Pope to Exhibit Gifts Received In Jubilee Year

Vatican City, May 23.—An exposition of all the gifts received by Pope Pius XI during his Jubilee year will be held in the Vatican in June, when the jubilee year closes. Many of the big display rooms of the Vatican will be occupied by the thousands of presents from every part of the world.

The Pope himself will open the exposition. It is believed the display will rival that of 42 years ago, when Pope Leo XIII held an exposition of gifts received during his jubilee year.

Most of the presents, by express wish of the Pope, are destined to the missions. They run from portable altars to fountain pens, from saintly materials to agricultural machines and governments there are paintings, precious vases, rare books and the like. Most of them are accompanied by letters from the donors.

The cottage is one of several built for Canoe Place Inn. Major Warner, son-in-law of Governor Smith, and Mrs. Warner, it is said, will summer at Southampton.

New York Minister Hits Political Clergymen, and Says They Are Losing Faith

New York, May 23.—The Rev. Seiden P. Delany, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Mary the Virgin, 16th Street, near Broadway, made sharp criticism in a sermon Sunday of the meddling of the Church in politics and the use of the Church as an instrument for the incitement of social and political passions, including prohibition. It is this practice, he said, which is responsible for the falling off in church attendance. The laity, he said, are not simple-minded infants who need to have their political duties laddered out to them from the pulpit like milk.

No Business of the Church
"Politics is not the business of the Church," Dr. Delany said. "The Church would have quite enough to do if she minded her own business, which is to teach the faith, comfort the sinners, instruct the young, give moral and spiritual guidance to the faithful, maintain the public worship of God in the beauty of holiness and administer the sacraments. The spectacle of Bishops embroiling themselves in a political campaign and administering campaign funds with or without the help of unethical shop operations—is a spectacle that must make the angels weep."

"This sort of preaching is often accompanied by taking up a collection for the Anti-Saloon League," Dr. Delany added.

Other Substances, Too
"What is true of prohibition is true also of many other social, economic and political problems which have no place in the pulpit," Dr. Delany maintained, mentioning, among others, pacifism, reduction of they will find their money well spent," said Chairman Rossenbach recently, in commenting on the affair.

Stage Is All Set For the Rochester Regiment Smoker

A variety program has been arranged for the smoker, including boules, wrestling, sleight of hand performance, singing and other amusements. The first Regimental Band, under the direction of William C. Schwab, will entertain by playing some popular numbers before and after the show.

"Here is a chance for all members of Rochester Regiment to support a smoker, and all should endeavor to be present at this event," said Chairman Rossenbach. "Some of our members are always asking why the Regiment never does anything to stimulate interest and good fellowship among our members, so here is a chance to get together and help out the smoker across and show the committee in charge just what the membership wants in the entertainment line, so that, in the future, they can promote forms of entertainment satisfactory to the greatest number of our members."

The following committee is in charge of the smoker:
General Chairman, William H. Rossenbach; Colonel Joseph H. Wels; General Frank H. Bid; Majors Frederick J. Weisman and Frederick J. Kunz; Paymaster William H. Warti; Joseph F. Wendelbass; Raymond J. Crombach; Thomas J. Mostyn; Albert A. Goldbach; John Hess; Joseph J. Keller; John Bach and Killian Eckert.

Tickets are in the hands of all the commandery captains, members of the committee and others, and all are asked to get tickets early, as a capacity house is expected. All members and friends are invited to attend this smoker.

Chicago Group Plans To Fight All Intolerance

- To fight intolerance.
- Against American membership of the League of Nations.
- Against Special and Constitutionalism.

Father Dan's Column

(This week Father Dan introduces a break in the continued story, Catherine Brannan, Dr. Ross, and our young readers the story of Bobby's Easter. Next week we shall return to our regular story.)

Bobby's Easter

Bobby Warren sat by the window in his little wheel chair. His wistful eyes traversed the street whose quiet springtime peace was pleasantly disturbed by childish laughter. Here and there he saw an old playmate and now and then a new face. All tempted him; he wanted to be out there among them—happy and joyous with the rest. But since his accident the winter before, his little legs refused to hold his small body, and he was consigned to that wooden thing that held him from the outer world and tightened its cruel wooden clamps on his little heart.

Terry, his dog and pal, saw the wistful look, and getting up from his place at the other window, came over and laid his head between Bobby's listless fingers, and tried to make him feel his "dog" sympathy as best he could. Bobby seemed to understand, for he bent his head and laid his cheek against one soft brown ear.

They remained thus until a sudden ringing of the doorbell brought Bobby's head up sharply, and set Terry to listening, both ears pointed.

It was the doctor. Bobby loved the kindly, bearded man whose gentle hands tried to make it easier for the "poor little chap," as he called him. He came in with a cheer. "Hello, Sport, how's the boy today?" Bobby smiled. It was the first time that day; and Terry's ears were raised as he gave a soft croon of joy.

"Is a right, doctor—'er."

"Good boy. Now let's see that leg of yours." Now let's see that leg of yours. After the examination, the doctor stepped into the hall.

"Mr. Warren," he said gravely, "I have the presumption to hope that if we can have Professor Lee held here to examine our Bobby, he may do something for him. But it costs—ahem—quite a sum of money."

"Yes, I know, doctor. I'm afraid we'll have to wait."

"Waiting means lessening the chance of recovery, my dear woman
