it be for God. I shall know if thou art a man of God, if thou hast a heart that is anything, let it be for God.
